IN MEMORIAM.

In sad but loving remembrance of wife and mother, MARGARET PEORIA COLLINS BRYAN, who passed away from this world two years ago to day, July 17, 1903, aged 46 years, 4 months and 9 days.

In memory we oftimes see
The one we loved so dear;
The vision grows so clear sometimes
We feel she must be near.

But no, two years ago to-day,
When all the world was bright,
Our loving one was called away
Out of our mortal sight.

Dear mother, you are not dead to us,
But as a star unseen,
We know that you are ever near,
Though death intrudes between.

We did not want to lose you,
But God knew what was best;
And some day we'll be with you
In that sweet land of rest.

DINNER AT 10 CENTS A PLATE

Edward Atkinson's Service for Ten, Which Cost a Dollar.

A dinner for ten persons, which Mr. Edward Atkinson had so long held could be given for $1, was recently served and eaten, and the diners had a plenty, so that the idea is as much a fact as a theory: "They ate and they were filled."

The Dinner.

1. Soup.—Refined Puree of Peas—Eight ounces peas., price 2½ cents; four ounces beef suet, price 1½ cents. Cost per course, 4 cents.

2. Fish.—Fish Custard (first trial)—Sixteen ounces flaked haddock previously boiled, price 5c.; six eggs, price 12½c.; one quart milk (30 ounces,) price 7c. Cost per course, 24½c. Seasoned with pepper and salt.

3. Entree.—Curry of Veal and Rice—Sixteen ounces veal foreshoulder, price 5 cents; 12 ounces rice, price 7½ cents; curry, price 2 cents. Cost per course, 14½ cents.

4. Roast. — Forequarter of Lamb (boned)—Five pounds lamb, price 30 cents; two pounds potatoes, sliced, price 2 cents; mint sauce, price 1 cent; dandelions price 5 cents. Cost per course 38 cents.

5 Savory—Parmesan paprika sandwich, price 5 cents; pudding, baked Indian apple, price 5 cents.

6. Coffee (Old Java), price 7 cents; bread (eight ounces), price 2 cents. Cost per course, 19 cents.

Total for six courses, $1.00.

7. Sliced oranges with sugar. Cost per course, 20 cents.

Six courses with fruit, $1.20.

It is not a favorable time to make up a menu at low cost, as the new vegetables are yet very dear. A month later fresh vegetables and salad could be brought in with a lessened amount of meat, making a more appetizing meal for summer weather.

The Menu.

Soup—Eight ounces split peas, price 2½ cents; four ounces beef suet, price 1½ cents. Cost per course, 4 cents. To be cooked all night in the Aladdin oven, seasoned and thinned, if necessary; in the morning reheated for the service.

Fish—Three pounds haddock, price 15 cents; two pounds potatoes, price 2 cents. Cost per course, 18 cents. To be partially boiled, then mixed like ordinary fishballs and converted into grilled balls by cooking either on a grill or on a griddle very quickly and without the delay and uncertainty of frying.

Ragout of Lamb—Five pounds of the flank, say one and a half pounds of the meaty part of the trimmings, three and a half pounds put aside in a meat shop dealing in the best meats, or else five pounds of the forequarter, 6 cents a pound, price 30c; two pounds potatoes, one pound beets, one pound carrots, one pound onions, price 5 cents; a bunch of sweet herbs and seasoning, price 2 cents. Cost per course, 37 cents. In a large casserole lay the little bones of the flank on the bottom, the meat cut up into dice, the vegetables finely sliced, the herbs in a muslin bag, seasoned with paprika, a little black pepper and salt; cover with hot water in large quantity, place in the oven and cook all night.

Baked Indian Pudding—Three ounces Indian meal, price 5 cents; a small cup of molasses, price 2½ cents; one and a half pints of milk, price 5 cents; one egg, price 2 cents; cost per course, 10 cents. Mix in an earthen pan; bake not less than five or six hours. One pound of bread, price 4 cents; cost per course, 4 cents. One cup of black coffee and sugar, each, price 8 cents; cost per course, 8 cents.

Total, 80 cents.

This will give an ample quantity for 10 persons in active work for one meal at 8 cents each.

An Indian suet pudding may be made at less cost.

Put into a tin or earthen pan a quantity of Indian meal, according to the amount of pudding required, having previously greased the pan with a bit of beef suet; make a hole in the middle, fill it with a little salt, molasses to taste and chopped suet; pour enough boiling water over it to thin it down a little. The suet melts in the cooking and peryades the meal. It should be baked not less than six hours; better to bake all night.

Approached By The Guests.

The dinner was much approved by the guests who shared it. It required about 20 minutes to put the materials into the several dishes in which they were cooked and to season them; the memorandum being then left for them to be put into the Aladdin oven at the right hour, where they remained until served upon the table.

The tough pieces of meat which are purchased at the low price become perfectly tender by the long application of a relatively low temperature.

This six-course dinner was laid out in the conventional form. Here is a more sensible menu, equally nutritious and apetizing, shorter in number of courses, and at less cost. There could be many variations in both these menus within the limit of cost when the summer vegetables become abundant, and by introducing many other types of food with less meat. As a rule a menu can be made nutritious, appetizing and varied at an average cost of 2 cents for each service of one course In the six-course dinner the savory can hardly be called a course. It is a five-course dinner at 10 cents a plate. In the accompanying menu is given a four-course dinner for 10 persons for 80 cents, 8 cents each, or 2 cents each per course.

It may be deemed an established rule that by purchasing a forequarter, flank and other of the cheapest parts of meat or the cheapest kinds of fish at the time of greatest abundance, and by the right combination of roots, fresh vegetables and grain, according to the season, well-balanced dinners can be served at 2 cents a plate for three, four or five courses, including a cup of tea or coffee, or at 6, 8 or 10 cents a dinner; other meals in proportion. These would be appetizing and nutritious meals, but they can only be cooked readily and with little or no attention is an Alladin oven at a cost of from 3 to 6 cents a meal for the oil.

A Course For 3 Cents.

At 3 cents a course or at 12 to 15 cents a dinner of four of five courses, the better cuts of meat and the better kinds of fish can be supplied, and some fruit can be added.

At 4 cents a plate or 16 or 20 cents a dinner, the finer cuts and perhaps a greater variety can be afforded.

At 5 cents a plate or at 20 to 25 cents a dinner, the ordinary variety of the season, purchased without much attention can be put on the table.

Few persons have any conception of how small a part of the cost of food customarily served consists in the cost of the materials. By far the larger part is in the waste of food, the waste of fuel time and discomfort in cooking over a hot stove, and the cost of service.
