THE GRAIN TRADE.

Failure of Supplies Elsewhere Will Compel European Buyers to Look to America.

The future of the local grain trade and the general export of food products is now becoming a vital and far-reaching question with merchants engaged in this line of business. The trade has been stagnant for some years because the importing countries have been well supplied from other grain-growing territory and because the crops in this country have been permitted of but little surplus for export and prices have ruled higher than the foreigners were willing to pay

The outlook is more promising, however, and there is a widespread expectation of the revival of this business during the present crop. A general and comprehensive review of the whole situation has been made by Mr. Henry A. Wroth, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Wroth says:

"The maturing of the winter wheat crop, after passing through the vicissitudes of the growing season, is always a most important period of the commercial year, because should a good winter wheat crop be accompanied by the promise of an equally large spring wheat crop as well as corn production commensurate with our requirements as a nation, there is every reason to be assured of a prosperous and satisfactory commercial year. Consequently the announcement of the condition of these several crops on July 10 by the Statistical Bureau of the Agricultural Department, was looked forward to with more than usual interest, notwithstanding the unfortunate revelations recently made public regarding the methods of this bureau.

"While the rascality and lack of good faith, which investigation has brought to light, are to be deplored, the suggestions which have been put forth by reputable merchants and prominent men under the lash of outraged feelings in which the abolishment of the bureau is advocated, are almost equally as deplorable and reprehensible.

Outlook Is Promising.

"The figures of grain condition indicate that the production of wheat will be on an important scale this year, and should the spring wheat crop turn out at all commensurate with its present promise the total yield will be approximately 700,000,000 bushels, since the condition of the winter wheat is placed as high as 82.7 and spring wheat 93.7, while corn was put at 87.3.

"Some details of the various crops, as to yield per acre, acreage and production, as compared with former years will give an idea of the position as presented at this time.

The figures in all cases for the present year are estimated on the basis of the July report:

WINTER WHEAT.

Years.	Yield Per Acre.	Acreage.	Production, Bushels.
1905	13.5	29,723,000	401,250,000
1904	13.4	28,865,000	382,945,000
1903	12.3	32,515,000	399,867,000
1902	13.8	28,531,000	411,588,000
1901	14.3	31,206,000	218,785,080
1900	12.9	25,695,000	330,881,000

SPRING WHEAT.

Years.	Yield Per Acre.	Acreage.	Production, Bushels.
1905	17.04	17,315,000	30,0,125,000
1904	15.32	17,140,000	227,026,000
1903	13.96	16,954,000	236,745,000
1902	14.96	17,029,000	254,664,000
1901	15.00	24,145,000	276,778,000
1900	11.33	16,889,000	191,346,000

CORN.

Years.	Yield Per Acre.	Acreage.	Production, Bushels.
1905	28.09	94,011,000	2,634,188,000
1904	26.70	92,231,000	2,467,481,000
1903	25.80	83,691,000	2,244,176,000
1902	26.50	94,043,000	2,521,000,000
1901	16.70	91,349,000	1,525,500,000
1900	25.30	83,320,000	2,105,000,000

Question Of Prices.

"Supplementing these by a crop of oats approximating 900,000,000 bushels, we have a vast aggregate of cereals which will insure a large traffic in all lines, immense circulation of money and continuous and profitable business to the railroads. While prices of wheat at interior centers are actually higher than the seaboard at present; still, the large movement which has manifested itself at important centers in the West—Kansas City receiving 700,000 bushels in two days—and the disposition of dealers to sell to millers outside of their States, all go to prove that the weight of the actual wheat seeking market will enforce a relative value as between interior markets and the seaboard, which, when accomplished, will permit trade to be resumed on such a basis as to allow of the free movement of wheat to the seaboard, and thence to Europe.

Available For Export.

"As to the probable amount available for export, it may be said that, provided we raise 701,000,000 bushels, as indicated, while consumptive requirements amount to 380,000,000 bushels a year, seeding 70,000,000 bushels, there would remain for export, after rehabilitating interior holdings, quite 200,000,000 bushels, not taking into account 24,000,000 bushels reported in farmers' hands on July 1 and the present visible supplies at points of accummulation.

"The exports of wheat and wheat flour from the United States during the years ending July 30 have been as follows:

	Bushels.		Bushels.
1900	186,096,000	1903	262,98 5,060
1901	219 900,000	1904	120,727,.00
1902	234,772,000	1905	43,703,000

The Foreign Markets.

"Having shown that we are likely to have the grain to ship, the position of the foreign markets becomes important. No one disputes that the interior supply in many of the most important countries of Europe are nearer the exhaustion point than they have been in many years, while port stocks are decreasing rapidly.

"The harvest in Europe is on the eve of commencing, but there are many complaints as to the outlook in several of the countries, Russia, for instance, being not only menaced by interior disorders rendering trade difficult and hazardous, but serious complaints as to the condition of wheat are being published daily, with renewed emphasis, so that a decided shrinkage in shipments from her ports during the ensuing year must be expected.

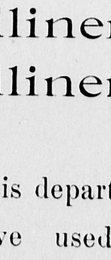

Must Look To America.

"Remembering that the wants of imported wheat in Europe are fully 400,000,000 bushels yearly, and with no source of supply likely to be able to take Russia's place, India being 80,000,000 bushels short of last year's yield, Australia decreasing rapidly in her output and Argentina only a fair exporter, the European buyer will be compelled to look to America for a considerable portion of his wants, which may be largely increased should bad weather intervene at harvest time, not only to delay his supplies, but increase the necessity for imported wheat."
