NEW ORLEANS, June 3.

Blacklegs Outwitted.—The keeper of a celebrated gaming house not far from the Planters' and Merchants' Hotel, Canal Street, were completely duped Thursday night. A man, who seemed to be stupified with liquor, seated himself near to the table of King Pharo, and without respect to his majesty, gave indications of sleeping. Now the keepers of Pharo are such good natured souls as to be very nice in their company, and seldom ask questions. The stranger nodded and nodded for a couple of hours at least, when suddenly recollecting himself, he stretched out his hand, seized on a pile of bank notes, and made off with his prize, before those interested in keeping the treasure, could recover presence of mind to overtake him.

Suicide.—Mr. Thomas Owen, a respectable importer of dry goods of Philadelphia, hung himself in his Warehouse in that city, on Wednesday week. He was between 35 and 40 years of age, and a native of England.

Desha.—At the June term of Harrison county court, held at Cynthiana, Ky. the case of Isaac B. Desha was called but all the Jurors were rejected; they having formed or expressed an opinion as to the Prisoner's guilt. A second effort to obtain a Jury on the next day was also so unsuccessful, and trial was abandoned for the term. No expectation is now entertained that he will ever again be tried in that county. This will in effect acquit him, or keep him a State prisoner at an annual expense to the state of three thousand dollars.

The Burmese War.—From information derived from Capt. Endicott, at Salem, last from St. Helena, and bringing the latest intelligence, there is reason to believe, says the Salem Gazette, that the war between England and the Burmese had been renewed under circumstances very unfavorable to the English.

SUMMARY.

The emigration to Hayti, checked in one direction, and even on the reflux, has found vent in another channel. An expedition of a hundred and nineteen men, women, and children, liberated by the Society of Friends in North Carolina, sailed from Beaufort for Hayti, on the 11th ult.

In the Legislature of Rhode Island, on the 23d ult. an act was passed, appropriating four hundred dollars in full for one year's salary of "his excellency Jas. Fenner, governor of the state, and two hundred dollars in full for the salary of his Honor Charles Collins, lieutenant governor."

The committee appointed in New Orleans to receive subscriptions for the relief of Robert S. Coffin, the Boston Bard, give notice in the public papers, that the money collected for him amounts in all to $200 75, which has been remitted for him to M. M. Noah, of New York.

We are told that bacon can be purchased in N. Orleans for two cents per pound and wheat flour at one cent and a quarter. Corn is proportionably low.

A rumour is circulated in the last British papers that his Grace the Archbishop of Dublin, was about to form a Matrimonial alliance with Lady Harvey, sister to the Marchioness of Wellesley.

Spurious Money.—The editor of the Centreville Times, cautions the public against receiving notes of five dollars of the Union Bank of Georgetown, (D. C.) letter B. It is supposed that many of the above notes are now in circulation—they are of a specious appearance, and unless closely examined, will pass without detection.

Some kidney Beans found in Herculaneum, have been planted and grew.—They have remained in a state of preservation, it would seem, nearly eighteen hundred years, having lost none of their vegetative powers in that time.

[Trenton Fed.

About $8000 is said to have been subscribed in the city of New-York towards the relief of Thomas Jefferson, and the subscriptions still continue open, waiting new contributions. The foreign merchants especially French and Spanish, are said to have uniformly and liberally subscribed.

The "South Carolina (Cheraw) Spectator," of the 16th inst. says "There never was such a want of corn since the days that Jacob sent his sons to Egypt for it. We are requested to say that it will sell readily at $1 50 cts. per bushel.

Dr. Mitchell, of New York, it is said, has announced his full belief in Captain Symmes theory, and has started a doubt whether we are inside or out.

The Postmaster of the City of Baltimore has generously offered to receive whatever may be due to the Editors of Papers throughout the Union, from persons who may get their papers through the Baltimore Post Office.

THE JUBILEE.

Tuesday last, the 50th Anniversary of American Independence, was celebrated in a manner worthy the occasion. At Sunrise the national flag was gracefully unfurled from the flag staff erected upon the ground of encampment, near the river, at the commencement of the morning salute; and although the early part of the day, from repeated showers of rain, was peculiarly unfavourable to those intending to come from a distant part of the county, yet upon a similar occasion our village has not for many years, been enlivened by so large and respectable a concourse of citizens, anxious to participate in the general celebration of the day.

About ten o'clock, the Artillery company was joined by the Middle Town Troop, commanded by Capt. Hicks, and the Eden Troop, commanded by Capt. Slacum, whose handsome appearance as military, and general deportment as individuals, done much honor to the commanding officers and privates of the corps.

Many conjoint evolutions were performed by the military upon parade, until eleven o'clock, when the troops having disposed of their horses, joined the Artillery upon the ground of encampment, and the Artillery forming a hollow square protected by the Cavalry, on foot, as a van guard, the whole marched in that order to the residence of the Rev. Mr. Judd. The square was then opened to receive the Orator, Mr. Judd, and Reader of the day; the procession then moved to the Church, where an appropriate portion of the morning service was performed by Mr. Judd, the Declaration of Independence read by Brice I. Goldsborough, Esq. prefaced by some very appropriate remarks; and an oration, sensible and comprehensive in its tenor, and peculiarly beautiful in the composition and arrangement of its subject, was delivered by John R. Pitt, Esq. to a numerous and attentive audience of ladies, citizens and military.

After the ceremonies of the Church were concluded, the artillery and a number of the most respectable citizens repaired to a handsome dinner, at the encampment, served up by Mr. James W. Stewart, and the troops to another, prepared for them at Mrs. Bradshaw's. After dinner, Capt. Donovan, of the Artillery company, was called to the Chair, as President, and Dr. J. E. Muse, as Vice President, when the following national toasts were drank with great unanimity.

1st. The day we celebrate the Jubilee of American Liberty, may every succeeding anniversary find us free, prosperous and happy. 3 guns, 6 cheers,

2d. The memory of Washington—By night our pillar and our cloud by day, "he fought our battles." [drank standing, and in silence.

3d. The heroes of the Revolution—The hearts of grateful Americans are the Tablets upon which are engraven the merits of their Deeds. [1 gun.

4th. The President of the United States—May his administration be neither supported by the indiscriminate adherence of his friends, nor embarrassed by the factious opposition of his enemies—In the language of Crawford, "let him be judged by his acts." [1 gun.

5th. Our venerable Ex-Presidents—From the peaceful shades of retirement, they can look abroad with pleasure upon the happiness of their country, and receive without alloy, the proffered gratitude of those who are ready to acknowledge the merit of their deeds. [1 gun.

6th. The Constitution—Like our gallant ship of the same name, may it become entitled to the name of Ironsides, and prove impregnable to its enemies. [1 guns.

7th. The Union—May each State prove a supporting pillar in the national edifice, and its durability be equal to its extention. [1 gun.

8th. Agriculture, Commerce and Manufactures—True policy directs that all should be protected, neither to the injury of the rest. [1 gun.

9th. Education—"When the structure of a Government rests upon public opinion, that opinion should be enlightened." [1 gun.

10th. The Army—May our soldiers as they ever have done, prove unconquerable in battle—and the Bulwarks of our Liberty be American bayonets supported by arms, moved by the sacred fire of Freedom. (1 gun, 3 cheers.

11th. The Navy—Its usefulness has proved its best Eulogy. [1 gun.

12th. The National Flag—The stripes indicative of our prowess—and the concentration of the stars into one star; may that shine with such resplendence in the orb of Liberty as to prove a certain point of recognition to inexperienced mariners upon the ocean of political uncertainty. [3 guns, 6 cheers.

13th. The Fair Sex—Though last in these toasts, they are the first in the thoughts of gallant Americans. [3 guns, 6 cheers.

VOLUNTEER TOASTS.

By Captain John Donovan, (President)—La Fayette—A pattern for Americans.

By Lieutenant Thomas White—The memory of the 'Maryland Line'—Who at the battle of Camden fell, covered with glory, in support of the Declaration, which we this day celebrate.

By Lieutenant N. G. Eccleston—Gen. Andrew Jackson—The Patriot of generous sentiments and elevated views.

By a guest—The military & the fair sex

War and love have each their cares,
War sheds blood, and Love sheds tears;
War has swords, and Love has darts,
War breaks heads, & Love breaks hearts.

By Dr. Joseph E. Muse—Agriculture—May the "Infant Institution of Dorchester" speedily grow into useful maturity. 1 gun, 3 cheers.

By a guest—The Orator of the day.

By Brice I. Goldsborough, Esq. (Reader of the day)—The Press—As Tyrants dread it and freemen venerate it, let Americans guard and protect it.

By W. W. Eccleston, esq.—The American Revolution—May this day recall to our recollection, the Patriots who achieved it.

By Mr Chas. W. Pitt—The American Union—The only safeguard of our liberties; withered be the hand which would attempt to dissolve it—when ever it is attacked, let every American Patriot stand by his arms.

By a guest—The next Congress—May there be less vapouring in the lower House and less porter in the Senate.

By Capt. T. H. Hicks—The Jubilee we celebrate—The downfall of Tyranny; the elevation of Liberty—

May the axe be applied to the root of the tree;
May thrones and may sceptres be dashed in the sea,
May the Eagle of Liberty triumph and reign
O'er the nations of earth and the proud raging main.
May the sons of Columbia cry freedom and rest,
And their shouts be re-echoed by North, South, East and West.

By Mr. Solomon Jones—The Heroes and Sages of the Revolution—Above all Greek, above all Roman fame; the latest posterity will cherish their memories.

By Mr. William E. Sykes—The U. S. Military Academy—May the directing finger of our government, like the needle to the North, undeviatingly rest upon the West Point.

By Mr. William Rea—Gen. John Eccleston and Col. Thomas Woolford—The two Revolutionary Heroes of Dorchester County—Their zeal and prowess manifested in defence of our country during the Revolutionary war, will transmit their memory to the latest posterity.

By a Guest—Commodore Porter—A speedy return to "the land of the free and the home of the brave."

By Mr. William Mullikin Jr.—The Navy of the United States—Its glorious achievements have excited the admiration and astonishment of the world.

By Capt. Hicks—Our native State—May her energies be unfolded, and may she be among the foremost in the march of internal improvement.

By a Guest—Bolivar—The Washington of the South.

By a Guest—The surviving Heroes of '76—May our Representative in Congress, continue his laudable exertions to increase their scanty pittance.

By Mr. Benjamin Benson—The fair sex—"None but the brave deserve the fair."

By Mr. Jno. M. Spedden—The Ladies—

In all their humors—whether gay or ecolding,
Coquetting, pouting, or in our arms are folding;
They've so much spleen "surrounding ways" about them,
There is no living with them, nor without them.

The dinner and ceremonies being over, the military again joined and continued their evolutions with intermediate sham fights between the cavalry and artillery, to the great delight of the assemblage, until late in the afternoon, when the whole closed with another salute and the company dispersed and returned to their respective homes. We are happy to add that no accident occurred during the whole day.

Celebration at Church Creek.

In pursuance to previous notice, a large and respectable assemblage of the inhabitants of Dorchester county, convened at Church Creek on Tuesday the 4th day of July for the purpose of celebrating in an appropriate and patriotic manner, the FIRST JUBILEE OF AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE.

The day was ushered in by a national salute, fired by the members of Captain Martin L. Wright's uniform company; and at nine o'clock the company assembled in complete uniform, and took up the line of march for the Methodist meeting house, where a neat and appropriate discourse was delivered in a feeling and impressive manner by the Rev. L. Lacey, to a crowded assembly.

After divine service was ended, the military parade, accompanied with martial music and preceded by a number of the surviving heroes of the Revolution, together with the Committee of Arrangement, took up the line of march for the field designated for the purpose, where the military performed a variety of evolutions in handsome style. The Committee of Arrangement requested Mr. Martin L. Wright to act as President of the day, and Dr. Zadock H. Rosse, as Vice-President.

The Committee also requested Martin L. Wright to read the Declaration of Independence, who very obligingly consented to do so. The reading of the Declaration of Independence was introduced by a few appropriate remarks. After which the company partook of a splendid collation, provided by the Committee of Arrangement, for the purpose.—The day was spent in the most social and agreeable manner—not one word of political discord, or sentiment calculated to disturb the tender feelings of social friendship, was uttered on the occasion.

After the cloth was removed, the following toasts were drank with unanimous consent, accompanied by the roar of cannon, enthusiastic cheers, and martial music—

1. The day we commemorate—The first Jubilee of our country's Independence—May the revolving years which roll a second upon us, find us worthy, happy, and free, shewing to the world a bright example, that we are capable of governing ourselves.

2. The illustrious Washington—'First in War, first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen'—May the principles which actuated and governed him, find a congenial soil in the hearts of his countrymen, where to make a rapid and spontaneous growth. [drank in silence, standing.]

3. Our Constitution and Country—Virtue, wisdom, strength, and beauty, are the Pillars which have sustained them half a century—long may they continue an unimpaired and impenetrable fortress and safe-guard to our civil and religious liberties.

4. Internal Improvement and public Education—Bonds of Union; a source of Wealth; a nation's pride and boast; an enlightened country will foster and sustain their deserving energies.

5. Independence—Its talismanic power breaks asunder the links of Tyranny's chain, and upon the ruins thereof establishes Liberty and equality.

6. The Navy and Army of the United States—The boast and admiration of Friends in Peace, and the terror of Enemies in War.

7. The surviving signers of the Declaration of American Independence—Though few in number, may their remaining days in the land among the living be many and happy.

8. The President of the United States, and Heads of Departments—May they be governed by justice, and act with concert in wisdom, to confound those who impute corruption.

9. Patriots of '76—While we weep for, and honor those who have gone, let us not forget liberally to support those who remain.

10. The 19th Congress—A fine specimen of snarling, at eight dollars per day—May the united voice of an indignant people convince them at the next election, that while they have a right to select timber they disdain to use such discordant materials.

11. The voice of Liberty which issued from Bunker's Hill—May it sound gladness to the South American Republics, and terror to the oppressors of the gallant and devoted Greeks.

12. The Constitution & Government of Maryland—Let their foes wither and become few, while their friends prosper and wax strong,

13. The fair smiling daughters of Columbia—Ever conspicuous and foremost in acts of heroic devotion—their mental endowments are only equalled by their beauty and virtue; may they surrender only to the virtuous brave whose crowning gift they were by Providence designed to be, as a foretaste of Heaven.

VOLUNTEERS.

By Lt. John R. Martin—Marquis de Lafayette—the friend of Washington—the friend of mankind.

By Isaac F. Williams, Esq.—The officers and members of the "White Haven Independent Blues"—From their discipline and military appearance, an honor to the state, and unrivalled in the city.

By George W. Stephens—George Washington—His name will last as having given birth to one of the greatest nations on the globe, while Cæsar's and Napoleon's will be lost in the vortex of Revolutions.

By Edward Ruark—The battle of Lexington—the beginning of our Independence.

By James M. Harper—May the new world continue to teach the old, that nations may tranquilly exist under a government of liberty and equality.

By Caleb Griffin, Senr.—The Fourth of July—We celebrate it in memory of our forefathers, who fought and bled to gain our Independence and plant the Tree of Liberty.

By Wm. Pattison, jr.—May the White Haven Independent Blues ever prosper, in Peace and in War.

By Noah Richardson—Free presses, and a general diffusion of public information; the strong pillars on which rests the mighty edifice—our Free Republican Government.

By John R. Keene—The Navy and Army of the United States—which protect "the land of the free and the home of the brave,"

By Dr. Z. H. Rosse—The Fair Sex—"The Gust of day, the balm of woe,
The soul of life, the Heaven below
Is rapture giving Woman."

By Martin L. Wright—Our neighbours—The Military & Citizens of Cambridge, who have assembled at this time to celebrate the "Sabbath day of Freedom"—Let good cheer, concord and peace be with, and remain among them.

DIED.—On the 9th ult at his seat in Somerset county, Francis H. Waters, Esq. in the 63d year of his age—well known and eminently distinguished for his many intellectual, moral, and social virtues—but whose crowning excellence was, that he lived and died a meek and lowly Christian.

☞ The Rev. Henry White, P. E. of the Delaware District, will preach in the Methodist Episcopal Church on next SABBATH morning, at ten o'clock

NOTICE

"Dorchester Agricultural Society."

In conformity with a resolution of the Board of Curators, it becomes my duty to request in the most earnest manner, a full meeting of the Society, to be held at Mr. Lucas' tavern on Monday the 24th. inst. at 11 o'clock.

The objects of this meeting are various, and essential to the very existence of the institution.

The Board respectfully request that on or before the appointed day of meeting, each member will have punctually performed his duty, in the payment of his membership money, (three dollars,) which is individually, of no moment to any member, but collectively, of the most vital importance to the Society; it is manifest that the Board must require the actual, previous and timely possession of the means of purchasing the premiums, and defraying the expenses incident to the exhibition; and that delayed payments will frustrate the views of the Society.

The very exact and punctilious regard of this duty, the last year, by almost every member, and the very flattering success with which it was accompanied, in an exhibition, which, with a fair allowance for the infancy of the institution, did honor to the county, and promised the most beneficial results to the interests of Agriculture, concur to inspire the Board with the most confident hope, that this, the first request of payment for the present year, will be promptly regarded, and that the exhibition, already projected for November next, will, by the proposed meeting on the 24th of the present month, be faithfully sustained.

Washington College.

THE Board of Visitors and Governors of Washington College have made such arrangements for the accommodation of Students, and such an addition to the Literary department, as will, they flatter themselves, present their Institution to the public with strong claims for patronage and support.

Besides the former Professors, the Rev. T. Clowes L. L. D. Principal, and Mr. J. M. Duncan, professor of English and Oratory; they have engaged the services of Mr. L. Da Ponte, as professor of Modern Languages, (viz. French, Spanish, and Italian.

In the advanced class it is intended to blend with the study of the languages, that also of Belles-Letters and Philosophy. The students will also have the privilege of attending Lectures on the Literature of the South of Europe and the History of Italy.

In addition to a situation surpassed by none on the Eastern Shore for salubrity, there is an excellent boarding establishment, kept by Mrs. S. B Blake; under the immediate control and supervision of the Visitors and Governors. All the Professors reside in the College, and the conduct of the students who board there, will have the particular attention of Mr. Duncan.
