THIS ADVERTISING is a sort of mutual affair, which has a tendency to strengthen the confidence which must exist between the seller and the buyer. Little profits and judicious advertising is the foundation upon which a successful business can be built. We call the KENT NEWS readers attention to our special sale of MEN'S AND BOYS' CLOTHING. A summer suit at reduced prices right in the height of the season is somewhat of an innovation, yet a call for these goods will convince you that they are extra values at our reduced prices. Then our SHOE BUSINESS is a hobby of ours. We try to keep the Shoe to please each and every patron. This necessitates us to carry a very large stock of shoes, and from this stock the most fastidious can be suited.

We carry a full stock of MEN'S HATS, LADIES' AND GENTS' FURNISHINGS, DRY GOODS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION, CARPETS, MATTINGS AND OIL CLOTHS. A nice line of GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

We hope to receive a liberal share of your patronage in the future.

We are yours for business,

THE FARM AND THE YOUNG PEOPLE

The absence of the young people strikes one painfully in a farming community. Family after family loses its boys and girls as soon as they grow up, and the parents seem to regard this state of things as natural and to be expected.

Perhaps a century, or even a half century ago, there was reason for this at first sight somewhat selfish proceeding on the part of the young people. Implements were few, and hand-labor heavy and slow of accomplishment. There was little to be made from the farm beyond a bare living. The girls had no source of income, and went away to teach. The farmers encouraged the sons to go west where they could have a better chance. Life was a wearing struggle to make both ends meet and pay off the mortgage, which was a sort of octopus, destroying all within reach.

Conditions are different to-day. Farm implements reduce the necessity for hiring numbers of men for the wife to lodge and feed. Milk is sent to the nearest creamery, and churning is no longer done at home. Supplies of food are more easily obtained, and the endless drying of fruit and putting away of vegetables has largely ceased. Washing machines, sewing machines and kitchen ranges lighten the burdens of the housewife. Comforts are better known; the feather-bed has disappeared, the window screen is in place, the dining-room is commonly used, the parlor no longer sacredly shut up. Farms are nearer together, and nearer town, and families are not so isolated.

Even the attitude of the outsider toward the farm has altered. The recent revival of country life for city people is significant. Numbers of people are moving from the heat and confusion of the city multitude to the spots where quiet reigns. Abandoned farms are being reclaimed and made most delightful homes. Living in a remote district is no longer regarded as a frightful fate, but rather a condition of happiness.

In spite of all this, young people on the farm are slow to see that they neither need to go away for a living or to find something of interest to do. They still regard the farm with something of the traditional idea of its dullness and narrowness; but it is all a mistake. The boy who goes to college need not prepare himself for a life altogether separate from his natural surroundings. He may take a course in agriculture which will open his eyes to new methods, the enriching of the soil chemically, the adapting of crops to locality, and climate, the setting of the trees and raising improved products, and come back inspired to have the model farm, with well-painted buildings, new implements, and attractive surroundings, and some specialty of stock, or chickens, or fruit, which will make the old place famous. There are many farms today transformed from all that was careless, run-down and proverty-stricken into smart, beautiful and valuable places, by the fresh enterprise of the farmer's son.

Why should the farmer not dress and live like other people? Why should he sink into an early middle age indifference and discouragement? Why should he not be in his own way what is called in England a "gentleman farmer?" Many a college man today sees that the storm and stress of business has little to offer him beyond eternal routine and clerkly pay, and is choosing life on the farm, with its busy, interesting summer, restful winters, and splendid opportunities of development. The new vitality put into the old places by such young men gives results which far surpass expectation.

Girls, too, are beginning to think that farm life need not be the wearisome round their mothers found it. They recognize that country life has much to offer that is charming. Given a year or two at school or college to widen the outlook, they come back aglow with zeal for making the farm the most attractive place to be found anywhere. They brighten up the old house with a little paint within and without; they re-cover the furniture with clever fingers; they put the new magazines on the table and step respectfully over the old rag carpets which fashion has declared beautiful. They find all sorts of interesting things to do. Perhaps they raise and sell flowers, or they find pin money in a mushroom bed, or violets in a cold frame, or they discover that fancy eggs are marketable.

Interesting occupations and amusements fill up the quiet days. They start a little club, they take trips to the nearest town, they are not afraid to invite their friends to visit them, for they understand that with straw rides, and picnics, and apple picking and nutting, entertainment will never be lacking.

The new generation is learning—slowly, perhaps, but surely. One of these days the exodus to the city will cease, and farm life will be, if not all daisies and moonlight nights and strawberries and cream, as one might wish, yet so full of charm and interest that the young people will love it and seek it.—Congregationalist.

ARMOUR'S

Royal Ammoniated or Bone

FERTILIZER

HIRAM M. BROWN, - - Sole Agent

Kent and Queen Anne's, Vicinity of Chestertown.

WE, FOR THE 60TH SEASON PRESENT

...Our Fertilizers...

TO THE FARMERS AND PLANTERS OF KENT and adjoining counties. With pride we say that we are better equipped than ever, this year to give you your money's worth.

Many cannot understand why, after so many years doing business here, that Wilbur W. Hubbard's Fertilizers are more extensively used year after year. But the mystery is solved by a visit to our factory, which is always open for inspection to the public, and those who go down to our works marvel at the pains taken in manufacturing the goods.

First the bone is shoveled in the crusher with a scoop shovel and prepared for the Denmead mill, then it is dissolved, and after getting in good mechanical condition, if making a dissolved bone goods, so many pounds of bone is put in the mixer. The nitrate of soda, fish and high grade potash are added, the whole thoroughly mixed, passed through a phosphate mill and screened and thrown up in bulk, to remain until it is shipped, and then it is bagged in new treated acid proof bags and sent out in splendid shape. We are often asked, "why don't you run the goods when first mixed, right in the bags, and not go to the expense of treating the bags, as do other manufacturers?"

We are often asked if this is not a needless extreme, but we reply—it pays to make the best.

Whilst there is some loss by evaporation by bulking, an additional expense in rebagging and an expense to treat the bags, when we remember that a farmer appreciates a good goods, and in first class mechanical condition it pays to go to extremes as it is impossible to make a first class fertilizer otherwise, and by treating our customers right in their purchases, making the time of payment of the bill to suit them, we have gotten a personal hold upon our trade.

The Fertilizers for 1905 are the best we have ever put out. Each year has its experiences. We learned something in 1904—the users of Wilbur Hubbard's Fertilizers will get the benefit of it. A poor article may sell rapidly for a time if it is pushed energetically, but a record of steady gain over a period of 60 seasons among the same people, can only be achieved by a good, reliable article. You can only judge the future by the past. If you have used Wilbur Hubbard's Fertilizers in the past you may be assured they will give you satisfaction in the future. If you have not tried them, we ask you if a record of Thirty (30) successful years with the farmers of the Middle States is not a sufficient guarantee to justify you in using the goods.

Soliciting your patronage, and thanking all our friends for their substantial support in the past, we remain

Very truly yours,

Wilbur W. Hubbard,

Manufacturer of Standard Bone Fertilizers,

July 15, 1905. CHESTERTOWN, MD.
