LIGHTNING CASUALTIES.

Cows and Horses Killed and Narrow Escape of Farm Hands.

During the storm of Thursday, about four o'clock in the afternoon, lightning killed a cow for Mr. R. G. Nicholson which cost him $125, and knocked another down without serious injury. The cow killed was a registered Holstein and was insured in the W. H. McFeely agency for $50. During the same storm a horse was killed for Mr. John Silcox, in Still Pond, and a horse belonging to J. W. Ivens, on the Geekie farm in Worton. At the latter place the hands had taken refuge in the stable loft out of the rain, and the lightning struck and killed the animal in the room below! Mr. Biglow, at the Flatland school house, had a chicken killed and fence knocked down.

UNFORTUNATE SHOOTING.

Town Officers Mistake Mr. Enoch Roland and Shoot Him for a Burglar.

OFFICER DILL HELD IN $500 BAIL.

A most unfortunate shooting affair occurred last Sunday morning about 2 o'clock on the streets of Chestertown, in which Mr. Enoch Roland, Jr., of the firm of Roland Bros., butchers, made a very narrow escape with his life. Mr. Roland resides with his sister, who is the widow of the late W. T. Matthews, on Cross street and Maple Avenue, and was hurrying down Maple avenue after Dr. Hines to attend the little boy whose death is noted elsewhere, when he was fired upon by Constable Dill and Town Officer Cooper. We give below the statement of each of the parties:

Mr. Roland says he left his house in a slow run or a little faster than a walk, buttoning his clothes as he ran. He had scarcely turned down Maple avenue when he heard the officers call upon him to halt, he did so, saying "what do you fellows want with me?" receiving no reply he hurried on and had gone only a few yards when two pistol shots were fired almost simultaneously. He continued running however and had not quite reached the corner of Queen street when the third shot was fired the ball from which pierced his arm. He immediately stopped and turned toward his pursuers, Constable Dill was the nearer to him, being about fifty feet from him; a few yards behind was Officer Cooper. As Mr. Roland turned around he observed Officer Dill halt for an instant and put his pistol in his pocket. The two officers then approached him and placed their hands on his shoulders. He said to them "you men have shot me," they asked him if he was hurt bad, and he replied that he did not know how bad he was hurt but he was after a doctor and had no time to fool with them. He then went on to Dr. Hines' home. Officer Cooper accompanied him to the doctor's and also to his home where he examined his wound. Mr. Roland says when he left the house several rooms were lighted and the whole household was astir. The electric lights on the streets were burning and it was almost as light as day. When he was shot he was almost directly under the glare of the electric light near the M. P. parsonage and as he turned toward the officers he easily recognized them.

Officer Cooper says that he and Constable Dill were standing on Cross street alley near Lofland's slaughter house when they heard a commotion in Mrs. Matthews' home. They started toward the point from which the noise came and saw a man run off the porch and dash down Maple avenue. The officers followed quickly calling to the man to halt. To this command no attention was paid, at least, he did not see the man (who proved to be Mr. Roland) stop nor hear him make any reply. When the officers reached the corner of Cross street and Maple avenue, Mr. Roland was about opposite Mr. Armstrong's stables, which is possibly one-third of the distance between Cross and Queen streets. Cooper says he was then a little in the rear of Dill, being somewhat impeded in running by having to clasp one hand over his club to hold it in his belt and the other hand over his pistol to keep it from jolting out of his pocket. Having reached the corner and seeing the man still fleeing he pulled his pistol from his pocket and fired in the air. Constable Dill also fired almost at the same instance and from the flash of Dill's pistol Cooper says he thinks that shot was also fired in the air. The Officers continued pursuit, Cooper still in the rear, with Dill almost in a direct line between him and Mr. Roland. A third shot was fired when the latter had nearly reached the corner of Queen street. Cooper says he did not see the flash of this shot. He fired only once and that in the air at the time that the two shots were fired.

Mr. Geo. W. Dill, constable, makes the following statement: "I am not emyloyed by the town but as an officer I am out nearly every Saturday night. On this occasion I was at the Perkins lane with Bailiff Cooper looking after disturbances there when our attention was first called to a door slamming and a woman's scream. We didn't know where the scream came from but at that moment noticed a man run off Mrs. Matthews' porch and down Maple avenue We immediately ran after him calling to him "halt." He kept on running and after repeated calls I fired into the ground at least fifty yards behind him. Bailiff Cooper fired the second shot after again calling to the man to halt. Don't know but that two shots were fired by Cooper. A ball struck Mr. Roland in the left arm making a slight flesh wound. Mr. Roland stopped and explained his mission and we were terribly taken back by the mistake. We went with Mr. R. to Dr. Hines' office.

Mr Roland's wound happened not to be serious and Dr. Hines dressed it. The officers expressed great sorrow at the unfortunate affair and said it was altogether a mistake. Mr. Roland, however, is not satisfied with the explanation and thinks the shooting an inexcusable blunder. He certainly made a very narrow escape with his life.

Mr. Roland appeared before Justice Wilkins yesterday and charged Dill with assault with intent to kill, and the officer was held in $500 bail for a further hearing. Officer Dill has employed Messrs. Hynson and Beck as his counsel.

WHEAT YIELDS IN KENT.

Some Good and Many Poor—What Is An Average Yield?

Wheat threshing in Kent has been pretty general the past ten days, and many farmers report satisfactory yields. Among those who have finished threshing we have the following good yields reported, in addition to those noted by correspondents:

Harry Hepbron, on the L. Hepbron farm, Lynch's, 27½ bushels per acre on twenty-nine acres.

N. Clark, on Mrs. Melvin's Morgnec farm, 25 bushels per acre.

"Doc" Will Cooper, on the Hynson Fairlee farm, 5,700 bushels on 175 acres, 32 bushels per acre.

Samuel Mann, on J. W. Chapman's Lynch's farm, 25 bushels per acre on ninety-eight acres.

Wm. DeFord, from the Faithful farm, in Queen Anne's, got 1064 bushels from fifty acres.

Mr. Joseph G. Trew, on Mr. Thos. G. Wroth's farm, near town, gets nearly 30 bushels per acre on fifty acres.

John P. Nicholson, Esq., near Fairlee, got over 23 bushels per acre.

Mr. Cornelius Hadaway, Quaker Neck, got 40 bushels from one and a-half seeding of the new Eclipse wheat.

Mr. Albert Price, on the Wm Knight farm, got an average of 32 bushels per acre on forty acres.

Mr. Spencer Comegys got 40 bushels per acre.

Mr. John E. Morris, on Mr. S. Vannort's Lankford farm, got about 28 bushels per acre on one hundred acres.

Mr. Leonard Price, on the Wethered farm, Turner's creek, got an average of 24 bushels on one hundred acres. One field gave him 30 bushels per acre.

Mr. Thomas Bradley, on the Beeks farm, Still Pond, got 25 bushels per acre.

Mr. Albert Jervis, on the Hill farm, in Still Pond, got about 1200 bushels—a good yield.

We give only good yields. We have heard of some poor crops also. One farmer got 1100 bushels when he expected 1800. Another's crop was one-half short.

Mr. T. W. Eliason, who owns over three thousand acres of land in Kent—most of it first-class—is never satisfied with a wheat yield of less than 22 bushels per acre. He reports that his average for this season will hardly reach that. Year before last a number of his farms yielded over 30 bushels per acre. From Fairlee farm he got 6,800 bushels on 200 acres. The Groves farm, in Quaker Neck, the same year gave him 30 bushels per acre.

The average yield of wheat in Kent this year will be from 14 to 16 bushels per acre.

THE Centreville Observer gave notice in its last issue of the abolition of the carrier system. The Record has taken the same action. It is a move in the right direction.

MR. THOMAS D. BOWERS, Chestertown, Md.

Dear Sir: I nominate Mr. Chas. S. Smith's little daughter, Ida, to unveil the fountain, and enclose herein ten tickets to be voted for her. She is a dainty little maiden and will do the work to perfection.

Yours respectfully, FRIEND.

Chestertown, Md., July 6, 1899.

To the Editors of KENT NEWS:

As one of those interested in the successful unveiling of the new fountain, it seems to me each town or district should vote for two or more young ladies to have the honor of dividing the flags which disclose its beauty on the day to be named. They may be young ladies. I suggest Miss Clare Vannort and Miss Sallie Beck—or two Misses, say Miss Miriam Hubbard and Miss Carolene Hynson. I enclose you herein one dollar for twenty votes for Miss Carolene Hynson. Next!

IMPROVEMENT.

ALL members of the Ladies' Improvement Society are requested to meet at Mrs. Wm. J. Vannort's on Water Street this Saturday evening at 7.30 o'clock, for the purpose of discussing the unveiling of the fountain and other matters of interest.

FAIRLEE NOTES.

The fourth passed off gloriously, though quietly, in our neighborhood. A great many teams passed through enroute to Tolchester where many congregated.

One of the very neatest and most substantial wire fences has been erected along the road line of the Tulip Forest farm, one of the finest and most eligibly located farms in Kent county. Two gateways, with very pretty gates, break the line in two parts over one-fourth mile each.

The farmers with us are well advanced with their wheat threshing and better weather could scarcely be had for "gleaning."

Mr. John Gibson is reported as having rented Mr. Willson's farm, to be vacated by Mr. Walter Stokes at the end of the year and who will move on Chantilly Nest.

Miss Ida Hudson, Worton, visited Miss Alice N. Kendall this week

Six complete and up-to-date threshing outfits—Mr W. E. Keyser, a brand new one, Mr. Morris Bramble, two; "machinery king," Mr. Walter Sparks, two, and Mr. Archie Ramage one, started out from our village and they are all busy yet.

Mr. J. Frank Leaverton, with his family in a carriage, was run into by a team without a driver. The carriage was demolished and some of the occupants badly hurt. Mrs. Leaverton sustained a fractured collar bone.

Mr. Howard Anderson, of Baltimore, is visiting his sister, Mrs Geo. Hudson, near town.

The golden rod is in bloom and the marketing of asparagus is ended.

A PUBLIC MEETING of the "Father Martin Branch" of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions, will be held at Christ Church (I. U.) on Wednesday, July 12, at 3 P. M. The Diocesan President will be present and deliver an address. A full attendance of the auxiliary members is desired, also of the congregation generally.
