Dorchester Agricultural SOCIETY.

BY a resolution of the Board it becomes my duty to request the favor of a few delinquent subscribers, to call on the treasurer (James Dixon, Esq.) without delay, & perform the small, yet important duty of payment.

The board have determined on another CATTLE SHOW and FAIR, to be held in November next: And it becomes necessary to know, as early as possible, the extent of their finances; on the last day of the annual meeting of the Society, the only time, at which the renewal list has been offered, many members were absent and their names, consequently, not obtained; the board will presume the intention of those, to continue their membership, unless notified to the contrary, thro' their Secretary, L. M. Scott, esq. before the 3d Monday of June next.

The manifest utility of this Agricultural institution, evinced already, in the excitement of emulation; in the improvement of the stocks of the county, as well as in the culture of the lands, leaves no doubt with the board, of its continued and growing success: And the annexed scale of premiums adopted for the present year, which is larger than at any former period, is itself an ample guaranty of its progress and permanency.

JOS: E. MUSE, Pres't.
LUTHER M. SCOTT, Sec'ry.
May 23 w

THE CATTLE SHOW took place on Monday & Tuesday last: the weather was fine—the concourse of people large, and the exhibition such as to meet the sanguine expectations of the friends of the society. The President, (Dr. Muse,) at the appointed time, delivered in his usual eloquent and forcible manner, an able, lucid address, of some length; which we shall lay before our readers in our next, if practicable. We refer the reader to the reports of the several committees.

The way we shoot in Dorchester!—A lad, living with Mr. Jos. Caton, on Taylor's Island, in this county, killed, on the 11th ult. forty-eight wild ducks at a single shot.

State-House.—Among the repairs which the State-House (at Annapolis) is undergoing, is the substitution of a tin roof for the old one of shingles. This must be gratifying to every Marylander, when it is considered that that splendid edifice is thus, in a great measure, rendered fire-proof. The Hall is also receiving improvements, which will add much to its appearance. A comfortable place, no doubt, will be made of it after a while—fit for "the collected wisdom of the state."

Morgan's Body.—According to accounts in New York papers, a body has been found in Lake Ontario, near Oak Orchard creek, which was identified as that of Captain William Morgan—over which an inquest was held by "three and twenty jurymen," who were of opinion that the "body" was none other than Morgan's—and a man named Hill, who is now in prison, says, in a letter to the citizens of Erie county, "I did, of my own free and voluntary will, come forward and confess the crime of murdering a man that I supposed was Wm. Morgan." The Buffalo Journal, says the account which Hill gives of himself is contradictory—that the details are inconsistent with the appearance of the body found—that Hill said, in conversation upon the subject, he cut Morgan's throat—that the body was severed in two, before it was thrown into the Niagara—in short, the Journal believes Hill an impostor, who wishes to finger the $2000 offered for the apprehension of Morgan's murderers. Some "Masonic" editors are of opinion that no-body could be "found" after remaining in the waters of Lake Ontario upwards of thirteen months—that the fish would have devoured any 'body' in half the time, and dont believe a word of the story. We will only add, that the New York election shortly takes place—on Monday next—and that some of the tickets are headed "Anti-Masonic."

DORCHESTER AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The third annual Cattle Show and Fair of this association, was held on the 29th and 30th ult. The weather was uncommonly fine; the visiters were numerous and respectable; and the whole character of the exhibition, was such as to demonstrate, that the efforts of the society, have, in a remarkable degree, promoted the purposes for which it was instituted.—Since the organization of the society, the attention of our agriculturerists, has been bestowed upon a greater variety of objects; and emulation has been excited in almost every branch of husbandry and domestic industry. It is right that an institution, promotive of such useful ends, should flourish; and the permanency of the Dorchester Agricultural Society is, therefore, reckoned upon, with feelings of peculiar gratification. The Neat Cattle, Sheep and Swine, exhibited, were generally, of improved stocks, and in excellent condition; a few fine Horses were entered for premium; and the Domestic Manufactures were of great variety, beauty and excellence. Some interesting articles were presented for exhibition, for which the society had provided no premium: among them, were some cacoons of beautiful silk, from worms fed upon lettuce and the leaf of the common purple mulberry, (by Dr. Woolford.) Also a fine specimen of Rice, from the newly reclaimed marshes of this county.

At 12 o'clock of the first day, Dr. Muse, the President of the Society, delivered an address, which will shortly be laid before the public. It eminently combined the practical knowledge of experience, with the unerring deductions of judicious theory. The certain and valuable effect of agricultural societies, and their annual exhibitions, upon the interest of the community, were happily illustrated. Errors in tillage, which time and usage have consecrated, were clearly exposed and poignantly ridiculed; while a useful and improving system of agriculture was pointed out, and strongly recommended. The address, itself, was a striking proof of the assertion, that philosophy is the best ally of common sense.
