Soda Details That Count

Attention to the little things is essential to the producing of perfect soda water. The quality of the soda depends largely on the quality of the syrups used. Therefore ours are carefully prepared from first-class materials.

Chocolate is our specialty and infinite pains are taken to have it smooth, sweet and delicious. We use pure, freshly carbonated water, keep our fountain filled with ice and maintain perfect cleanliness both inside and out. These are little, but none the less important, details that enable us to produce as cold, sparkling and refreshing soda as you ever tasted—declared by many the best on the Peninsula.

Don't fail to try our Pure Cream Soda—preferred by many to ice cream soda.

NOTICE TO HOLDERS OF BURIAL LOTS IN CHESTER CEMETERY

The Chester Cemetery Company by recent action of its Board is now prepared to enter into a contract with its lot owners to keep their lots in first-class order perpetually. This guarantees the owner that his lot will be taken care of, not only after his death but even after the death of all the family.

There is no sadder sight in a cemetery than to see the lot of a one-time prosperous owner in weeds, briars, overgrown bushes, &c., and for the reason that the family have either all died, removed or else forgotten their duty to the remains of the ancestors.

Those who secure a contract as above will have no apprehensions of this fate to their lots. For terms apply to

THE GREAT FAIR!

What The News Man Saw At St. Louis—The Filipinos and Dog-Eaters—The Noted Boer Leader.

NO. 3.

One of the interesting places we visited was the African-Boer encampment, where five hundred fighters direct from the field exhibited a fac-simile of several engagements of the late war. Among the noted personages here that we met was General Cronje, the brave Boer leader—the one whom the British after a long chase finally cornered in the bed of the Modder river. He was sent to St. Helena as a prisoner of war, and spent nearly a year there on the grounds made historic by the great Napoleon. Gen. Cronje could not speak English, but carried on a conversation through an interpreter. When assured of the good feeling the people of the United States had for him and his people, he said he found that out even before he landed, as a great many came out to the ship to meet him; but, said he, "if the sympathy of the American people had been of a more practical turn we might have whipped our foe". About fifty of the young Boers who are with him expect to remain in this country after the fair, and others may also come over from Africa. The General asked us to be helpful to his countrymen, and, of course, we promised him we would. It will be interesting to note here that Gen. Cronje is to be married in the camp on July 4th and there is to be a tremendous celebration.

The Dog-Eaters

The newest and as our friend, Brattan says the "nudest" exhibit on the grounds is that of the real, genuine native-born Igorrotes, one of the four tribes of Filipinos' in the Phillipine village. All are supposed to be head hunters—that is, savages who possess an unquenchable propensity toward going out after their enemies and bringing home the severed heads of those whom they succeed in slaying. The Igorrotes disdain to wear clothing. They have use only for a strip of garment that covers the loins and a small cap stuck on the back of the head and used as a pocket.

All the people of these three groups are hatless. The Ainus and the Patagonians are alike in wearing a cloth similar to a large handkerchief around their heads, with the top part of the hairy polls exposed. The Igorrote's little cap, as stated, is not intended to perform the functions of a hat, but is solely for carrying the owner's pipe, tobacco, and other necessaries of life. If the Igorrote wore clothes like the others he would have no head adornment at all. The Ainus and the Patagonians wear the cloth band around their heads not for shelter, but to keep their long hair from blowing about in the wind.

The Filipino savages live in huts of bamboo and nipa, some of which are built on the ground, others in the branches of trees. Their food is rice and —dog. Since their arrival at St. Louis they have been vociferous in their demands for dog meat, which situation has created quite a stir in humane society circles.

The Igorrotes occupy a village to themselves, quite a distance from the Ainu and Patagonian settlements. For this distance the Patagonian squaw is devoutly thankful. She brought with her a small yellow dog, which is held sacred because once upon a time it sayed the life of a little girl, who also is a member of the colony. So fearful is the woman lest the Igorrotes capture her dog for feasting purposes that she keeps it constantly hugged to her breast with only its head sticking out from between the folds of her robe.

In the feast of dog eating and head hunting the women do not participate. They do the work. They sow and reap the crops, chop the wood and spin the little clothes which both men and women need for wearing apparel. All the women smoke all the time when they are not asleep.

WE are gratified to learn in a recent letter from the proprietors, the Bobbitt Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md., that the new scientific remedy for Rheumatism —"Rheumacide"—has more than doubled its sales the past year.

The strong testimonials we have published from time to time show the thousands of stubborn cases cured by this remedy—and these together with liberal advertising in the KENT NEWS, have made "Rheumacide" a favorite household remedy in this section.

If you have an article of real merit, big advertising always brings big returns.

Passed Stone and Gravel With Excruciating Pains

A. H. Thurnes, Mgr. Wills Creek Coal Co., Buffalo, O., writes: "I have been afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble for years, passing gravel or stones with excruciating pains. Other medicines only gave relief. After taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE the result was surprising. A few doses started the brick dust, like fine stones, etc., and now I have no pain across my kidneys and I feel like a new man. FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE has done me $1,000 worth of good."

No Other Remedy Can Compare With It

Thos. W. Carter, of Ashboro, N. C., had Kidney Trouble and one bottle of FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE effected a perfect cure, and he says there is no remedy that will compare with it.
