GREECE.—Twenty-eight French officers sailed from Marseilles on the 27th of May, to join the Greek army, into which they had enlisted. One of them belonged to the body guards of the king of France. The second legion of the national guards in Paris, are making a contribution, for the purpose of buying a piece of artillery for the Greeks. At Metz 6690 francs were collected by personal applications; and the sums obtained there in other modes, make with this an amount of 8500.

The English are cutting down their 74's to make frigates of a heavy class.—The Barham, Alfred, and Dublin, three 74's, are hereafter to be called frigates, each carry 52 long 32 pounders.

SUMMARY.

At the recent grand ball in Paris for the benefit of the Greeks, the venerable Gen. Lafayette, says a letter, was received by the company as a father would be amidst his children.

Henry Clay and lady arrived at Lexington, Ky. on the 6th inst. It is announced that a public dinner will shortly be given to him at that place.

The three valuable animals of the short horn Durham breed, arrived in the Algonquin. They are the property of Mr. John Hare Powell, whose efforts to improve our domestic cattle cannot be too highly commended. One of the heifers has cost Mr. Powell, about 600 dollars.

There is now living in Edgarton, Ms. the oldest warrior perhaps in the world; Captain Peter Peas. He was a cabbin boy in the fleet which were with General Pepperell, at the taking of Cape Breton, in 1745. He has his reason, and is able to walk a mile without resting.

A late Baltimore paper contains a curious advertisement of one of the lawyers of that city. To "such clients as are unable to pay" he offers his services gratuitously, and says it will give him as much pleasure "to do their business" gratis, as it would if they paid the full amount of his fees.

Since January last 473 Post offices have been established in the United States.

At New-London, Conn. on the 4th, the company assembled at a jubilee dinner, & unanimously agreed to effect the liberation of all the debtors in the town Jail. They immediately subscribed the amount of their debts, and the sheriff set the prisoners free.

Mr. Eli Logan of East-Marlborough township, Chester county, raised on his farm last season, from one potatoe, six bushels and a half. The potatoe was cut into 234 pieces.

A letter from Paris of May 29 speaks encouragingly of our citizens' claim against France being allowed.

In Vermont, Elder Ezra Butler, of Waterbury, has been nominated for Governor, & Elder Aaron Leland, of Chester, for Lieut. Governor. Both these gentlemen are now Pastors of Churches.

Great excitement exists at present in New York, in consequence of the failure of several of their monied institutions and the tottering state of others.

While the inhabitants of Petersburg, Va. were marching in procession on the 6th inst. in paying honours to Jefferson and Adams, the town was fired in three different directions by incendiaries; ten or fifteen houses were burnt, most of which were insured.

Marvin's new extensive saw mills in George town, S. C. were entirely consumed by fire on the night of the 8th instant.

Maria Gloria, appointed Queen of Portugal, by the Emperor of Brazil, is only ten years of age.

The last number of the Westminster (London) Review contains the speeches of Mr. Webster, Mr. Everett, and Mr. Sprague. This is an unusual attention either to our politics or our displays of forensic ability.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Junius Brutus was received too late for this week's paper—It shall appear in our next.

"A Liver by Industry" is received and shall appear next week.

We are requested to state that James Thompson, Esq. declines being a candidate for the Assembly, and that unforseen circumstances, beyond his control, render this step necessary.

We are authorised to announce Zebedee Foxwell, Esq. of this county, as a candidate for the next General Assembly of Maryland.

HONOR TO THE ILLUSTRIOUS DEAD.

The Citizens of Dorchester County are invited to attend at the Court House in Cambridge, on Monday next, at 11 o'clock, A. M. precisely, to express their sentiments on the death of those two distinguished Revolutionary patriots, JEFFERSON and ADAMS.

At a meeting of a number of the citizens of Caroline county, held at Denton, on the 18th inst. James Sangston and William M. Hardcastle, Esqs. were nominated as Electors of Senate.

Thursday last, was fixed upon by the citizens of Easton, to unite in a solemn procession of mourning, for the death of the departed worthies, Jefferson and Adams. William Hayward, Jr. Esq. had accepted the invitation to deliver the eulogium.

The Baltimore papers contain a long account of the procession in that city on the 20th inst. CHARLES CARROLL of Carrollton, Col. John E. Howard, Gen. Samuel Smith, Gov. Kent, & several other distinguished characters were present.

TO FARMERS.

The measures recently adopted by the British government with regard to the admission of foreign grain into the ports of England, have excited the attention of our agricultural community, and produced a belief that they would have the effect to advance the price of bread stuff by opening a new market to that article of produce. To prevent any disappointment which might occur by calculating too strongly upon those measures, the Fredericktown Citizen mentions that the duty on foreign wheat, has been graduated at 1s. 6d. per bushel, with a view to secure to the English agriculturalist 8s a bushel for his own. Estimating the price of American wheat at one dollar per bushel at home, which is equal to 4s. 6d sterling, to which add the duty, freight and expense of selling, and it arrives nearly or quite to the sum of 8s. the utmost price to be calculated on in England. Our farmers will not therefore be disappointed if wheat should not rise beyond one dollar per bushel, on the opening of the British ports.

We are told (says the Salem Gazette) that a gentleman who stood at the bedside of Mr. Adams, during the firing of the guns in Quincy, in honour of Independence, asked him if he was not disturbed by the noise; no, said he, go tell them, every gun adds five minutes to my existence.

Reminiscence.—In 1799, when the tidings of the news of the death of the Great Washington, first President of the United States, was received in Boston, the "Sons of Pilgrims" were celebrating in Concert Hall the anniversary of the first Landing of the Fathers. The company, all standing, were singing a Hymn, written for th occasion, which closed with this stanza—

Hail Pilgrim Fathers of our race,
With grateful hearts your toils we trace,
Oft as this native day returns,
We'll pay due honours to your urns;

When the tolling of the bells announced the melancholy tidings to the citizens. The effect was electrical. Each one soon knew the cause. The singing ceased. The company continued standing in expressive silence.—Judge Davis traced with his pencil the following additional stanza to the Hymn:—

"Ah! while we gather round your urn,
Joins your blest band, great Washington;
Hark to that knell! A Nation's sighs
Waft his pure spirit to the skies."

For the Cambridge Chronicle.

To Littleton D. Teackle, Esq.

SIR—You are the author and the eloquent advocate of 'Primary Schools;' you have published six miscellaneous & salmagundi essays to establish—what—not that the bill to which you have two or three sessions devoted your precious time and great legislative talents, is wise, expedient, & practicable, but that knowledge is power—education is the aliment of Liberty—and other truisms which no man in his senses will deny, and which none but a man of great sense in this country will attempt to prove.

Your essays should have been transmitted to the Emperor of Austria, and might have wrought conviction in his mind and probably alleviated the persecution of letters.

The wisdom of Solomon, the Apothegms of the stoics, and the savage ferocity of our Indians, for want of Primary Schools, would at least have commanded the attention of the Austrian monarch.

Then the bill itself, with its clearness of arrangement, the unambiguity of its phraseology, and the multifarious though not incongruous variety of its provisions, which will require no supplemental or declaratory enactments, might be presented to his majesty translated into such German as Mr. Kremer would speak—who can tell the effect.—If that should fail, the testimonials of Jefferson and Adams might be produced; who, venerable men, were actually killed by that kind of selfish politeness, with which retired greatness is usually taxed. Every new book, good, bad, or indifferent, every impracticable scheme—every paltry invention—were transmitted to them for their opinions, and thus ensued a correspondence which quickly found its way into the newspapers. Thus these two great men, worn out with age and a long course of public and splendid services, compelled to write to they knew not whom, to praise books, bills, &c. they never read—give opinions in violation of truth and the dictates of their consciences, mutually agreed to leave this place of troubling, and on the fourth inst. departed together to Heaven, where they now congratulate each other, no mail can ever reach them.

In seriousness sir, write no more elaborate essays on undisputed maxims.—Prove if you can, that Primary Schools can be established in this state, according to the provisions of your bill, having regard to its territorial extent—population—financial resources—moral habits—present state of literary cultivation—the present pecuniary pressure upon agriculturists—and analogous situation to the Northern states, from the school systems of which you assert you modelled your own. When you let Solomon and the stoics alone and attempt that, you may hear again from A. B. C.

A TIMELY INCIDENT.

"We are informed by the Recorder that the clause of Mr. Th. J. Randolph's letter which we published on Monday, referring to the kindness afforded to Mr. Jefferson in his last moments, by the N. York Committee—was elicited by the following circumstance. The Recorder received information that Mr. Jefferson being then in declining health, was perplexed and harrassed by a number of inexorable creditors, whose demands, though severally small, Mr. Jefferson was utterly unable to meet. The consciousness of this fact, and the increased importunities of these creditors, visibly wore upon the health and spirits of the sage. But no sooner did a knowledge of the fact reach the ears of the Recorder, than with his wonted kindness and alacrity, he had an interview with Mr. McIntyre, one of the contractors for the Jefferson Lottery, summoned the committee together, and remitted to Mr. Jefferson, the sum of $7,500. The sum immediately relieved him from the pressing exigencies of the moment, satisfied those patriots who otherwise would have taken the pound of flesh, and smoothed the patriots way to the grave! The remittance was a precious boon in a trying moment, and we rejoice that it went from New York."—N. Y. Com. Adv.

Mr. Adams pursued his professional studies in Worcester, under the tuition of James Putnam, esq. a distinguished and successful Counsellor at Law. He was here employed as an instructor of youth, and taught in a school house formerly standing on the declivity of the Court House Hill. Three of his former pupils now survive, Doctor Wm. Paine, Capt. Daniel Golding, and Mrs. Jean Noah.—Worcester Ægis.

Anecdote of John Adams.—Commodore Tucker commanded the public ship, which carried out Mr. Adams on his first embassy to Europe, early in the revolutionary war. On the voyage, she was attacked by a British cruiser. When the action began, Mr. Adams was walking on the quarter deck. The Commodore pressed him to go below, as he was exposing himself, without the chance of rendering service. He refused, and arming himself with a musket, fought out the action, which lasted more than an hour. The Englishman was finally beaten off with loss.

The Cincinnati Commercial Register, of the 11th inst. says—We are informed that the post rider from Cynthiana, Ky. brought a report yesterday that Isaac B. Desha, the murderer of Francis Baker, had committed suicide by cutting his throat—that J. O. Beauchamp, the murderer of Col. Sharp, had been hung; agreeably to his sentence—and that B's. wife had committed suicide by stabbing herself. We give the above as it was received, without vouching for its thruth.

"Pleasant, but wrong"—A late Kentucky Gazette contains an advertisement of the Hon. Judge Shannon, directed against the Hon. Mr. Wickliffe, of the Kentucky Senate. It presents so striking a portrait of Kentucky manners, that we are bound, as honest journalists, to make a few extracts.—Noah.

"Against Mr. Wickliffe I can feel no strong emotions of resentment, for his wanton, unprovoked, and cowardly efforts to injure me, as he is so notorious a liar, that he can scarcely be believed, where he is known, when he tells the truth, and is so base a villain in principle that I consider his censure and abuse as the highest and most flattering applause of my conduct. To enumerate all the untruths uttered and published by this man, within the last five or six years, would be a task almost as endless as to count the stars, or to number the grains of sand upon the shores of the ocean.

"Nature in forming him a scoundrel, has, fortunately for himself, but unfortunately for his country, denied him courage. If, by his natural disposition, he was as prone to the commission of murder, as he is to the giving of false testimony against his neighbor, he would long since have expiated his crimes upon the gallows, and the community would have enjoyed the benefit of a useful public example.

"His mind appears to be a great reservoir of falsehood—an inexhaustible fountain of lies, from which there flows a perennial stream of calumny, embittered by the base malignity of his heart."

The court of appeals adjourned yesterday, after a very laborious session of seven weeks, during which many of the heaviest cases on the docket were disposed of. An adjourned session will be held on the second Monday in October.
