A CARD.

Special mention is made by the Architect of the fine new builining of Mr. W. W. Hubbard, in Chestertown, Md, of the Ruberoid Roofing as a proper roofing material, as it is fire resisting, easily laid, needs no paint or coating, oderless; is said to outlast shingles, tin, steel and felt; cost no more than a fair good shingle roof and has a grand appearance. Mr. Frank Duyer has just completed the laying of nearly 10,000 square feet of Ruberoid Roofing for me on the large new storage building of the peach basket firm of Crane, Hynson & Valliant and I invite everybody to view and examine this roof. By permission, I refer all interested to above named party. Samples of roofing and quotations furnished by Mail on request by

OLD AND NEW FRIENDS.

Make new friends, but keep the old:
Those are silver, these are gold.
New made friends, like new wine,
Age will mellow and refine.
Friendships that have stood the test.
Time and change, are surely best.
Brow may wrinkle, hair turn gray,
Friendship never owns decay;
For 'mid old friends kind and true
We once more our youth renew.
But, alas! old friends must die—
New friends must their place supply;
Then cherish friendship in your breast.
New is good, but old is best.
Make new friends, but keep the old;
Those are silver, these are gold.
—New York Tribune.

HE GREASED HORSES TEETH.

How a Priest Suggested a Sin to the Hostler.

In England they say "gamekeeper is a poacher turned outside in, and a poacher a gamekeeper turned inside out." Thus describing the methods of poachers is rather apt to make poachers of those who have been honest anglers.

Some time ago the Fishing Gazette described how fish were "foxed" by a drug, and forthwith there came inquiries as to how the thing was made and used. This suggests the ostler's confession. He poured into the ear of the priest a catalogue of sins and came to a dead stop. "Have you never greased the teeth of travelers' horses to prevent them eating their oats?" asked the priest. "No," said the osler with pious horror. "I have never done that!"

Next time the ostler came to confession "greasing horses' teeth" was the first crime he asked pardon for. "Why, you told me you never did that," said the priest. "I never knew of the dodge until your reverence told me of it," was the unabashed reply.—London Fishing Gazette.

A HUMAN INCUBATOR.

The Kentucky housewife has found a new use for the lord of creation. "John Filson," says the Winchester Democrat, "is the proud father of 44 little chickens but much of the credit for the result is due his wife. Filson has been ill with fever, so she decided to utilize him as an incubator. She borrowed the eggs and placed them about his body. Only 4 failed to produce chickens." A distinguished poet once wrote something about woman, whom in our hours of ease we find coy, uncertain, hard to please—but in our hours of anguish a ministering angel. No doubt this gude wife in the old Kentucky home was as angelic during her lord's illness as a creature without wings can be. She bathed his fevered brow, cheered and comforted him and ministered most beautifully and unselfishly to his wants. But she was evidently a matron with an eye to business. Perhaps she had learned the virtue of economy and abhorred the wilful waste which leads to woeful want. It pained her, of course, that her lord should have a burning fever, but if he must be sick that way, she concluded, no doubt, that it would be sinful not to make practical use of the caloric he generated. Hence the incubator idea. What an inspiring spectacle the invalid must have presented during his convalescence when he was hatching out the eggs which his thrifty wife had borrowed for the occasion! How proud he must feel of this brood! Sweet, says the poet, are the uses of adversity. If John Filson had not been taken sick with fever his family might not have had a chicken to eat this year. Still it is not probable, even in this utilitarian age, that the fever-stricken sufferers will generally be utilized as incubators. No man likes to perform the functions of a sitting hen. Ministering angels ought not to convert the invalid's couch into a hen's nest—not even when the "old man" is good for nothing except hatching chickens.

Canoe Voyage From Hampton Roads.

After a stormy trip of five days in a canoe Messrs. Harry Blackiston and William R. Kay, of Hampton, Va., arrived at Rock Hall on Tuesday. They sailed up to deliver a large canoe to Mr. P. A. M. Brooks, of Chestertown, bringing with them another canoe in which to return. The amateur watermen sailed out of Hampton Roads on the morning of July 4. Severe storms and rough weather forced them to seek harbor, and so delayed their arrival that they sailed direct to Rock Hall, where Mr. Brooks met them. The canoe purchased by Mr. Brooks is of the "down-the-bay type," has graceful lines, and promises to be one of the fastest of the Chester river fleet.

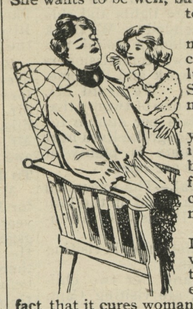
"Shut your eyes, open your mouth and see what luck will bring you."

The mother smiles at the childish game, and doesn't realize that it is a game she as a woman has perhaps played for a great many years.

Many a woman is weak and sick, nervous and discouraged. She suffers from headache, backache and other ills. She wants to be well, but all she does is to shut her eyes and open her mouth for medicine and trust to luck for results. She "doctors" month after month, often year after year, in this same blind, hap-hazard fashion, and receives no permanent benefit.



Women take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription with their eyes open to the fact that it cures womanly ills. It cures irregularity. It dries debilitating drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. There is no trusting to luck by those who use "Favorite Prescription."

"My disease was displacement and ulceration of the uterus, and I was in a terrible condition with pain and weakness and had given up all hopes of ever being well again," writes Mrs. Harry A. Brown, of Orono, Penobscot Co., Me. "Had doctored with four different doctors within four months, and instead of getting better was growing weaker all the time. I decided to try your 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' as I had heard of the many cures resulting from their use. I bought five bottles and felt so much better after taking them that I kept on until I am as well as ever in my life, and to Dr. Pierce all the praise is due. I cannot say enough in favor of his medicines. Before I began taking your medicines I only weighed one hundred and twenty pounds. I now weigh one hundred and sixty pounds. I gained forty pounds in six months. I shall doctor no more with home doctors, as it is only waste of money. I am now in perfect health, thanks to Dr. Pierce."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets clear the muddy complexion.

HOUSEWORK

Too much housework wrecks women's nerves. And the constant care of children, day and night, is often too trying for even a strong woman. A haggard face tells the story of the overworked housewife and mother. Deranged menses, leucorrhœa and falling of the womb result from overwork. Every housewife needs a remedy to regulate her menses and to keep her sensitive female organs in perfect condition.

WINE OF CARDUI

is doing this for thousands of American women to-day. It cured Mrs. Jones and that is why she writes this frank letter:

Glendeane, Ky., Feb. 10, 1901.

I am so glad that your Wine of Cardui is helping me. I am feeling better than I have felt for years. I am doing my own work without any help, and I washed last week and was not one bit tired. That shows that the Wine is doing me good. I am getting fleshier than I ever was before, and sle p good and eat hearty. Before I began taking Wine of Cardui, I used to hav to lay down five or six times every day, but now I do not think of lying down through the day. MRS. RICHARD JONES.
