News From County Towns

ROCK HALL

On the subject, "The Power of God's Word," Parson Revelle preached a most excellent sermon last Sunday morning.

The oystering industry has taken on considerable activity this week.

Willis Durding has purchased the Casey property and rumor has it that an up-to-date clothing emporium will be established here in the near future.

Joel Smith is having a commodious dwelling erected here and will become a resident of the town.

John Ayres, of Baltimore, was a week-end and Sunday guest of his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Crew, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hague and children, of Lynch, were Sunday guests of relatives and friends in this section.

The M. E. Society are about to lay a stone pavement around the church and parsonage property. This improvement has for a long time been a great need.

Projectiles from the big guns at Aberdeen were easily distinguishable last Friday as they went screaming through the air on their way to Annapolis. Bombs filled with high explosives shook the houses of the town and kept many nerves on the jump. The detonations and reverberations were often startling.

Rev. and Mrs. Charles H. Reed are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter at the M. P. parsonage.

Mrs. Frank Akers, her son, Roden Akers, and daughter, Miss Louise Akers, visited Baltimore last week and were present at the celebration of the seventy-sixth anniversary of Mrs. Akers' mother, Mrs. Louise Rodenhi, on the 28th. All the twelve children and 17 grandchildren were present together with the sons, and daughttrs-in-law and Hillry Akers. It was a complete surprise.

Mrs. Sarah Crosby is to have some repairs and porches added to her dwelling.

William Wagner will have a dwelling erected on a lot purchased by him some time ago.

The Kaufmann Construction Company is laying cement sidewalks past the dwellings of Joseph Downey, Sr. and Jr. and in front of the M. E. Church property.

J. A. Urie has on display in his new store a 16 inch model of a sea going tug, the handiwork of Eugene Willson, that seems to be very complete, having a pilot at the wheel in the pilot house, whistle, bell propeller, smoke stack, snub posts, spars and rigging. The American shipping is indicated by an eagle; "W" on the smoke stack for the Willson Line and the name, "J. A. Urie," for the owner. She is fitted with a radio apparatus and the whole tastefully painted.

Be sure to get your transfer if you have removed from one district or precinct to another. Next Tuesday is the only chance.

Why Worry About Your Coal Supply This Winter

One of the greatest labor-saving and home comfort inventions of recent years is the oil-gas burner that enables one to use common coal oil or cheap distillate for heating or cooking. The coal shortage of the past few years has set the minds of the public and the heating experts upon the problem of securing a cheap practical fuel to replace coal, and the present Oliver Oil-Gas Burner has been found to be very satisfactory.

Now there is a burner to suit all makes of furnaces and cooking and heating stoves. Railways, steamship companies and many home owners and industrial plants are using oil-gas burners with great satisfaction. The fuel cost alone is about the same as coal, but there is a great saving in many other ways. The oil takes up about one-tenth the space and weight of coal for an equal amount of heat, and the heat can be controlled and maintained at the desired temperature a great deal more readily with the oil. In the home there is a saving in health comfort, cleanliness, freedom from worry and the drudgery of shoveling coal, keeping the fires fed and carrying out ashes. The oil-gas burner furnishes a steady, safe, clean, odorless heat supply at the turn of a valve.

The use of coal is never very satisfactory, even when cheap and plentiful. Big laundry bills, soiled walls, and a layer of coal dust are always present. The temperature inside is never constant. You build up a big fire and the house becomes unbearably hot. The fire dies down, the temperature falls, the house becomes chilly, then you build it up again. The house is never the proper temperature. This breeds colds, sickness, sometimes pneumonia, particularly when children are subjected to these conditions.

Why go through the same unpleasant situation this year that you have in the past? Why get up at dawn in a freezing house and go down to shake up the fire and shovel coal, and then stand around and shiver while you wait for the heat to come up. Why bother hauling out ashes and mess around sifting them. Why let some janitor be a master whom you must plead with for service? Why let your wife struggle with the work and dirt of shoveling coal onto a stubborn fire. Think of the hours you take from your business and pleasures struggling with coal fires. There are no moving parts to the Oliver; no motors; the fuel is fed to the burner by gravity and not forced into it, (pressure is what causes the noise in an oil burner), so that you can now secure a scientifically correct, absolutely safe, practically noiseless and efficient oil burner at a price so low that it will amaze you. Now is the time to install your Oliver. Hundreds of thousands of homes are already equipped with Olivers, and giving perfect satisfaction. Thousands more will be installed during the next few months. You will install one some day yourself. You might as well start getting the benefits now. To delay will only make you regret that much more that you did not install it sooner. Write or phone for prices and description or a practical demonstration in your home to O. B. BURRELL, District Agent, Galena, Md.
