"O DEATH."

We have lived in our present island home nearly 36 years. The death angel made his first visit here on Saturday morning of August, 31st ultimo. He did not come for the grand parents, now of lengthened years, nor for the young father and mother—the Rev. D. B Prettyman and his wife, Augusta Prettyman—but he came, suddenly and ruthlessslessly, to take from their loving embrace and care the dear little life of their first born child, Eliza Jane Travers Prettyman. He came not alone. Jesus came also, and by angel hands had the bright and innocent spirit of "Jane" lifted up to His arms. "For of such is the kingdom of heaven." The "Father of Spirits," an hour before, gave to the weeping, anguished parents a new born child to fill, if possible, "Jane's" place in the home, and to soothe the sorrow of bereavement. No affliction with such alarm and peril had ever before come into our home. It came at a time when the life of a most devoted mother was put in peril by it. In grief and despairing hope she nursed her darling child through the anxious hours of the night till near the early morn, when she had to surrender it to the care of its grandma, to see it no more alive or dead, and go to become a mother of a new born babe.

These lines will scarcely attract the notice of any reader, except those who have lost children by death. In infantile life is the embodiment of purity and innocence. It is so unnatural that such a life should perish from the earth and its individual attractiveness pass unnoticed. Eulogies, oral and written, are made on the lives of wise and good in the manhood of life. Is there no beauty in the mind, disposition and manners of even the baby girl of 15 months, that deserves to be known and praised? that might stimulate mothers in the nurture of their little ones? Our little Jane was one of the brightest and purest specimens of infantile life. Not an hour of fretting and crying in all her life, never betraying ill-temper or disobedience. Ever submissive, social and happy. Life to her was ever bright and healthy, to within a day of her death. We watched her development of mind and saw how readily she was learning of life, and its scenes. We interested her in pictures, music, books, flowers and birds. She knew music when she saw it; and with her little fingers to the touch of the piano, she would try to sing. She would get a book and take it to her mamma to read to her; she would point to the pictures on the wall and call the names; she would ask for flowers and enjoyed their odor; she loved to play with her little visitors and showed great fondness for them. Oh how she loved her grand parents and papa and mamma! She did not know when she was suffering and sinking under prostration of her vital energies, only a few hours before being in full health, and she was playing. It was a strange feeling to her, she could not tell us about it, all she could do was to ask for water, and when life was nearly exhausted she looked up wistfully and said "mamma,"

L. D. TRAVERS.

Sept. 4, 1895.

John J. Ingalls and Mrs. Lease are to meet on the same platform, for a display of their oratory. As the silver tongued woman Populist is now out of office, and the eloquent Ex-Senator out of a job, they ought to pool their issues and kiss and make up.

The Baltimore News has opened its columns to colored writers and given them an opportunity to criticise and villify leading citizens who are supporting Mr. Hurst. The Baltimore newspapers have already turned some funny somersaults in the campaign, and we need not be surprised at anything they may yet do before election day.

Ex-Senator Ingalls, of Kansas, who once described himself as a statesman out of a job, thinks he has been out of a job long enough and has entered upon a vigorous canvass for re-election to the Senate. His first speech was made at a Labor Day celebration in Topeka and his first bid for re-election was a declaration in favor of the election of the President, Vice President and United States Senators by a direct popular vote.

There is only one serious obstacle to the realization of Senator Ingalls' iridescent dream, and that is the Constitution of the United States. This isn't considered much of an obstacle to anything in Kansas, however, and Ingalls may succeed in his ambition to return to the Senate. Erratic as he is, he would prove a great improvement on the whiskered Peffer. He has brains, if he does lack in proper respect for the decalogue in politics.

Deafness Can't be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

PROF. HUXLEY'S EPITAPH.

Prof. Huxley, the great man of science, who died a few months ago, was what is known as an agnostic upon religious questions. This term means "I don't know" and so the Professor was neither a believer or unbeliever in revealed religion. The following lines upon his tomb aptly apply to him and his school:—

"And if there be no meeting past the grave,
If all is darkness, silence, yet 'tis rest.
Be not afraid ye waiting hearts that weep,
For God still giveth His beloved sleep,
And if an endless sleep He wills so best."

It is more than strange that a man of Prof. Huxley's capacities, after weighing the universe, measuring the heavens, and exploring the secrets of nature to a greater extent, perhaps, than any man who preceded him, should come down to his grave doubting whence he came and whither he goeth. He must have known and felt that the power that created from nothing the vast worlds of space, set them in their orbits and started them on their never ending journey, could fathom the heart and mind of man who was also created but little lower than the angels. As a great writer has put it:—"

Belief in the soul's immortality follows necessarily from a belief in an all wise God. God, who created nothing without a purpose, has given us a desire to know, and a longing to be happy. Man's intellect is not confined to the narrow limits of the body. It reaches down to the unexplored depths of the sea; it wings its flight to the heavenly orbs; it enters into the most subtle substances, penetrates the matter that composes them and separates their elements; it dissects its own thoughts; while the carnal body can at best but serve as an unwieldy pivot, upon which this time-defying principle depends. Yet when analysis and calculation have exhausted their powers, the intellect of man still finds itself banked by unsolvable problems. Can it be that this intellect, so superior to the body of man, will perish forever, with its capacity for knowing still unsatisfied?

Why this insatiable desire for happiness? Is it in vain? Yet ask any one of the millions who now live: was there ever a time in your life when the cup of bliss was filled, was there ever a moment when you had all you desired and feared not its loss? Not one could answer, yes, for death would say, with a hollow, mocking laugh: thou fool, I come. Ask the miser who loves his wealth: have you enough? His answer, accentuated by his thin, meager form, will be: more, still more. Ask the ambitious man, who loves self: are you satisfied? His answer will be: higher, still higher. Ask the sensual man: did you find happiness in the gratification of your appetites? He will answer: "vanity and vanities, and all is vanity." Ask the affectionate father or husband as he stands at the grave of his beloved, he will answer: we shall meet again.

God has given us a desire for perfect felicity, which he intends to be one day fully gratified, and if this felicity cannot be found, as we have seen, in the present life, it must be reserved for the time to come. And as no intelligent being can be contented with any happiness that is finite in duration, we must conclude that it will be eternal, and that consequently the soul is immortal. Life that is not to be crowned with immortality is not worth living. If a life of happiness," says Cicero, "is destined to end, it cannot be called a happy life."

A SNAKE IN HIS STOMACH.

The Strange Case of a Boy in Minnesota Which Has Puzzled Several Doctors.

ST. CLOUD, MINN., September 1.

Doctors of the surrounding cities are greatly puzzled over the strange case of William Hetherington, a young boy employed at the Grand Central House, this city. For several years past the little fellow has been suffering intense pain from time to time, but never anything like what he underwent yesterday and to-day, after having been given a large quantity of medicine by the doctors, who had been called in by anxious friends. He threw up what appears to be a slender, green striped garter snake, a few inches short of 57 feet in length and a trifle larger around than a good sized straw.

While Willis was ill a few days ago he horrified those around him by stating that he could feel something crawling around in his stomach, biting him and trying to get up into his throat. Just then he was taken violently ill and his parents saw what they took to be a snake's head protrude from the little fellow's open mouth. Doctors were called, and while they were watching the patient they saw the reptile's head, which was thrust out of the boy's mouth for a moment. Hetherington was at once given medicine. The boy fainted, his mouth was held open by one of the doctors and the snake, for a genuine snake the intruder proved to be, escaped slowly into a dish on the floor, and there lay curling and coiling a most disgusting mass.

September Weather.

Hicks forecasts the weather for September as follows: Until about the 2nd, September will prove cloudy and rainy and cool weather, with much probability of frost in the north, is apt to appear about 3rd to 5th. From 5th to 8th look for warm wave and renewed storms. The warmth and storms always start in the west, and reach the extreme east two or four days later; hence, all can see that we do not mean that it will be storming everywhere during the whole of every storm period, except it be when many causes conspire to excite and prolong disturbances. About 11th to 12th Autumnal equinoctial storms will begin. From 16th to 19th will be a period in which many dangerous storms and gales will visit land and sea. Watch indications wherever you be, they show the approach of storms to your locality. The 22nd to 25th will also be a time in which very marked disturbances are apt to occur. A change to very cool, with frost northward, will come after the storms. Venus will affect the last half of September. The month ends warm and stormy from 27th to 30th.

TRUTH WILL OUT.

It now transpires that Lloyd Lowndes, who has been paraded throughout the State as a civil service reformer, and as a gentleman entirely fitted to govern the State upon the high plane of purity and unselfishness, is actually connected with and is an essential part of one of the most corrupt and tyrannical county rings to be found in the United States; and the worst of it is, is not even credited with being the brains of it, but only a willing instrument.

The anti-Gorman Democrats of Allegany warn the people of the State against transferring the operations of this ring to the wider field of State politics, and give assurance that the vote of that county and in fact of all Western Maryland at the coming election will show the estimate they place upon Mr. Lowndes as a reformer.

These facts being published by those who should know the candidates best, it can be said with greater emphasis than ever that it is better for the people of this State to stand by the Democratic ticket.

MR. HURST AT EASTON.

Warmly Received by Eastern Shore Democrats.

Easton, Md., Sept. 5th.—The Hon. John E. Hurst, M. DeK. Smith and Charles C. Crothers arrived at the Talbot-County Fair at 11 o'clock this morning. They were welcomed at the depot by a reception committee, consisting of Col. Edward Lloyd, Col. Frank A. Johnson, Jos. B. Harrington, president of the Fair Association, Jas. H. Willis, Ex-Comptroller J. Frank Turner, Dr. Charles Lowndes and Col. F. Carroll Goldsborough. A large crowd greeted the candidates as they stepped from the train with three cheers, and the applause continued until the fair grounds were reached, where the reception was very enthusiastic.

The Democratic leaders on the Eastern Shore made up their minds to get out the voters to-day, and they succeeded. No effort had been spared to insure the presence at the fair to-day of all the Democrats who could be prevailed upon to come. The result was an attendance of about 10,000 people.

The Hurst button seemed to be on almost everybody. Representative men from Worcester, Wicomico, Somerset, Dorchester, Caroline, Queen Anne's, Kent and Cecil counties are here in large numbers. Mr. Hurst's countenance was wreathed with smiles as men of small and high degree shook his hand and assured him success.

SENATOR HARRIS AND THE SCHOOL FUND.

"Speaking of Harris," said an old Washington man, formerly of Tennessee, "it chanced that I was in Parson Brownlow's office—Brownlow was then Governor of Tennessee—when Harris came in to give himself up. This was just after the war. Harris was Governor of Tennessee when the war broke out, and he was a man of vigorous, active honesty. There was a large fund of gold belonging to the school fund, I believe, as I now recall, amounting to some $90,000.

"The Confeds wanted it, but Harris wouldn't give it up. He guarded it with the single-hearted probity of a bulldog.

"Time came when the Yankees crowded nearer and more threateningly. Then Harris gathered up the $90,000 and beat a retreat. No one knew where it went to, save that Harris had taken it. When Brownlow was made Governor he offered a reward of $10,000 for Harris. It read something like this:

"'Isham G. Harris; $10,000 reward for his capture. Is 5 feet 10 inches tall; has gray eyes; likes whiskey; chews tobacco rapidly, and is dictatorial in manner.'

"No one, however, gained the reward. As soon as the war was over and peace restored, this honest old Harris returned with every dollar of the gold, which from first to last he had protected from all mischance. If it hadn't been for Harris every dollar would have been lost.

"As Harris walked into Brownlow's office, he just walked up to the table and was a paised old man at the time, and as he saw Harris a gleam of humor lit up his eyes. He arose to greet him, his hands shaking like twin aspen leaves.

"'While the lamp holds out to burn,
The vilest sinner may return.'

said Brownlow as he seized Harris by the hand. That was all there was to it. The gold came back; Harris came back. The first was disbursed; the second was elected to the Senate, where he still prevails, the most interesting character who holds a seat in that sage body."

DEDICATION OF K. OF P. HALL.

The Shakers have made a discovery which is destined to accomplish much good. Realizing that three fourths of all our sufferings arise from stomach troubles, that the country is literally filled with people who cannot eat and digest food, without subsequently suffering pain and distress, and that many are starving, wasting to mere skeletons, because their food does them no good, they have devoted much study and thought to the subject, and the result is this discovery of their Digestive cordial.

A little book can be obtained from your druggist that will point out the way of relief at once. An investigation will cost nothing and will result in much good.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY

FOR THE

Cotton States and International Exposition, ATLANTA, GA.

The Southern Railway operates nearly five thousand miles of road in eight of the Southern States and its lines enter Atlanta, Ga., from five different points of the compass. Washington, D. C., is the Northern or Eastern terminus of one of its lines, which is operated in connection with the Pennsylvania Railroad, "the standard railroad of America," between New York through Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, D. C., Lynchburg and Danville, Va., Greensboro and Charlotte, N. C., Spartanburg and Greenville, S. C., Atlanta, Ga., Montgomery and Mobile, Ala., and New Orleans with connection at Salisbury for Asheville, Hot Springs, Knoxville and Chattanooga, at Charlotte for Columbia, Augusta, Savanna and Jacksonville, at Atlanta for Birmingham, Memphis, Macon and Southern Georgia. Solid vestibuled limited trains, with through day coaches, Pullman Drawing-room Sleepers and Dining cars. Time between Washington and Atlanta, eighteen hours, without change of cars of any class.

The Southern Railway is the only line which enters and lands passengers in the Exposition Grounds, and no effort or expense has been spared by the management in the improvement of its roadbed, increasing the number of its coaches and inaugurating its own dining car service preparatory to handling expeditiously and comfortably the heavy travel to and from Atlanta during the Cotton States and International Exposition which opens September 18 and closes December 31, 1895.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays, from September 17 to December 24, inclusive, excursion tickets will be sold from Washington, D. C., to Atlanta, Ga., at $14 00, good for return 10 days from date of sale.

Excursion tickets will be sold every day from September 16 until December 15, inclusive, from Washington at $19.25, good for return 20 days from date of sale, and excursion tickets for the entire exposition season with final limit of January 7, 1896, will be sold from September 16 until Derember 15, inclusive, at $26.25.

Notice.

This is to give notice that I intend to apply to the Commissioners of Cambridge for a permit to straighten the line of my wharf by commencing about two feet nearer the Cambridge Creek bridge and running a straight line to intersect with a straight line of my wharf facing Cambridge Creek. I do not want to go one inch farther out in the harbor. This intersection is between my wharf and the bridge.

Order of Publication.

Annie Urry vs. John B. Urry.

In equity in the Circuit Court for Dorchester county.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree whereby the said Annie Urry and John B. Urry may be divorced a vinculo matrimonii.

The bill of complaint states, that on or about December, 1888, said parties were married in said county, and lived together till March, 1892, when said John B. Urry abandoned his wife, and that such abandonment has been continued ever since, that their separation is final and without expectation of reconciliation, and that the said John B. Urry is a non resident of the state of Maryland.

It is therefore, this 15th day of August, A. D. 1895, ordered, that by causing a copy of this order to be inserted once a week for four successive weeks before the 15th day of September, A. D. 1895, in some newspaper published in Dorchester county, the complainant may give notice unto the said John B. Urry of the substance and object of the said bill of complaint and command him to appear in this court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the first Monday of October, A. D. 1895, to answer the premises and to abide by and perform such decree as may be passed herein.
