were thirty-nine millions. What has become of the money? How much good has it done the country! Ten or twelve millions of it was buried in the swamps of Florida, in driving from their miserable homes a few miserable Indians; and the chief part of the remainder has gone into the pockets of the office holders and the mercinaries in power.

In Mr. Bronson's speech in the House of Representatives, on the question of increasing the army, he gave the following items as part of a Quarter Master's certified report of the expenses of a corps of Alabama Militia in the service of the United States. Our readers will be diverted at seeing the Indians attacked with Havanna Cigars, Champagne, and Colonge Water.

1 basket Champagne Wine,	$28.00
4 boxes Champagne cider, $6	24.00
1 keg Newark cider,	10 00
1 bbl Cognac brandy, 40 gal's, at $2, per gallon,	80 00
1 bbl Malaga Wine, 32 gal's at $1 25,	40 00
6qr boxes best Cigars, at $6,	36 00
1-2 box honey dew Tobacco, 64 lbs at $1,	64 00
120 bottles of Porter, at 40 cents,	48 00
1 bbl Claret Wine,	38 00
1-2 dozen Colonge Water,	3 00

THOMAS PAINE.—An Extract.

His first wife is said to have died of ill-usage. His second was rendered so miserable by neglect and unkindness, that they separated by mutual agreement. His third companion, not his wife, was the victim of his seduction, while he lived upon the hospitality of her husband. Holding a place in the excise of England, he was dismissed for irregularity; restored, and dismissed again for fraud, without recovery. Unable to get employment where he was known, he came to this country, commenced politician and pretended some faith in Christianity. Congress gave him an office, from which being soon found guilty of a breach of trust, he was expelled with disgrace.—The French revolution allured him to France. Habits of intoxication made him a disagreeable inmate in the house of the American minister, where out of compassion he had been received as a guest. During all this time, his life was a compound of ingratitude and perplexity, of hypocrisy and avarice, of lewdness and adultory. In June, 1809, the poor creature died in this country. The lady, in whose family he lived, relates that "he was daily drunk, and in his few moments of soberness, was quarrelling with her; and disturbing the peace of her family." At that time "he was deliberately and disgustingly filthy. He had an old black woman for his servant, as drunken as her master. He accused her of stealing his rum; she retaliated, accusing him of being an old drunkard. They would lie on the same floor, sprawling and swearing and threatening to fight, but too intoxicated to engage in battle." He removed afterwards to various families; continuing his habits, and paying for his board only when compelled. In his drunken fits he was accustomed to talk about the immortality of the soul. Such was the author of "the Age of Reason;" such the apostle of infidelity! Unhappy man! Neither he nor Rousseau, nor Voltaire, is dead, except in the flesh. Their immortal souls are thinking as actively, at least; as ever. We and they will stand on the same great day, before the bar of God. How awful in reference to such despisers and scoffers is tha description--'Behold he cometh with clouds: and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him.'—Bishop McIlvaine's Evidences of Christianity.

CHRONICLE.

CAMBRIDGE, Md.

SATURDAY MORNING, October 13, 1838.

The Orphans' court of this county will sit on Monday the 22d of October.

☞Persons indebted to us for subscription, advertising, &c., will confer on us a great favor by calling and settling at an early day as practicable, as we have our winter supply of Paper, ink, wood, &c., to lay in.

☞Col. Samuel Moore, was nominated by the Loco Foco Convention on the 29th ult, as their candidate for the Mayoralty of Baltimore city.

☞The election for members of Congress and of the Legislature took place in South Carolina, on the 8th inst.

We have now received full returns from the several counties in the state, & William Grason is elected Governor of Maryland, by a little more than two hundred votes. We do not now intend to speculate upon the causes which brought about the result, so deplorable to the best interest of our State. It is enough to say that we with a majority of at least 1500 in the State, have been ingloriously beaten by our opponents. That Maryland is a supporter of the Sub-treasury & of the Administration, we will not believe until we receive much stronger evidence than has yet been furnished.—As far as the Administration of Martin Van Buren was concerned in the late election, Maryland may still be ranked in the opposition. We have a majority in the State Senate and a majority in the House of Delegates, & consequently shall have the United States Senator.

Pennsylvania Election.—The intense excitement felt in this community for the result of the Pennsylvania election, has induced us to give more space than usual to the returns, which we compile from the Philadelphia Ledger, and an extra from the office of the York Republican. The election in Philadelphia was conducted in a most quiet and orderly manner, scarcely a semblance of disturbance being observed, and the heaviest vote has been given which was ever taken in the city. We annex the returns, and also those given to Harrison and Van Buren at the presidential election in 1836, in order that a satisfactory comparison may be made. At that election, Van Buren's majority was something less than 5000 in the whole State.

In the First Congressional District, Lemuel Paynter, (V B) is re-elected by a majority of 507, over Dr Sutherland; in the second district, Messrs. Sergeant and Ingersoll, (Whigs,) are re-elected by large majorities; and in the third district, Charles Naylor, (Whig) has been re-elected over his opponent, C J Ingersoll, by a majority of 749 votes

The slip from the York Republican states that the reported majority for Ritner in Adams county is 1500. This was received by the cars last evening from York.

P. S. By the cars last evening from Philadelphia, through the politeness of the conductor, we learn from our correspondent that Berks county has given a majority of 3,900 for Porter. Bucks county has given a majority of 379 for Porter. Montgomery co., 757 maj for Porter. Chester co. 438 maj for Ritner. Cumberland co. 425 maj for Porter. Lancaster co. 3193 maj for Ritner.

The Whig City Councilmen of Philadelphia, are elected by an average majority of about 3,700.—Baltimore Sun.

And two from Kent doubtful.

Treaty with Peru.—Mr. W. B. Hodgson, who came passenger in the brig Cicero, at this port from Jamiaca, traveled over land from the Pacific by way of Panama and Chagres, and is the bearer of the ratified Treaty concluded between the United States and the Peru-Bolivian confederation. Mr. H. sailed from Callao on the 13th of July. Hostilities still existed between Peru and Chili. Intelligence had been received at Lima from Valparaiso, that the expedition for the invasion of Peru, would sail about the 20th of July. It would consist of 4000 men, and its destination was supposed to be some port of North Peru. The Chilian squadron for some weeks has been blockading the port of Callao.—The American squadron was at Cailoa.

An Important Discovery.

The Teeth.—Waldie notices a discovery of no little importance to such as are troubled with bad teeth. He says:—

"Some time since, Doctor Caldwell, now a practising dentist at No. 68 South Sixth street, had a favorite horse which had become incapable of eating his oats, and on investigation a curious tooth indicated the difficulty to result probably from toothache. Extraction was the remedy of course;—the poor horse was tripped up by tying his feet together as custom prescribes, his gum was lanced as we poor human antics have too often witnessed, and a pair of pincers were applied, as we have also experienced; even a mallet and chisel failed their effect.—Tha tooth was intractable; no effort would withdraw it from its socket. The gum mortified, and, on examining it carefully the doctor perceived a ligament at the neck of the tooth, and without much thinking of the effect he cut it; the tooth immediately fell out or was extracted with a slight effort of the finger and thumb.

This led the operator to reflection, and the hint was obtained which confers upon suffering humanity a benefit, which which may be esteemed by the sufferer second only to the discovery of Jenner, or the circulation of the blood! Subsequent experiments has fully proved that the human teeth are also retained so powerfully in their sockets by a ligament & it is the breaking of this which requires so much manual force; and this when cut, which gives not so much pain as lancing the gums, loosens the tooth and it may be immediately extracted without pain with the fingers! A physician of our acquaintance, whose name we are at liberty to mention if requested, has had the operation of extracting a large molar, treble fanged tooth in this way without pain, and so gratified was he by the fact, that he investigated the anatomy of the parts and extracted all the teeth of a dead subject in the same way, and with no more difficulty than above related. He is a witness not to be impeached, who with many others have already been benefited by this great anatomical discovery."

Poetry.—What is poetry? A smile, a tear a glory, a longing after the things of eternity. It lives in all created existence—in men, in every object that surrounds him. There is poetry in the gentle influence of love and affliction, in the quiet broodings of the soul over the memories of early years, and in the thoughts of glory that chain our spirits to the gates of paradise. There is poetry too in the harmonies of nature. It glitters in the wave, the rainbow, the lightning, and star; its cadence is heard in the thunder, and cataract; its softer tones go sweetly up from the thousand vice-harps of wind, and rivulet and forest; the cloud and the sky go floating over to the music of its melodies; and it ministers to heaven from the mountains of the earth, and the untrodden shrines of the ocean.—There is not a moonlight ray that comes down upon the stream or hill, not a breeze calling from its blue air-throne to the birds of the summer vales, or sounding through midnight rains its low and mournful dirge over the perishing flowers of spring, not a cloud bathing itself like an angel-vision on the rosy gushes of autumn twilight, nor a rock glowing in the yellow starlight as if dreaming of the Eden-land, but is full of the beautiful influence of poetry. The earth and heaven are quickened by its spirit, and the heavens of the great deep in tempest and in calm, are but its secret and mysterious breathing.

Gambling on a large scale.—A letter from Dublin, in the London Times, says that rumors were current to the effect that an Irish peer, who succeeded, on the death of his father, to an estate of £15-000 a year, and nearly £100,000 in the funds, had lost every shilling over which he had control, by gaming, even to his life interest in his magnificent entailed estate. Two other members of the peerage are said to have had the plucking of this fat pigeon. From some hints thrown out in the letter, we infer that the "Irish peer" is no other than Lord Powerscourt, who was in this city not very long ago, and who so grievously disappointed some of our belles, it is said, by afterwards marrying a daughter of the Earl of Roden.—[N. Y. Com. Adv.

Betting in Pennsylvania.—The betting in Pennsylva, upon the Governor's election is absolutely frightful. We yesterday received a handbill from Harrisburg, offering to bet $10,000 that Ritner will be elected Governor by 3000 majority. The money bet in the State can scarcely be less than half a million of dollars.—Chronicle.

Good Again!—A humorous old gentleman, of the Unitarian order, who in days of yore preached in the South part of this state, meeting with a young Calvanistic minister, was informed that he would never reach heaven unless he was born again. "I have experienced that change," added the Calvinist, "and now feel no anxiety." "And so you have been born again," said his companion musingly. 'Yes I trust I have." 'Well,' said the old gentleman, eyeing him rather attentively, 'I don't think I would hurt you, young man, to be born once more."

Specie.—Taking a stroll down Chesnut street on Wednesday, we espied a goodly number of kegs, say fifty or more, filled, & being filled, with about $3000 each of the "rale shiners" upon the Portico of the Mint. The coopers were busily at work ar hem as carelessly as though it was so much corned pork. These kegs we understood were for exportation, and before long their contents will be scattered abroad, filling the pockets of the industrious and enterprising. With a linger ring look at the "shiners," we passed on, consoling ourselves with the idea that if every body had their deserts, you, and we, reader, would have some of that same, jingling in the receptatacle of our indispensibles.—Daily Focus.

MARRIED,

At "Hick's Pleasure," on the 13th ultimo, by the Rev. Mr. Lamdin, Mr. Thomas Higgins, to Mrs. Catharine Mitchell, all of this county.

OBITUARY.

Died at Hicksburgh, in this county, on the 23rd ultimo: Robert Henry, eldest son of Matthias Traverse, in the eight year of his age. What a short uncertain and transitory life, is this, of our existence. To day we enjoy all the pleasures of this world, and think perhaps, that we shall do so for a score or two of years.—our cheeks put forth the bloom of youth and the resemblance of health;—our lips speak with mildness and with pleasing anticipations,—our eyes are permitted to behold all the various works of nature and of art,—and our steps are as buoyant as though we almost expected to enjoy immortality in this life. But alas, what a few hours will change this pleasing picture, to one of the deepest sorrow and gloom.

Let to-morrow usher in, and where are all these sweet pleasures and enjoyments of life,—gone, and gone forever. The cheeks no more retain their bloom of youth or glow of health,—the lips are forbid to speak, and no more are heard those sweet and soft expressions,—the eyes that once beheld the passing scenes of life, are closed with the shades of darkness;—& the buoyant steps which were full of elasticity, are heard and seen no more.—But all, all, remain motionless and silent.

Thus do we have evidence enough, that we are almost as it were but the mere creatures of ephemeral existance, and that the youth as well as the aged, is subject to be called away at the bidding of him who "plants his footsteps in the sea and rides upon the storm." The deceased youth, to whom this obituary is dedicated, was one indeed of very promising appearance, and was endeared to all those that knew him. He bid fair for a long life, and had he been spared, might have proved a useful man to himself, and to society. But it has been decreed otherwise; and we should not murmur at the ways of Him who knows no wrong. It is ever to be remembered, that the ways of Providence are inscrutinable, and that in the dispensation of his Divine Will we should not call into question the purpose or intention of his creation.

But we should live to know, that while He thus puts his law into effect, he is only fulfilling the great and paramount object of his Divine Wisdom. To the parents of the deceased, I would say, "be ye reconciled to God," and bear this sorrowfull affliction and bereavement with fortitude. The loss of a dutiful, obedient, and beloved son, must be affecting in the extreme; and cannot be in the power of the imagination to conceive, or the pen to do adequate justice to the feelings of those that experience it. And in this case, it must fall with double force upon the Father, as he was not an eye witness to the sad scene, nor was he near at hand, but may have pictured to himself at that very moment that all was well.

Yet alas! what vague and empty ideas, do we sometimes dwell upon, not thinking perhaps at this moment what the next may bring forth; and I cannot help from sympathising with him in the extreme, when ere he arrived at home, the thrill tiding came sounding in his ears that a beloved son, had fallen a victim to the wise unrelenting hand of death.

Messrs. Editors—

The election being now over, it will soon be time for us to turn our attention to the next Sheriffalty in our county.

As there has already been two persons named in your paper as candidates for that office, and as I presume the claims of each candidate will be submitted to a county convention, you will permit me to add to the list, the name of an individual who stands high in the estimation of his fellow citizens, and, who, I believe is well qualified to fill the office of Sheriff. Capt. John H. Hodson, would, I am sure, abide the decision of a county convention, and if nominated would receive the support of a
