ROCK HALL ITEMS.

Capt. Harry Hogans has sold his vessel, the J. W. Lewis, to down-the-bay parties.

Mrs. B. H. Coburn was compelled to return to the hospital on Tuesday for further treatment.

Rev. Mr. Burr was quite painfully injured by a fall while at work on the church last week.

Miss Sallie Hogans was a visitor among her former young lady friends here the past week.

Mr. Adam Kelley has secured employment at the Gas Factory in Spring Garden, Baltimore.

Mrs. Howard Taylor, of Havre de Grace, is being entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Taylor.

Druggist Durding has on exhibition a a turnip weighing fourteen pounds. It was grown by Mr. Jas. P. Hatcherson. Next.

The lecture delivered by Rev. F. H. Mullineaux in the M. E. Church Thursduy evening was an excellent affair and thoroughly enjoyed by a large audience.

The "hamshaw" (northwest wind) came in the nick of time on Wednesday. Oysters had taken quite a slump Tuesday and all the buyers had been tied up in Baltimore for several days unable to dispose of their stock Now it is hoped that prices will advance again.

Capt. Downey, of the police boat, is now stationed on Swan Point bar. The dredgers, it is reported, have made greater preparations for the dredging season than they have for many years. It will require great vigilance on the part of our worthy guardsman.

Mr. William T. Downey and wife removed to Baltimore on Tuesday. He and his son, Frank, will engage in an oyster house business and Mrs. Downey will conduct a boarding house at 301 N. Broadway. She already has thirteen boarders. They anticipate a thriving business.

There were many pranks played upon our residents on Hallow'een night. Numerous gates were removed and bridges taken up, which caused much annoyance. The janitor of our public school building encountered some of the pranks about the school premises, but he rather enjoyed them, as they furnished him with sewing cotton enough to last his family for some time.

The Rock Hall S. D. A. Church held a beautiful and inspiring "HarvestHome Ingathering Service," on Monday evening before a large and happy audience. The following program was splendidly rendered :

AN OYSTERMAN'S VIEW.

MESSRS. EDITORS :—A long trip down the river from the Cliffs brought a surprise. From below Piney Point for several miles I could see but about ten or twelve boats at work on the oyster bars, and upon inquiry I find that the oysters are in such a poor condition that the run boats have difficulty coming out even at the low prics of 45 or 50 cents on the bar. Hence the men from up the river who have heretofore made a good fall's work below Piney Point have concluded to work nearer home, where oysters are in better condition. Though scarcer, the difference in the present and prospective prices will even up matters for a month or so, but after that it will be a shout from any one who catches two bushels a day. The immense growth of young oysters is nearly all below Ebb Point, and this non-working of the bars below that point is going to cause the smothering of thousands of bushels, as handling them scatters them and gives them room to grow in good shape.

I was also met with another and very agreeable surprise that a right good number of Republicans were in favor of the Poe Amendment, on general principles, principally ; but, as one man put it, he was tired of being in a "nigger" party when he felt that for every negro cut out there would be white men join the Republican party. It was not entirely new, but good and true. We will have two parties, and, as our friend says, it will be white against white and on principle and divergence of ideas, and after election we can all shake hands and take a social smoke together, as we cannot now do with our colored friends.

Do we any harm to the dearly beloved colored brethren by this amendment? Will it not be an incentive to those who have ambition enough to become real citizens to get down to their work and educate themselves and children? The white men of Maryland are not afraid of an educated mass of voters, white, black or yellow. What we fear and object to is the practice of the Republican office-seekers taking the place of the old-time slave drivers and driving the blacks up to the polls in a body and voting them, the same as the old slave drivers drove the lazy ones out to pick cotton, and do it on the plea that they gave them their freedom ; whereas there was not one man in one hundred who enlisted in the Union army would have went if he had been informed beforehand that the war was for the purpose of inflicting negro suffrage on his white friends and neighbors. This probably is ancient history, but at this critical time it should be brought to the attention of the people, who are apt to forget.

Now, as this is the last call, let the white folks look at the matter in a proper light. Mr. Gorman or no other man will rule Maryland, and with the negro relegated to the rear there will be two parties of white men, so nearly evenly divided that each will be obliged to put the best foot and best material forward to win, and we can then always be assured of an honest government with strenuous politics eliminated ; and we can ride home from the polls with our neighbors who disagreed with us before the election satisfied that no matter who won the white man was at the helm of the ship of state, and everything is all right—all right. STILL POND NEWS.

King Momnus held this old town in his sway Tuesday night and not until early hours of Wednesday morning did disappear the last of the Hallow'een merrymakers, whose fantastic garbs and grotesque antics lent for several hours unwonted animation to the principal streets of our town. Masqueraders ruled the evening, the merry makers represented every possible character from those of the comic sheet to Prince Charming and other well known figures of folk love, not only the youngsters but children of a larger growth were to be seen in the most fantastic of costumes. There were clowns arm in arm with kings, friars with harlequins and many men seemed to enjoy appearing in woman's attire and much attention was attracted to those of the opposite sex dressed in men's costumes, men gotten up as women betrayed themselves however by long awkward strides. While a dapper youth on closer inspection would reveal a timid knock-kneed girl that proclaimed feminine gender.

Mrs. W. G. Rasin and daughter Misses Lena and Florence, spent Sunday the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Price.

Rev. T. S. Holt, Mrs. J. C. Rasin and Miss Alyce Hackett were appointed delegates from our Epworth League to attend the League Convention which was held this week at Clayton, Del.
