THE coal situation in Chestertown has been very much improved this week by the arrival of several carloads of coal and the promise of four or five more within a few days.

Next Monday is ground-hog day.

THE paper mill is running. A barge load of coal arrived Thursday.

NO MORE SMALL-POX!

The small pox patient has entirely recovered and there are no new cases nor any indications of same!

Late yesterday afternoon the NEWS received a special message from the hospital to the above effect so that there is every indication that the disease has been checked, thanks to the promptness of our Town authorities and advisers.

No better proof of the efficacy of vaccination should be asked than the records of the last two years of the cities of Baltimore and Philadelphia. Statistics based on a study of 15,000 deaths show that among unvaccinated persons of every 100 persons attacked 35 die, whereas among those showing one scar the per centage is less than 8, with 2 scars less than 5, with 3 scars less than 2, and with 4 scars the deaths are but one in every two dundred cases.

Such data emphasizes the importance of vaccination.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

A Representative Audience Greet the Lecturers in Chestertown — Miss Jacobs a Favorite Here — An Odd Hog Cholera Preventative.

The object of the Farmers' Institute to develop a more lively interest in agricultural work and enhance its profits, was well promoted in the sessions that were opened in the court-room in Chestertown Wednesday by Director Wm. L. Amoss. The lecturers were F. A. Converse, of Northern New York, and S. H. Todd, of Ohio. About fifty of the leading farmers of the neighborhood were present and gave close attention to all that was said by the lecturers.

Among those present were the following: James H. Baker, Benj. F. Rash, Wm. T. Nicholson, Wm. Morris, P. A. M. Brooks, Wm. Vansant, J. T. Anthony, Walter E. Morris, Purnell Jump, W. E. Jarrell, Samuel Vannort, I. R. Leaverton, Anthony and George Bell, H. P. Skipper, R. Irving Walker, Ell. Morris, Capt. Penn Jester and son, C. H. B. Massey, Dr. G. A. Jarman, T. R. Hubbard, G. W. Smith, G. S. Biddle, Lewin U. Skirven, H. C. Willis, Morris Bramble, Jesse R. Copper, P. G. Wilmer, R. G. Nicholson, James Bramble, Edward Robinson, Josiah Massey, R. C. Morgan, Alfred Bramble, S. Burgess, Wm. McKee, Robt. Moffett, Hope Copper, Thos. Dillon and others.

Miss S. E. Jacobs, of Washington, delighted her audience Wednesday evening with an instructive and practical address on "How to Cook." Among those present were the following: Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Copper, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Crouch, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. France, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Moffett, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Smith, Mrs. Wm. J. Vannort, Mrs. H. Brown, Mrs. P. A. M. Brooks, Mrs. E. P. Beck, Mrs. Wm. E. Morris, Mrs. W. B. Knight, Mrs. J. E. Ferguson, Mrs. J. H. Thompson, Mrs. S. A. Hurlock, Mrs. George Rouse, Misses Miriam Leaverton, Mary Knight, Addie and Eva Hurlock.

The NEWS reporter asked Mr. Converse for his treatment of hog cholera and was surprised at the following homoepathic treatment. He said he had lost many hogs from cholera and tried all kinds of medicines, but found his simple inoculation plan the best. When a hog died he buried it and kept the animal buried for a month or more; then it was uncovered and the balance of the hogs allowed to root among the decayed bones and eat thereof. The hogs would be taken very sick, but afterward proved to be immune from cholera!

Mr. Amoss will conduct an excursion this summer to an up-to-date farm and show the delegates from various counties a practical illustration of successful work. The Kent county representative will be Mr. Samuel Vannort who was selected by the following committee: Philip A. M. Brooks, W. T. Nicholson, S. Vannort, Purnell Jump and Walter T. Morriss.

A synopsis of the addresses is in hand and will be published in the NEWS next week.
