growers of fruits, berries, and all kinds of vegetables, know that the largest yields and best quality are produced by the liberal use of fertilizers containing at least 10% of

Without the liberal use of Potash on sandy soils, it is impossible to grow fruits, berries and vegetables of a quality that will command the best prices.

All about Potash—the results of its use by actual experiment on the best farms in the United States—is told in a little book which we publish and will gladly mail free to any farmer in America who will write for it.

Thoughts for the Thoughtful.

After all, our worst misfortunes seldom happen, and most of the miseries of existence lie in anticipation.

The man who is not influenced by wicked motives in his own actions, is not likely to suspect others of acting from bad motives unless there is conclusive evidence that it is so.

A man should be niggardly in making promises, but generous in their fulfilment. Unredeemed promises are like unredeemed pledges—they so accumulate interest as soon to be irredeemable.

We learn wisdom from failure much more than from success; we often discover what will do by finding out what will not do; and probably he who never made a mistake, never made a discovery.

In hearing trouble of every kind, the moral qualities of fortitude, endurance, patience, resignation, are all-sufficient. Those who possess and exercise these valuable characteristics are far better fitted to cope with misfortune, and to rally from it, than those who are deficient in them.

People who work hard, either mentally, or physically, who are in any way overtaxed, or exhausted by effort of any kind, must in some way restore the nervous balance; and in no way is this so readily and satisfactorily done as by long continued and undisturbed sleep, if the individual can indulge in it.

A wise man would rather be envied for providence than pitied for prodigality. Revenge barks only at the stars, and spite spurns at that she cannot reach. An envious man waxeth lean with the fatness of his neighbors. Envy is the daughter of pride, the author of murder and revenge, the beginner of secret sedition, and the perpetual tormentor of virtue.

Tomorrow is not for us to rejoice in or to fear. It may never come to us, and if it comes, what it brings may be very different from what we expected. Sufficient unto the day are the evil thereof, and the good thereof. However trying to-day may be, and to-morrow, may be, without trials. However joyous may be to day, to-morrow may be far better.

There is no royal road to anything that is truly valuable—least of all to a fine and noble character. No sudden resolve, or single effort, however strenuous, can acquire it; only the gradual and continued upward striving of day after day, and year after year. Indeed, the end itself is comprised in the means, for character is not a fixed condition, but a continuous growth in the right direction.

Some people hold on with tenacity to old truths, and preconceived opinions, but have no welcome for new ideas, and fresh thoughts. Others let go without a pang what they have hitherto believed, and eagerly grasp ideas that have only the recommendation of novelty. But these forget that new truth is continually being born out of that which is old, but that truth, new or old never dies. Forms and symbols that conveyed it drop away when no longer needed, but the essence they conveyed, remains to enrich mankind.

Without a Peer—Works Miracles.—Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is without a peer. This great remedy relieves instantly the most aggressive and distressing forms of heart disease. It is the surest and quickest acting formula known to medical science and thousands of times has the grim destroyer been stayed by its use. If there is Palpitation, Shortness of Breath, Pain Left Side, Smothering Sensation, don't delay or you may be counted in the long list of those who have gone over to the great majority, because the best remedy in the world today was not promptly used.—17. For sale by C. F. Stam and M. A. Toulson.

Success Through Advertising.—Jubilee Lipton, who has made $50,000,000 in the grocery business in 20 years, and who has just departed from our shores after a tour of the United States, attributes his success to printers' ink, employed in the advertising columns of the newspapers. It is his opinion that one might as well undertake to run a store in a tunnel as to try to do business without appealing to the public through the press.
