LETTER IV.

(Conclusion from first page.)

But there is not only doubt upon this subject of apostolic succession. When viewed in connection with the disorder already adverted to; but many of the most talented men of the English church have expressed their doubts as to these claims being capable of proof. Let us notice some of these. "The famous "Henry Doarrell positively affirms that "the office of the apostles perished with "the apostles themselves, in which of-"fice there never was any succession to "any of them, except to Judas the trai-"tor." We find the following expression coming from a source entirely unexpected, and affords the best of proof how much uncertainty there is even in the minds of the champions of Puseyism as to the foundation upon which their claims rest. The passage is from the Rev. A. P. Percival B. P. C. chaplain in Ordinary to the Queen, the author of an apology for the Doctrine of apostolical succession, written in answer to Powell on the succession. Now this champion says "If nothing will satisfy men but actual demonstration I yield at once (p. 79.) Why blame Mr. Wesley and ministers and members of the M. E. Church for not believing and acting on this fanatical chimera, where such men as Wm. Percival acknowledge that there is no historic evidence to support it.

Let us quote once more in this connection the language of Archbishop Whately, a man every way qualified to examine this question. This quotation is used to shew the views of disinterested, charitable and honest men in "the church" and at the same time to shew that Mr. Wesley did not act unscripturally in the course he pursued toward the American Methodists. "If a man consider it as highly probable that the particular minister at whose hands he "receives the sacred ordinances, is really thus apostolically descended, this is the utmost point to which he can with any semblance of reason attain; and the more he reflects and inquires, the more cause of hesitation he will find."

"There is not a minister in all chris-"tendom who is able to trace up with "any approach to certainty his own spir-"itual pedigree,—this sacramental vir-"tue, if a single link of the chain be "faulty must on the above principles be "utterly nullified ever after, in respect of "all the kinds that hang on that one.—For if a Bishop has not been duly consecrated or had not been previously rightly ordained, his ordinations are null; and so are the ministrations of those ordained by him, and their ordination of others and so on without end. The poisonous taint of informality, if it once creeps in undetected, will spread the infection of nullity to an indefinite irremediable extent.

And who can undertake to pronounce that during the dark ages no such taint ever was introduced? Irregularities could not have been wholly excluded, without a perpetual miracle; and that no such miraculous interference existed, we have even historical proof, not only of the profound ignorance and profligacy of life of many of the clergy, but also the possest irregularities in respect of discipline and form.

We read of Bishops consecrated when were children—of illiberate profligate laymen and habitual drunkards admitted to Holy Orders—even in the mem-"ory of persons living, there existed a bi-"shop concerning whom there was much "mystery and uncertainty prevailing as "to whom, where and by whom he was "ordained, that doubts existed in the "minds of many persons whether he had "ever been ordained at all. The ulti-"mate consequence must be that any one "who sincerily believes that his claim "to the benefits of the Gospels covenant "depends in his own ministers claim, on "perfect apostolic succession as above "described, must be involved in propor-"tion as he reads, and inquires and re-"flects and reasons on the subject, in the "most distressing doubts and perplexi-"ty."

"It is no wonder, therefore, that the "advocates of this theory studiously "(how true!) disparage reasoning, and "deprecate all exercises of the mind in "reflection, decry appeals to evidence "and lament that ever the power of read-"ding should be imparted to the people. "It is not without cause that they dread "and lament "an age of too much light" "and wish to involve religion in "a so-"lemn and awful gloom." It is not "without cause that—they forbid all pry-"ing curiosity to examine their founda-"tion" (Whately's Kingdom of Christ p. p. 183, 184, 185, 186.) I cannot forbear adding to the above quotation the following expose' of these arrogant claims. The learned prelate proceeds as follows. "The fallacy, indeed, by which according to the above principles the christian is taught to rest his own personal hopes of salvation on the individual claims to "Apostolical Succession" of the particular minister he is placed under, is one so gross that few are thoughtless enough to be deceived by it in any case where religion is not concerned;—where, in short a man has not been taught to make a virtue of acquiesence."

Although it may appear irrelevant to the point now in hand, yet as my statement in a former letter of the power of an American Bishop to exercise the functions of his office in the British dominions even to the baptizing of an infant, has been denied, the following quotation will with all unprejudiced persons set the matter at rest. "Provided "that neither he (Bp. White) the said bi-"shops, nor any person or persons, deriv-"ing their consecration from under him, "now any person or persons, admitted to "the order of deacon or priest by him "or his successors, shall be enabled to "exercise his or their office or offices "within his majesty's dominion" (Bp. Whites memories of the P. E. Church p. p. 322, 323.

After proper consultation the Puseyites, (I understand) have come to the conclusion to treat these letters with contempt and yet both here and at Cambridge, great efforts are made privately to prevent their influence among the people. One of these gentlemen in C., as soon as the paper is published, takes a copy in his pocket, and goes the rounds, if he finds a family which has not read it, he says nothing; but if they have he pulls out the paper and thus covertly makes his strictures and the reason is this "The Spiritual Prince." Their pastor and master" the Bishop, will not let his boys controvert, he, good man knows the imbecility and imprudence of the rising generation. But then the people will read and that is all that is desired by,

Yours &c.

VAINGLORY.—Considering that the total force of Lopez's expedition, as shown by the army roll officially published by the Cuban authorities, was but three hundred and ninety-one officers and men, all told, the world will be somewhat surprised at the inordinate exultation betrayed by the former at its destruction, and especially the grand expressions of the Captain General in his proclamation praising the valor and loyalty of the Cubans who assisted his six or eight thousand troops to win the victory. "History," says General Concha, "does not present, perhaps, in its pages, a single example of an invasion so promptly and completely suppressed." Here the Captain General does not speak with the exact historical precision that might have been expected. There have been some equally remarkable examples of invasion, to say the least of them—perhaps a great deal more remarkable—and of invasions promptly and completely suppressed,—the places and periods of which were not so far removed but that they might have have been heard of at Havana. Some persons will remember the last invasion of Mexico made by Spain,—that of Barradas, who, in 1829, landed four thousand troops (they all came from Havana) at Tampico; where Santa Anna, attacking them immediately with seven hundred men—Mexicans, too—destroyed and captured one-fourth of them at a blow, and compelled the remainder to capitulate in six weeks, only about one-half of them living to get back to Havana. Seven years later—in 1836—the conqueror of Barradas, the same Santa Anna, led an invasion of ten thousand men into Texas,—an invasion which, in a short time, was "completely suppressed," in what has always been deemed a somewhat remarkable manner, by twelve hundred Texans, who captured "the butcher of Goliad and the Alamo," with some six hundred of his followers, all red-handed from the slaughter of their countrymen, and yet spared him and them—did not put a single one of them to death in cold blood. The suppression of the Lopez invasion will undoubtedly figure hereafter; and so will Gen. Concha; but neithar of them, passibly in a manner calculated to excite much admiration.—Phil. North American.

PRESERVE PEACH TREES.—Clear the earth away immediately next to the trunk of the tree, down to near the root, and then place two or three lumps of unslacked lime, each about the size of a goose egg, next to the tree, and cover it over with a little earth. It will eradicate the worm, and in a short time give much vigor to the tree. The lime should be applied when the tress are young, but will answer as well for older tress, by increasing the quantity of lime about one-third. From my experience, once in three or four years is all that is necessary to insure a vigorous healthy tree. —Nat. Int.

UNCERTAINTY OF LIFE.—The Democratic papers of New Hampshire, only ten days ago, had at the head of their colums the name of Levi Woodbury for President of the United States, and that of his cousin, Luke Woodbury, for Governor of New Hampshire. Now both are withdrawn by death, having died within a few days of each other. The funeral of Judge Woodbury took place on Sunday last, and was attended by an immense concourse of persons.

CUBA SECURED TO SPAIN.—We learn from the National Intelligencer that France and England have expressly guarantied to Spain their protection in the possession of Cuba; while a Washington correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce confirms a report of a secret treaty, in which the United States are pledged to preserve Cuba to Spain. This writer states, that "in the archives of our government we have an engagement made in Jackson's administration, between the United States, England and France, to the effect that Cuba shall not be seized by either party, and that Spain shall remain in undisturbed possession of the Island."

THE NEWARK (DEL.) MURDER.—We learn that Gynn, charged with killing his brother-in-law, and wounding his wife on Saturday last, near Newark, Delaware, has been arrested in the woods in the vicinity of Wilmington.

SPOT ON THE SUN.—There is now a very large spot on the sun's disc, it is stated, of a semi-circular shape. The "spot," however, does not seem to diminish the heat of the sun.

News of the Day.

MR. SENATOR BERRIEN.—We find in the last number of the Towanda (Pa.) North Branch Democrat the following statement as to the position of this distinguished gentleman:

"Hon. John M. Barrien, long known as a distinguished Whig and United States Senator from Georgia, has renounced all allegiance to his old party on account of its opposition to the Union generally, and declars his sympathies to be irresistibly in favor of the Democracy and the Union."

FOR LIBERIA.—The New York Colonization Society have chartered the brig Zeno for a voyage to Liberia. She is to sail on Saturday with about one hundred and forty emigrants from Albany, Hartford, Philadelphia and Baltimore. The majority are intelligent colored persons, having some means. The brig Seaman has just returned from a very successful trip.

THE LITTLE BATEMANS.—P. T. Barnum, as we see by the late English papers, was to introduce the little Bateman sisters to the London public at St. James' Theatre, on the 25th of September, in the tragedy of Richard Third, and in a piece translated from the French of Scribe, called "The Young Couple."

KENTUCKY. The official returns of the Kentucky election foot up as follows: For Governor—Powell, (dem.) 54,613; Dixon, (whig) 53,761. For Lt. Governor—Thompson, (whig), 63,599; Wickliffe, (dem.) 47,454; Blakely, (emancipation,) 1,670.

CROPS IN ENGLAND. The English harvest was proceeding satisfactorily when the Franklin sailed. The wheat and grain crops will be the finest that have been gathered for many years.—The potatoe disease in Ireland had received a check, and the loss from blight will be a very trivial one.

THOMAS MOORE. The decease of this celebrated poet may be daily expected. The last accounts state that 'there is no improvement in his health, and as in the case of Southey, his mind is beyond the repair of medicine or of time.'

GEN. LOPEZ'S SONS.—The Nonpareil, of Cincinnati, states that two sons of General Lopez are among the students of St. Vavier College, in that city.

DIED,

In this town, on Friday afternoon last, of Dysentary, HAROLD, aged eleven weeks, twin son of Dr. Alex. H. & Delia B. Bayly.

[Baltimore Papers please copy.]

In Easton, on Thursday, 11th inst., Dr. WILLIAM H. THOMAS, in the 56th year of his age.

Mr. RICHARDSON GAMBRIEL, the subject of this memoir was born A. D. 1795, and though destitute of the power of religion, in the estimation of his friends and acquaintances, he lived a moral life. At a camp meeting, held near "the Big Mills" in Dorchester county, Md., in 1831, he sought and obtained "the knowledge of salvation by the remission of Sins." Upon which he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church at "SALEM," of which he was a uniform and consistent member until the time of his death.

Since 1847 he had been the subject of deep affliction and great suffering, which he bore with the resignation and fortitude of a Christian, and often expressed a desire when it should be the will of God, to depart and be with Christ.—His confidence in the Redeemer remained unshaken until the arrival of the messenger which summoned (we humbly trust,) from a world of pain and sorrow, to one where,

"Sickness and sorrow, pain and death.
"Are felt and feared no more."

He died in great peace, Aug. 14th 1851. S.

GRAIN.—The supply of grain is still light, as farmers at present prices have little inducement to bring their wheat to market. There has been some demand for shipment this week, and prices are somewhat better for parcels of good.—Sales of good to prime reds at 73a76c, and some parcels not so good at 70a75c; white at 76a83c, and family flour white at 83a85c.

At the first of the week white corn sold at 58a60c, and yellow at 55a56c, but we now quote sales of prime white at 57a58, and cut at 55a56c, at which latter figures yellow is also selling. We quote Md., Rye at 50a63c, and Oats at 33a36c.
