THE Democrats of the Legislature have at last agreed upon a plan for a searching inquiry into B. & O. matters. It now looks as if something is doing. Senators Gorman, Perkins and others deserve special credit for pushing the matter.

Do Women Want to Vote?

The woman suffragists have been having a convention in Baltimore the past week. Many speeches and arguments have been made as to why men do not allow their mothers, sisters and daughters a right to vote.

We asked a Kent county lady if "Women really wanted to vote." She said, "no, for if they had been anxious for that right she knew the gallant Maryland men would have given it to them long ago." We guess that is true.

The Kent Electric Road.

It is very gratifying to state that the right of way for the Kent Electric Road has been granted by land owners from Tolchester to Fairlee We are informed that Messrs. J. Walter Skirven, J. P. Nicholson, A. A. Rinehart, James Bell, Thos. Hill, Washington G. Skirven George Bell and others have offered rights of way. These gentlemen are wideawake, progressive citizens and realize what it means.

The promoters state that unless owners of land on the route donate the right of way the road cannot be built. If they will act promptly work on the line will be pushed rapidly and by July 4th, cars will be running over the route. It is up to the farmers and landowners. Will you act?

The Democratic Committee Ignored.

In another column we publish Gov. Warfield's appointments for Kent county. In making those appointments it seems the Governor ignored nearly all the recommendations of the State Central committee for the county. Thus is the recognized official head of the party treated with indifference and contempt. The only reason we have heard for such treatment of the party here by the Governor is told in an incident which it is said occured a few days since when the Governor was called upon by a delegation of Kent Countians. In the midst of the argument pro and con for the delegation's recommendations this sharp query and retort occurred:

Delegate Crane—You must remember, Governor, there is a future.

Governor Warfield—Well, I don't know about that, Mr. Crane, I don't think there is much future for me in Kent County!

Not The Real Thing.

A gentleman in Millington upon reading the Governor's appointments for Kent, expressed his surprise at the selection of the Notary named for that town, "for," said he, "I was assured by Senator Foxwell—twice in one day—that my recommendation would secure the appointment. I named Mr. Jos. Mallalieu, as he was the bank teller and a gentleman in every respect fitted for the place, and as the pay is practically nothing and there is no politics whatever in it, I thought surely our Senator could do such a little thing as that for us—especially after his apparent anxiety to gratify us. I am astonished." A quiet listener promptly explained it. "My friend," said he, "you forget that when you were getting Senator Foxwell's assurance you were not talking to the real thing!"

Made An Assignment.—Henry R. Torbet and V. M. Torbet, owners and publishers of the Cecil Whig, of Elkton made an assignment Wednesday to L. Marshall Haines, of Elkton, for the benefit of their creditors. The Whig was founded in 1841 by Henry R. Torset, and was the recognized Republican organ in Cecil county. Within the last five years no weekly newspaper has had a more rapid growth than the Whig This paper is advertised to be sold at trustee's sale on March 6, 1906, at Elkton.

Well Put.

Kent county land is selling as high as $94 an acre in lots of 200 or more acres. But then, Kent land, like Queen Anne's, is cheaper at $100 per acre than the average county of Maryland at $50 an acre. No better agricultural section exists anywhere than in Kent, Queen Anne's and Talbot counties.—Centreville Observer.

By the removal of the working force of the Delaware Railroad Company, for many years stationed at Clayton, to the new office building in Wilmington, Del. the little town is to receive a hard blow. It was a purely railroad town and many of the men had bought their own homes there. Now that they are to be transferred to Wilmington, Clayton will become only a station of passing interest.

ANNAPOLIS NEWS.

This has been a busy week at Annapolis with the law makers.

Senator Perkins' B. & O. investigation bill, as predicted in the NEWS last week, had the right of way and took up much of the time of the Senate.

A bill to prevent gaming, fishing, hunting and fowling on Sunday, has been offered by Delegate Bingham, of Washington county. This bill is aimed at all pastimes, and parents are made responsible for the acts of their children and employes for servants.

A bill to tax every dog in the State $1.00 has been introduced by Delegate Busby, of Carroll county.

The Republicans are anxious to change the election law and would like several changes which would give them just a little advantage.

The divorce question seems to be receiving a good deal of attention at this session. Senator Griffiths' bill requires that clerks of courts shall ask applicants for marriage licenses whether either party has been divorced and that the license shall disclose it if it be a fact, so that ministers will be advised of it. In the House the bill to postpone a new marriage for a year or two years after the decree of divorce, has caused a great deal of discussion. The object of the bill seems to be to require the courting for the new marriage to be done after the first marriage has been dissolved, and not while one of the couple to be married is the wife or husband of another.

A bill has been introduced in the Senate by President Seth, giving any railroad in the state the right to use electricity in moving trains over any part or all of its lines. The bill was introduced by request and gives a blanket permission for a general conversion of steam railroads into electric lines.

THE public school officials of the State are to meet in Annapolis March 1st to ask for any needed legislation desired.

Anxious to Find Fault.

A newspaper writer under the fictitious name "Observer," (who is simply the usual chronic grumbler,) makes this statement—either in ignorance or for the deliberate purpose of misleading the public:

"We are still paying, I am advised, interest on bridge bonds and jail bonds, and some of the bonds of each issue are still outstanding, although by their terms they should long since have been paid by our commissioners."

SHOULD BETTERTON BE INCORPORATED?

BETTERTON, MD., FEB. 13, 1906.

MESSRS. EDITORS KENT NEWS:

We have had nothing but incorporation for the last three weeks; a few favor it, many are opposed to it, some of the residents are in favor of it because they will be mostly benefitted by it. This affair has aroused the feeling of some of our people that may be lasting. Some people took an active interest in the matter whose property was not taken in the charter limits. One gentleman at the last meeting arose and made a very eloquent address trying to impress the audience of how beautiful and the many advantages the community would have and so on, no doubt he felt his importance but he had never lived in an incorporated town and did not expect to reside in this one. It may be very well that every little village should be incorporated, but there are two ways to every project and two sides to every question, then in this case if we can't persuade we will drive like lambs to be slaughtered, or in other words if you don't do as we want you we won't give you work. This plan might have worked hundreds of years ago according to "Darwin" but not in these enlightened times.

Our people have been complaining of high tax rate; won't the incorporation make them higher at present and not many know how much higher they will go whenever the Legislature meets. One of our most highly respected citizens who signed the petition favoring the incorporation saw his opinion would not be recognized, says if there is a Gol and he will forgive him this time never again will he sign another petition; another gentleman signed the petition favoring the affair with the promise that the space he left above should be filled in as he did not want to head the petition, and in other instances the matter was misrepresented to him, but when the meeting was called last Saturday to have the charter read, to his surprise he had headed the petition, he simply took the petition and drew several lines through his name with ink; this trick was detected he expressed his sentiments of the situation which the Constitution of Maryland gives every man a right.

FEW contracts for growing tomatoes have yet been made in Kent. Elsewhere in the NEWS Mr. Downey advertises for 100 acres for which he will pay $8 per ton.

Supt. Quantz Remembered.—The employees of the American Straw Board mill presented the retiring Superintendent, Mr. F. W. Quantz, an expensive and beautiful gold-handled silk umbrella Monday evening, as a token of their high esteem and kindly regard. The presentation took place in the parlors of the Voshell House, Mr. Stewart R. Matthews acting as spokesman for his associates. Mr. Quantz replied with evident deep feeling, expressing his appreciation of the gift and his sorrow at the severance of relations which had been uniformly cordial and pleasant. The memento, a handsome silk umbrella, was made to order. The material was selected by a committee composed of Messrs. W. C. Peregoy, Stewart R. Matthews and W. T. Bennett. The handle is mounted with solid gold richly engraved.

Mr. Quantz, who for thirteen years has been superintendent of the straw board works, left Wednesday for his home in Winchester, Va., after a few weeks rest and recreation he will locate in Vincennes, Ohio, where he will assume the management of an extensive plant. During his residence here Mr. Quantz has proved himself an honorable and exemplary citizen, and has made many warm friends, who view his departure with keen regret.

His successor, Mr. C. M. Clay, of Yorktown, Indiana, arrived here last week and has taken charge of the Chestertown mill.

Fishermen Organize.—The recently incorporated Tidewater Fishermen's Protective Association of Maryland met in the State House Annapolis last Wednesday and formally organized for work. About 120 delegates from the tidewater counties and Baltimore were present. These officers were elected: Joseph P. Soliers, of Calvert county, president; J. E. Apsley, of Kent, vice-president; and J. Frank, of Annapolis, secretary and treasurer. These gentleman, with one from each of the 15 tidewater counties and the incorporators, are to be the directors for the first year.

The organization is composed of persons living in the tidewater counties and Baltimore and actually engaged in fishing or hauling, selling or shipping fish, representing, in fact, the commercial fishing interests of the State, and, according to one of those active in the organization, it is intended to combat the efforts of the Maryland Game and Fish Protective Association to restrict the taking of fish with nets.

The American reporter is poking fun at Kent's representative in Thursday's paper as follows: Senator Linthicum, of Baltimore city, was in the president's chair Wednesday afternoon during the passage of a number of Senate bills. Considerable amusement was caused by the pretended deep interest of some of the senators in Senator Foxwell's bill to amend the charter of a fire insurance company in Kent county. The Senator from Kent was much perturbed for a time lest his bill be defeated for want of a constitutional majority. For some reason when the bill was called every senator opened his file and followed the reading clerk closely. Senator Brewington believed the powers were too large, as did also Senator Moore, but deep down in their hearts their sincerity melted to fun, and when they had succeeded in getting Mr. Foxwell well wrought up over the matter every senator voted for the measure without discussion. Then there was a hearty laugh, which was participated in by the temporary presiding officer.

WEDDING EVENTS.

The Park Hotel, Chesapeake City, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Feb. 14th, when Edith Barwick, youngest daughter of Mrs. Emma Jones Willis was united in marriage to Mr. Lee Clark Elliott, of Newark, Del., Rev. Hamilton B. Phelps officiating. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. James O. Willis, of Baltimore. The parlors were decorated in greens and potted plants. The wedding was private, only the immediate families of the contracting parties being present. A luncheon was served before the ceremony. The happy couple left for a short trip amid showers of rice and will be at home after March 1st.

SMITH—HERVEY.

John Paul Smith and Miss Myrabelle Hervey were married Wednesday afternoon of last week at the home of the bride's parents at 874 Robeson street, Fall River, Mass. The groom is a resident of Galena, Kent County, Md., and the bride is the daughter of Fred L. Hervey of the firm of F. L. Hervey & Co., belt manufacturers.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank Peters of the First Christian church. The wedding ranks as one of the social events of the season. The home was tastefully decorated with sprays of palm, small bouquets of pinks and other greenery.

The canopy in the parlor under which the marriage ceremony was performed looked very pretty, and leading to this was a large arch made up of greenery intermingled with sprays of palms and pinks. On either side of the canopy were large potted plants and in the background potted azalias. The entrance to the parlor was set off with floral decorations and the general scheme of decoration was carried out in the other rooms.

After Rev. Mr. Peters had pronounced the couple man and wife, a large bell of flowers artistically arranged was shaken and a shower of confetti fell upon the happy couple. The Lohengrin and Mendelssohn wedding marches were played. The maid of honor was Miss Charlotte Allen Hervey, sister of the bride and Ralph W. Ramsdell of New York City was best man. The ushers were Joseph Duffee, of New York, Dr. James Hyde, brother-in-law of the bride, William Cobb and James Whittaker, of New Bedford. A reception followed the marriage ceremony, music being rendered by the Orphus orchestra.

The bride was attired in a gown of white silk, neatly trimmed with chiffon and lace to match and carried bride roses. Mr. and Mrs. Smith were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Hervey, mother of the bride, who wore grey silk, and Mrs. Hyde, sister of the bride. Mrs. Smith's traveling costume is coral velvet. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their future home on Glen street, Glen Cove, Long Island.

Why Do Hens Stop Laying?

Why is it that hens in good condition will stop laying as soon as the first cold snap comes? This is a matter that is worthy of attention. It is a serious thing, when eggs are selling at 2 cents each, to have the hens suddenly cease laying, when they should be filling the egg basket.

But there is a cause for it. It is not for lack of food, as the cessation of egg production may happen in a single day. It is not due to disease, for the hens may all be healthy. The cause, in my opinion, is lack of warmth. While the heat of the body comes from the food eaten, yet when the cold is severe the digestion is not sufficiently rapid to create the heat necessary to protect the bird from the cold and also to continue egg production.

Egg production ceases because nature's first effort is to take care of the bird before it is permitted to do extra work in production. What is the remedy? It is simply to guard against the loss of animal heat. This may be done by keeping the cold winds away from the hens, by providing shelters and sunny places for the hens. Try also and make winter as near like summer as you can by giving some green food and cut green bone or beef scrap, and give the birds a little extra attention and clean houses and the hens should no get on a strike. —O. E. Shook, in Southern Planter.
