QUEEN ANNE'S PRIMARIES.

Battle Royal Between Democratic Factions.—Votes Command High Prices.—Victory For Organization Forces.

CENTREVILLE, MD., June 13.—The liveliest primaries held in Queen Anne's county for over 20 years occured Saturday. The fight was between what is commonly known here as the organization and anti-organization forces of the Democratic party. Each side was abundantly supplied with money and votes began selling at from $40 to $50, and many brought from $75 to $100. Most of the cash on the opposition side came from Baltimore. It is stated that the influence of ex-Governor Brown, ex-Governor Jackson and Attorney-General Rayner was exerted on the opposition side, and that of Governor Smith for the organization.

Senator James E. Kirwin and Clerk of the Court John E. George, organization leaders, contributed largely to the result. The fight was of more than local significance. It was against Governor Smith for United States Senator and Murray Vandiver for State chairman. The complete victory of the organization forces, under the leadership of John E. George, is in reality a vote of confidence in the State management and an indorsement of Governor Smith. The fight was hotly contested in five districts. Ruthsburg and Queenstown ran a single delegation each.

On Kent Island Senator Kirwin fought the greatest contest of his political career. His small majority of 25 indicates the fight made against him and means his renomination for State Senator as a certainty. In the Third district Mr. William J. Price, editor of the Centreville Observer; Erwin B. Emory, James T. Bright and H. B. W. Mitchell were arrayed against Messrs. T. J. Keating and George A. Whitele, the organization candidates.

In the early morning it looked like victory for the antis. They had barrels of money and were taking in everything which came their way The organization people began to match them dollar-for-dollar, and even to go better. When the polls closed no one thought the organization would get over 40 majority. They received 125.

In the Seventh district ex-Legislatureman C. W. Clements and ex-Sheriff Geo. M. Vansant were fighting the organization, represented by James W. Walls and George J. Harrison. It is said the Clements faction had nearly $5,000, half of which they were not able to spend.

The delegates elected, all of whom are for the organization, and their majorities follow:

First District—F. P. Perry, J. Wesley McKnett, Preston Lee, Samuel P. Goodhand, J. Edward Stevens. Majority, 70.

Second district—James E. Meredith, Robert H. Mullikin, E. G. Coppage, John H. Carter, Albert Merchant. Majority, 169.

Third District—W. T. P. Turpin, W. T. Roe, John W. Council, Robert M. Hopkins, W. John Connolly. Majority, 125.

Fourth District—John P. Roe, Emory Marshall, J. Lemuel Bryan, Charles E. Tolson, Sr., Henry Palmer. Majority, 25.

Fifth District—Half vote each, John L. Rhodes, Ezekiel Hunter, S. E. W. Friel, Summefield Tilghman, James H. Carter, J. L. Goldsborough, James B. Rhodes, William E. Collier, Charles O. Coursey, J. Griffin Embert. No fight.

Sixth District—Charles W. Leager, Samuel Roe. F. Gurney Jump, William J. Davis, John T. Meredith. No fight.

Seventh District—E. John Merrick, Cooper Tarbutton, W. S. Fowler, Hiram G. Tarbutton, James E. Higman. Majority, 40.

Vacancies Filled.—At the annual meeting of the board of trustees of the Maryland Agricultural College Friday, Senator John Hubner presided, with Dr. Owens as secretary.

T. B. Symons was elected State Entomologist, in place of A. L. Quaintance, resigned. James S. Robinson, heretofore State Horticulturist, was elected professor emeritus, at $750 a year, with no active duties, and Prof. C. F. Austin was promoted to State Horticulturist

Professor Symons, the entomologist, is from the Eastern Shore of Maryland. He is acquainted with the conditions as they exist in different parts of the State. He is a graduate of the Maryland Agricultural College and was student assistant in entomology a year previous to his graduation. Since then he has pursued advanced studies in entomology and zoology at Cornell University. The past year he was assistant entomologist, and at the resignation of Professor Quaintance he was appointed temporarily in charge of the department.

More than 500 young men and women from ten states have attended Goldey College during the past ten months.
