The following singular annunciation was copied from the National Intelligencer:

The Book of Revelation Unsealed.

After remaining hidden during many centuries, the meaning of the Apocalypse has been revealed.

I certify, on honor, that I have discovered the meaning of the Apocalypse, which (except that of some pages in the second and third chapters,) has never been approached by any expositor.

An Essay, explaining this wonderful book, will be put to press soon as a moderate edition shall be subscribed for.

It is requested that every one who shall receive a subscription paper and may determine to act, will do so without delay, and at the end of ten days from the time of receiving it, send on to the Author, or some other Member of Congress, at Washington, a list of subscribers, and the money at their risque.

Orders, with the money enclosed, may be sent on by any one, without subscribing, and copies will be forwarded accordingly.

All copies will be sent by mail, unless otherwise directed.

Price of a copy in sheets, fifty cents. Those who receive and pay over the price of ten copies, shall have an eleventh copy in lieu of commissions.

ENGLISH MENDICITY.

To the city are attached 765 watchmen and 38 patroles. The constables, patroles and watchmen, who were every night on duty in and around the metropolis are estimated at upwards of 3,000.

There are two houses in St. Giles' which are frequented by considerably more than 200 beggars. There they have their clubs, and when they meet, they drink and feed well, read the papers and talk politics.

A Negro beggar retired some time ago to the West Indies with a fortune of 4000 dollars.

Beggars make great use of children, in practising upon the feelings of the humane. Children are sent out with an order not to return with out a certain sum. One man will collect three, four or five children from different parents, paying six pence or nine pence for each during the day. Some children have been regularly let out by the day, for two shillings and six pence, as the price of their hire; a child that is shockingly deformed is worth four shillings a day, and even more. Before the Committee (of the house of Commons,) on Pauperism, an instance was noticed of an old woman, who kept a night school for the purpose of instructing children in the street language.

Mr. Colquhoun, a member of parliament, estimated that about 11,000 persons were engaged in the plundering of merchandize, at the London shows; and that their depredations amounted annually to more than 22,000 dollars.

The same gentleman enumerated eighteen kinds of cheats and swindlers, besides gamblers, coiners, robbers, &c.

There are in London, more than 30,000 common prostitutes.

There are supposed to be 3000 receivers of stolen goods and the amount of property pilfered in the small way from housekeepers, is estimated at nearly two millions of dollars annually.

Regular markets are held in public and private houses, were bankers, pedlars, &c. get supplied with counterfeit money, with the advantage of nearly 100 per cent. in their favour.

Robbery and theft are reduced to regular system. The robbers are often supplied with coaches to aid them to escape, or cheat the police.

There are many female sharpers, who dress elegantly, personate women of fashion, attend masquerades, and instances have been known, in which they have forced their way into the circle at St. James. One is said to have appeared in a state of peculiar elegance on the king's birth day, in 1794, and to have pilfered, in conjunction with her husband, who was dressed as a clergyman, to the amount of 4,500 dollars, without discovery or suspicion. Houses are kept where female cheats dress and undress, for public places.

There have been and probably are schools to teach the arts of picking pockets, which was done by means of experimenting on pockets hung up with bells set around, and the pupil graduated, when he could get a purse contained in it without jingling the bells.

Dorchester County Court,

In Chancery, October Term, 1824.

Ordered, that the report of John R. W. Pitt, trustee for the sale of the real estate of Benjamin W. Lecompte, dec'd. in the case of the creditors of the said Lecompte vs. the heirs of the same be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary be shewn before the first Wednesday after the first Monday in April next, provided a copy of this order be inserted once in each of three successive weeks in the Cambridge Chronicle, and a paper in Baltimore, before the first day of March next.

The Report states the amount of sales to be $4,404 42½.

ALTAR OF HYMEN.

"But happy they! the happiest of their kind!
Whom gender stars unite, and in one fate
Their hearts, their fortunes, and their beings blend."

Married on the 14th inst. by the Rev. Mr. Thompson, Mr. John Nash, to Miss Esther Gossage, all of Talbot county.

COURT OF DEATH.

"This is the desert, this the solitude:
How populous, how vital is the grave!
This is creation's melancholy vault,
The vale funereal, the sad cypress gloom!
The land of apparitions, empty shade!"

Communicated for the Chronicle.

OBITUARY.

Departed this transitory life on Friday night, the 17th inst. about 11 o'clock, Mrs. Sarah, consort of James Thompson, esq. of Transquakin.

In the death of this truly amiable woman, not only her family, but society, has sustained an irreparable loss: She was a most affectionate companion, an indulgent mother, a kind mistress, a good neighbor, a good and sincere friend, admired by a large circle of acquaintance and friends for the inflexible integrity and uprightness of her life and conversation—her usefulness and her death will be long felt and remembered. Her health had been wearing away for a long time. Her last illness was of short duration, and although very severe, it was sustained with a degree of resignation and fortitude that seemed almost peculiar to herself—confiding in the boundless mercies of a blessed Redeemer she was entirely resigned to his dispensation.

Thus expired, under the influence of grace, a distinguished member of Christ's Church militant on earth, and has gone to join his Church triumphant.

Died in Talbot county, on the even- of the 15th inst. after a lingering illness, Mr. Tarbutt Callahan.

In this county on the 20th ult. John H. E. only son of Joshua Breerwood, in the 7th year of his age.—He was a promising child, but "the Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away, and blessed be the name of the Lord."—His disease was of several weeks standing and took him off in defiance of parental and medical aid.

In Chester, Pennsylvania, recently the Rev. John Crutzer.—He was in the pulpit and had just given as his text—"We must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ," when he fell and instantly expired.

☞POSTPONEMENT.

The above sale is postponed to Wednesday the 5th of January next, in consequence of an advertisement I have seen signed by a Mr. James A. Rinson of Philadelphia, offering a reward of $20 for the recovery of a horse and gig, the description of which answers the above mentioned. He will please to attend, for on that day the subscriber will sell if no owner calls for them.
