MARYLAND POLITICS.—A democratic mass convention of Frederick co. was held at Frederick city on Saturday last. Thirteen hundred votes were cast and the following nominations were made:

For the House of Delegates—Andrew Kepler, John F. Elder, Wm. E. Salmon, John Smith of M., John A. Johnson and Outerbridge Horsey.—Sheriff—Michael Keefer. State's Attorney—John Ritchie. Commissioners—G. P. Fox, F. W. Kramer, William Metzger, Benj. F. Brown and Daniel Root of R. Surveyor—Wm. J. Grove.

GEN. HOUSTON'S POSITION.—During the late gubernatorial canvass in Texas, the Hon. Sam Houston delivered a speech at Nacogdoches, which is reported and published in full in the papers. In it he distinctly defined himself to be a democrat, abjured his know-nothingism, denounced Seward and the Republicans, supported Buchanan and opposed "popular sovereignty," the African slave trade, Lecompton and the fire-eating democratic conventions of the South. If he be regarded as a candidate for the Presidency it must be against Douglas.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE.—This committee, who have their head-quarters at Washington, have issued a circular calling upon the party to organize in every State, county and town in the country, in view of the next Presidential election; to freely circulate republican documents and journals, and to secure speakers to deliver addresses in localities where they are needed.—Among the names signed to the circular are those of George Harris, of Md., E. D. Williams, of Del., Alfred Caldwell, of Va., and Lewis Clephane, of the District of Columbia.

GEN. JACKSON'S GOLD SNUFF-BOX. The gold snuff-box designed by Gen. Andrew Jackson to be presented to the American soldier who should acquit himself with most valor in the late war between the United States and Mexico, and which, it will be remembered, was some time since awarded to Gen. Ward B. Burnett, of New York, was formally presented at the City Hall, Nashville, Tenn., on Wednesday last. Andrew Jackson, Jr., being absent, the presentation was made by Dr. John M. Lawrence, of the Hermitage District, and was received by the Hon. Gideon J. Pillow, as the representative of Gen. Burnett.

Baltimore Grain Market.

MONDAY MORNING, August 22.—There was a large supply of Wheat at market to-day, reaching 32,000 bushels, with brisk sales at former prices. We quote white at 1 05a$1 15 for ordinary to fair, 1 20a$1 30 for good to prime, and 1 32a$1 35 for choice; red sold at 1 05a$1 15 per bushel for fair to prime. Corn was in light supply, and sold freely at 75a78 cts for white, and 78a80 cts per bushel for yellow, measure. About 4,000 bushels Oats offered, and mostly sold at 32a35 cts per bushel for new Maryland.

AN AMERICAN EAGLE FOR THE EMPEROR OF AUSTRIA.—A Richmond correspondent of the Petersburg Express says:

The Virginia Central brought down on its train of yesterday afternoon a rare bird of the eagle species. At the invitation of a friend I visited this natural curiosity to-day. It is of enormous size, resembles the common grey eagle so frequently caught in Virginia, but is bicipitous or double-headed—and in this its peculiarity consists. The two heads are clearly defined, and seem to be perfect in all respects. It receives its food with the same facility in either beak, and apparently hears and sees alike through all its eyes and ears. It was captured when a mere fledgling, near Luray, Page county, by Mr. Joannes Schwartzberger, and has been carefully nurtured and fed by himself and family ever since.—Mr. S. has disposed of this curious bird to the Austrian Consul at New York, who intends presenting it to the Emperor, Francis Joseph. A more appropriate present could not be made his Royal Highness, and he will, doubtless, prize it highly. The national emblem of his vast empire, you will recollect, is a double-headed eagle, but we will venture the assertion that this is the first live specimen ever seen. It goes to N. York this afternoon by the Adams' Express, and will be sent out thence by one of the early out-going steamers.

CROCKETT'S LOG CABIN.—On the Mobile and Ohio railroad, not far from Jackson, in Tennessee, says an exchange paper, still stands the humble log cabin, eighteen by twenty feet in size, built and occupied while he lived in the district by the far-famed David Crockett. Its logs are fast decaying, and desolation surrounds it, but no traveler passes it without an eager desire to look upon the humble roof that sheltered one of the truest representatives of the American pioneer character—a hero and an honest man. Near it is a railroad station, called Crocket's station; around it, perhaps, will rise a town to perpetuate a name as familiar to his countrymen as that of Jackson.

Negroes in Massachusetts and Negroes in Kansas.

The last number of the Westminster Review contains a very learned and elaborate article showing the nature of the influence of locality upon knowledge, in which some very remarkable and interesting facts are disclosed. We wish that somebody of a similar turn of mind would explain in what manner locality affects the capacity of the African race for the possession of political privileges. That it does exercise an influence is proved in our own country. In Massachusetts, for instance, a negro who has just arrived by the underground railroad, having robbed his master, and, perhaps, committed several other crimes, becomes at once the perfect equal of the most exalted native-American, and the superior of the naturalized citizen, and is invested with the franchise and all the most cherished privileges of citizenship. By the letter and spirit of Massachusetts law, which makes negro-worship "commensurate with, and inseparable from," Massachusetts soil, the moment the truculent negro arrives, his hands red with the blood, and his pockets full of the money of his master, he becomes redeemed, regenerate and disenthralled.

Kansas, however, does not exercise this civilizing influence. If, deluded by the freedom-shriekers, he runs to that celebrated Territory, where the champions of free-soil, free men, free love, free fights, &c., fought and bled, and loved to congregate, he finds, on his arrival, that he not only cannot vote, or assume equality with the clamorous defenders of his rights, while he was at a distance, but that it is only by sufferance that he is allowed to sojourn in what he believed to be the paradise of free negroes. The reason for this is that the soil and climate of Kansas do not refine him as do those of Massachusetts.

Ill-natured people ask whether the Kansas black-republicans—most of whom, by the way, hail from Massachusetts Emigrant Aid Society—do not brand themselves as impostors when they thus rudely teach their colored brudren that they have no rights which freedom-shrikers "are bound to respect." There is a seeming inconsistency that Massachusetts men in Massachusetts should find such a combination of virtue in run-away-negroes, and that Massachusetts men in Kansas should find that the colored race have no rights of any kind. But, of course, the inconsistency is only in appearance. It can be explained away on philosophical grounds; and as the latest and most competent ethnological writers have failed to account for the phenomenon in their accounts of the characteristics of the African race, we must look to the writer in the Westminster Review to explain, and that speedily, lest the opinion may gain ground that the black-republican abolition cry about freedom and equal rights of black men was an imposture, got up and practised to serve the purpose of a set of political jugglers who are always ready to perpetrate any fraud, if by so doing they can advance their own interests.—Washington Constitution.

THE LONDON TIMES.—A correspondent says: The London Times has eighteen reporters at the Houses of Parliament, and for these, as well as the majority of its compositors, the working hours are the night hours exclusively. It owns four cabs, which are employed solely in carrying reports at night to and fro between Printing House Square and the Palace at Westminister. The reporters relieve each other at the Houses every quarter hour, and thus though the debate in the Commons till four o'clock in the morning, the Times gives it in full by sunrise, tho' it cover two whole pages of the journal.

BOY DROWNED.—On Tuesday last, a son of Mr. James N. Parrott, living in the Trappe District, Talbot county, went to mill in a horse cart and after getting his meal or flour he made preparations to start for home, when from some cause the horse commenced backing and continued to do so until boy, horse, cart and all were precipitated into the mill-pond. Both the boy and horse were drowned. The body of the boy was found on the next day. He was about eleven years of age.—Easton Gazette.

The following from one of our Agents, who is too well known in his own State to need endorsing by us, will be read with interest by dyspeptics:

LEBANON, N. H., Feb. 29, 1856.

MESSRS. SETH W. FOWLE & Co.,—Gentlemen: Please send by Express, another Box of Oxygenated Bitters, as we are nearly out.—These Bitters have recently been used with unusual benefit by a member of my family, who has derived more advantage from it than from all other medicines, which fact being known, greatly influences the demand for the Bitters. There is no profession, in which a reputation for truth and sincerity is more desirable, than in that of an Apothecary; and for this reason, I have always been careful in recommending remedies. But I feel perfectly safe in advising all who are troubled with dyspepsia, to resort at once to the Oxygenated Bitters. Yours truly, &c.,

GEO. S. KENDRICK.

ANOTHER EDITION
OF THE Mastodon Newspaper!

ROBERTS' ILLUMINATED QUADRUPLE CONSTELLATION!

The largest sheet of paper ever made and printed, measuring 70x100 inches!—The greatest Typographical Achievement of the Age!

The subscriber announces that he has made such arrangements as will enable him to keep printing a constant supply of his mastodon paper, "The Illuminated Quadruple Constellation"—and all orders from any part of the country, for one or more copies, will be immediately filled on their receipt. All newspaper dealers will keep a supply on hand ready for purchasers. We have Electrotyped the immense eight pages, and therefore can print them as fast as required.

The Press, with one accord, have pronounced The Illuminated Quadruple Constellation the greatest newspaper achievement ever accomplished. Notwithstanding its immense size, it is superbly printed on the very best and strongest white paper ever made or used for a newspaper. It contains eight mammoth pages! thirteen columns to a page—each page four feet in length! In its Imperial folds is embraced more matter than is contained in six different numbers of Harper's Monthly, or fifteen different numbers of the New York Ledger, or any other similar weekly! Four of its immense pages are largely occupied with splendid engravings, portraits of noted personages, &c., &c.

Among the prominent contents may be mentioned the re-publication complete, and without any abridgement whatever, of the celebrated MOON HOAX! as originally published in the New York Sun, in 1835—Two Splendid Novellettes, by J. H. Ingraham, author of "Pillar of Fire," "House of David," "Capt. Kyd," "Lafitte," &c.,—a splendid story by Edward Everett—and one by Sylvanus Cobb, Jr. But it is impossible in an advertisement to give a full detail of its immense contents. It is emphatically a Sheet for the Million—filled with every variety of useful and entertaining reading! In every sense it is the greatest wonder of the age!

Single copies 50 cents—Three copies $1.

☞Postmasters or others sending us $2 for six copies, shall receive one extra for their trouble. Postage on this paper in U. States and Canada 10 cents. By steamers to France, Germany, &c., from New York, 12 cents.

NEW WORK,
BY REV. J. H. INGRAHAM.

JUST PUBLISHED:

The Pillar of Fire;

Or, Israel in Bondage.

By the author of "The Prince of the House of David."

BEING an account of the wonderful scenes in the Life of the Son of Pharoah's Daughter, (MOSES,) from his youth to the ascent of Sinai; comprising, as by eye witnesses, his Miracles before Pharoah, Passage of the Red Sea, and Reception of the Law on Mt. Sinai; containing an elaborate and richly colored description of the Architecture of the Egyptians, their Manners and Customs in Peace and War, in the Temple, the Family, the Mart, and at the Tomb; and also of the Israelites, while in the land of Bondage, together with Picturesque Sketches of the Hebrews under their Task-Masters; of Scenes, Processions and Spectacles upon and beside the Nile, and Legends of the Obelisks, Sphinxes and Pyramids, and of their Founders before the Flood; delineations of beautiful women—Miriam, Amense, Luxora and Osiria—and of wonderful men—Aaron, Remeses, (Moses) and the Prince of Uz, (Job) narrated in a Series of Letters from a Syrian Prince traveling in Egypt to his Royal Mother, Queen of Tyre.

The volume abounds in characteristic passages of highly wrought beauty and Dramatic Incident.

To the 100,000 readers of "The Prince of the House of David," we need only say that the book is by the same author, and more wonderfully interesting and enchanting.

ITALY,
And the War of 1859.

GIVING a history of the causes of the War, with Biographical sketches and finely engraved Portraits of its Heroes, together with the official accounts of the Battles of Montebello, Palestro, Magenta; etc. etc. and Maps of Italy, Austria, and all the adjacent Countries, by

Madame Julie De Marguerittes,

with an introduction by Dr. R. SHELTON MACKENZIE, handsomely bound in one volume, 12 mo. cloth, and published by G. G. EVANS, 439 Chestnut st., Philadelphia.

PRICE $1.25,

"ITALY AND THE WAR OF 1859."—This handsome volume, written by Madame Julie de Marguerittes, and suitably illustrated with Maps and Portraits has just been published by G. G. Evans (the original Gift Book Publisher) of Philadelphia, at the low price of $1.25 and is as well timed as it is well executed.—The design is to show Italy in her PAST and PRESENT, so that the reader may understand on what grounds she bases her expectancy of a glorious Future, with this view the author, who has traveled largely through Europe, and has resided for a considerable period in Milan, with visits to the other great cities of Italy, describes places with which she is acquainted, and personages whom she intimately knew. The statistics of the various States now engaged in hostilities, are given, with biographical sketches of the Sovereigns generally, and Statesmen, whom the war has thrown into prominency. A great deal of personal anecdote is introduced, which very much adds to the spirit and acceptability of the work. The causes of the war are fully and fairly developed, and there is appended an authentic account of the war itself up to the present time, including the official reports of the various battles, and the chivalrous exploits of General Garribaldi, the gallant Guerrilla leader.

We notice that in an introduction to the work, Dr. R. Shelton Mackenzie, Literary and Foreign Editor of "The Press," (Philadelphia) very warmly eulogizes its designs and execution.

A copy of the Book, and a handsome present, will be sent by mail, post-paid, upon receipt of $1.25 for the book, and 21 cents for postage.

OPINION OF THE ENGLISH PRESS.

"We have read Mr. H. S. Brown's 'Lectures' with much satisfaction. Mr. Brown knows how to speak to 'the people.' He has almost every qualification for it, if we may judge from his printed addresses. There is no maudlin sentimentality about him; but all is healthful as the breeze on the hill. There is no clap-trap; he is both too honest and too earnest for that. There is neither a Pharisaic scorn of vice, nor any effeminate apologizing for it, but a wise Christain man's righteous hatred of it, who knows how to look on those who are sin-degraded as his brethren. He speaks to the people almost as one of themselves, only from a higher level; and, though he uses their daily phrases, yet he does not thereby pander to vulgarity. He has a happy acquaintance with our homely common sense proverbs, and employs them tellingly. There is no affectation of extraordinary 'concern for the poor' or their 'souls;' but there is that real manly concern which can afford to dispense with profession, and to express itself chiefly in calm but brave and sensibly earnest endeavors. The proverb, 'Much cry and little wool,' you may reserve in his case. His true desire to benefit the people is partly shown by the pains with which he collects and prepares the statistics of vice, poverty, disease, &c., in order that his well-marshaled facts may preach to the understanding. The genuineness of his earnestness is evinced by the cheerfulness with which it toils along the highway of common sense. He has no recourse to reckless, undiscriminating charges, and is too strong for exaggeration. Truth is enough for him; would that this were no distinction! While he faithfully touches the worst vices, yet you never feel that the censor himself must have a coarse taste or prurient imagination. These Sunday afternoon lectures are not 'sermons,' nor intended to be. In them he grapples with acknowledged evils; but still, while opening the eyes of the people to the real nature of much of what their daily life too often is, and showing what it might be, he is never ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, nor chargeable with even seeming to let them go away with the impression that anything else, and not the kingdom of heaven, is the first thing to be sought. In Mr. Brown we have a man who, we should judge, can afford to go where any classes of God's creatures are domesticated, for he is strong, and his strength is holy."—Monthly Christian Spectator.
