You who deal here know that our store is full–always is–we keep it that way, but in this case we have literally taken our building already full and propose to put another large stock in a share already occupied–there is one way to do it sell the stock as fast as moved. We cannot have the stock ready this week but next week the goods will be displayed as fast as our clerks can handle them. If you need money bring one dollar where you expect to use two.

Now Note:

We do not intend that any misrepresentation shall be allowed by any one. If you buy anything that proves to be not exactly what you expected, come here, explain the error and get your money back.

Guaranteed Silk Petticoats

For the First Time

Nobody has guaranteed Silk Petticoats, until now that we do.

And we don't guarantee all we have—just one special kind, the makers of which have succeeded in securing a taffeta silk that will not split or crack within a reasonable time

Remember the S. H. & M. binding, that was so good? These are S. H. & M. petticoats.

Understand, we don't guarantee these silk petticoats for ever and ever—that would be an impossibility, sanely considered.

But it's a good guarantee, for they are good petticoats.

Three kinds ready—beautifully ready. At $5.75, $10.00 and $12.00.

Exit Oyster Season 1905-6.

Taken as a whole Wednesday closed the most improfitable oyster season since 1880, so far as concerns the industry to the Kent oystering fleet. Oysters were scarce from the begining of the season and prices ruled low because in large part of the poor condition of the oyster it requiring one and a half bushels to shuck one gallon. The weather too, was very unfavorable throughout the season, the buyers have scarcely made anything beyond expenses, many of them are really worse off than when they began. A pluckier set of men cannot be found on the bay, the tongmen owe them a debt of gratitude that should enable them to make response, whenever or wherever opportunity offers. The business and professional men of our section have felt the depression very sensibly, but they like the buyers, have heroically endeavored to be equal to the emergency and are worthy of the highest commendation.

The outlook for next season is encouraging or otherwise, just according to the color of the glasses through which we look. The bars both deep and shallow, soft or hard bottom, are covered with a heavy young growth, but it is improbable that much of this growth will be merchantable next season. The main reliance will be the improved quality. If fat prices will be normal oystermen feel that they have nothing to fear in the "Haman" oyster law, provided honest and capable men are selected as Shell Fish Commissioners. The prevention of plants going beyond the State, will prove a Godsend, if with the cull law, it is rigedly enforced, in every intent and letter.

The attention of our oystermen is now turned to gardening and home improvements and in the mean time preparations will be made for the summer's livelihood crabbing, purse-net fishing, seine hauling, carpentering, painting, basket making, employment at Tolchester, and general jobbing will be the occupation of the men for the summer.

Our fraternal societies and individual citizens are responding nobly to the San Francisco relief appeal.

My! What horrible weather Monday gave! Snow, rain and cold wind. Much uneasiness was manifest for the safety of the fruit crops.

John Paul Jones' remains in Annapolis? Nit. Not many here believes such rot, as a consequence very few of our people went down to witness the great ceremonies on Tuesday.

The local branch of the Anti-Saloon League at this place, have gotten on new life, and vigor, and are working with a vim to further the object of its organization. They propose to hold semi monthly meetings instead of monthly, believing such a change will be productive of better results.

Capt. S. T. Wheat has retired from his position at Sparrows Point where he has been employed during the winter and early spring. He is now recreating on board the bugeye Annie Franses preparatory to assuming a position at Tolchester for the coming season, as a pastime he is buying old junk and coining the sheckles.

Mr. S. B. Colyer has made glad the heart of his better half by enlarging his front yard so that the madam can have an up-to-date flower garden.

Capt. Wm. R. Coleman is reported to be quite sick at his home in Piney Neck.
