Only four more weeks before Christmas. Make up your mind now that you are going to spend all your dollars this year with Kent merchants. Our local business houses are prepared to carry large Christmas stocks. Their goods are as good, and their prices as low, as can be found in any of the big cities, and they deserve the support of all local shoppers.

An unfortunate accident occured at Emmanuel P. E. Church when the janitor unknowingly allowed all the water to drain out of the boilers while a hot fire was going in the furnace, ruining the boiler plates and necessitating the purchase of several sections of furnace. The ruined furnace had not been installed more than three weeks. It cost between $200 and $300 to replace the burned sections. Mr. Ryckman has been engaged as section.

The suit of Edward Lambert, mail clerk on thet Delaware and Chesapeake branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who asked $10,000 for injuries received on January 17, 1921, in attempting to board his car at Easton, was tried before a jury on Thursday. The court heard the prayers of the attorneys and, when it convened Saturday, took this case from the jury on the grounds of insufficient evidence to substantiate Lambert's claim. Mr. Lambert is from Chestertown and well known here.

The new postmaster at Millington is Spencer Stevens.

Thieves broke into L. A. Pennington's store at Kennedyville recently and robbed him of hinges, several kegs of nails, etc., Urieville Mill was also robbed of window frames and other parts of the building.

George E. Sutton arrived home last week from a circuit of races with three horses—Princess D., Lila Dellum, a 3-year-old trotter, and Miss Auction a 4-year-old pacer. Princess D. is a jewel. She entered 16 races and either came in first, second or third. She got a part of the money in every race winning $1800 for her owner. In 1922 she won $1400. At the beginning of the season her record was 2.17¼ and at the close only one second less, 2.16¼. She paced as low as 2.10 in one race.

Work on the addition to the Voshell House has been suspended pending decision of the Circuit Court in the matter of injunction proceedings instituted by the town commissioners. The point at issue is the street line of High street. The commissioners claim that the new structure projects over the building line several feet, while Mr. Eshman, proprietor of the hotel, insists upon his right to occupy the same ground that his been enclosed for more than fifty years.

As a special inducement to buy a range during the exhibit of the Great Majestic Range at the store of W. A. Hyland, Galena, December 3 to 8, every purchaser of one of these famous ranges gets his choice of two fine cooking sets free. We have a presentment that there are going to be many fine new Majestic Ranges in the kitchens of our neighbors and friends before the week is over. The temptation to own a Majestic is irresistible when one learns the facts about Great Majestic in its relations to economy in the home; many will find themselves saying it's no use to put up with an old range any longer.

Thought for the Day.

WARM WELCOME AND FOND ADIEW

A banquet was given Friday night at the Voshell House by the Business Men's Association, in honor of T. D. Bowers, retiring postmaster of the town, and John N. Bennett, who recently assumed charge of the office as acting postmaster. About 50 persons were present and Proprietor Eshman served a fine dinner.

Lawrence G. Brown, president of the association, presided and introduced Rev. N. O. Gibson, pastor of Christ M. P. Church, as the toastmaster. Rev. Mr. Gibson was asked to speak on the subject of "Fellowship." State Senator W. B. Copper spoke of the work of Mr. Bowers during his administration of the office, to which Mr. Bowers made response. William Frazier Russell, Jr., Esq., spoke of the life and business activity of the new postmaster, to which Mr. Bennett made a fitting reply, promising the people of Chestertown to use his best efforts to administer the affairs of the office in the interest of the people as well as the government. Dr. Paul E. Tittsworth, president of Washington College, spoke on the subject, "Chestertown As I See It."

Get More High Priced Eggs From Your Flock

We have made practical tests of feeding hens for eggs with our

"Cornell Brand Laying Mash"

And the results have been better than we had hoped for.

CORNELL BRAND BUTTERMILK LAYING MASH is prepared according to the latest scientific methods, containing all the necessary requirements for egg production, and costs but little more than the cheapest mixture that can be made, but as an egg producer and health promoter, it is worth more than double the cost of the majority of mash feeds being fed to-day.

Other Poultry Feeds are:
SCRATCH FEED
BEEF SCRAPS
GRIT
CRUSHED SHELL

We have a large line of
POULTRY FEEDERS
DRINKING FOUNTAINS
