Double Sunday Train Service on the Delaware Division.

On Sunday, May 27, two Sunday trains in each direction will be established on the Delaware Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and branches, except the Smyrna Branch and the line between Georgetown and Franklin City. No Sunday trains will be operated on the Smyrna Branch and only one train in each direction will be run between Georgetown and Franklin City.

Through trains will leave Broad Street Station, Philadelphia, at 7.06 a. m., and 3.46 p. m. Sundays; leave Wilmington 7.53 a. m., 4.30 p. m., and arrive Delmar at 10.58 a. m. and 7.35 p. m. Returning, trains will leave Delmar at 7.00 a. m. and 3.47 p. m. Sundays, arrive Wilmington 10.05 a. m. and 6.52 p. m., arriving at Broad Street Station, Philadelphia, 11.00 a. m. and 7.45 p. m. Connections will be made with branch trains in each direction, as indicated above. For time at local stations consult new time table.

A Heavy Load to Carry.

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness and general ill-health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be properly digested, and its products assimilated by the system. The blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion, and in turn the nerves are not fed on good, red blood, and we see symptoms of nervousness, sleeplessness and general breakdown. It is not head work, nor over physical exertion that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor, thin blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip, bronchitis and consumption. Fortify the body at once with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—a rare combination of native medicinal roots without a particle of alcohol or dangerous habit-forming drugs.

A little book of extracts, from prominent medical authorities extolling every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will be mailed free to any address on request by postal card or letter. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Many years of active practice convinced Dr. Pierce of the value of many native roots as medicinal agents and he went to great expense, both in time and in money, to perfect his own peculiar processes for rendering them both efficient and safe for tonic, alterative and rebuilding agents.

The enormous popularity of "Golden Medical Discovery" is due both to its scientific compounding and to the actual medicinal value of its ingredients. The publication of the names of the ingredients on the wrapper of every bottle sold, gives full assurance of its non-alcoholic character and removes all objection to the use of an unknown or secret remedy. It is not a patent medicine nor a secret one either, This fact puts it in a class all by itself, bearing as it does upon every bottle wrapper The Badge of Honesty, in the full list of its ingredients.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" cures, weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver and biliousness, ulceration of stomach and bowles and all catarrhal affections no matter what parts or organs may be affected with it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original little liver pills, first put up 40 years ago. They regulate and invigorate, stomach, liver and bowels. Much imitated but never equaled. Sugar-coated and easy to take as candy. One to three a dose.

THE STORY OF KITTY KNIGHT

The Building at Georgetown, Kent County, Known as the Knight House, Purchased By Mr. Andrew W. Woodall, May or May Not Have Been Original Structure, but Stands on Old Site—One Story is That First House Was Burned by British in 1814.

The mention in the NEWS of the purchase by Mr. Andrew W. Woodall of the Kitty Knight home, at Georgetown, Kent county, has awakened new interest in this relic of the War of 1812. Mr. Woodall bought the house from Mrs. I. H. Betton, of Georgetown, and on last Thursday moved his family to their new home.

The question as to whether this house is the original building occupied by the Knight family during the stirring times incident to the strife with England is disputed by many. Col. William H. Love, secretary of the Board of Trade, who is probably the best informed citizen of the State concerning Maryland history, is inclined to the belief that the original house was sacked and burned by the British forces. When seen yesterday at his residence, 611 Reservoir street, he said:

"Not having any of my historical matter at home, I am not certain, but it appears to me that the Knight house was fired. I was informed to that effect in Virginia many years ago by some old business connections of the Knight family.

On Original Site.

"Although the present building at Georgetown may not be the original Knight homestead, it is known to occupy the exact site of the older structure and is, therefore, revered as a landmark. Its historical interest centers altogether in the fact that it was the home of the beautiful and courageous Kitty Knight, who by her appeals to the British commodore, when he landed his forces on the banks of the Sassafras river, prevented the burning of the home of an aged widow who was lying very ill at the time."

In conversation the other day Colonel Love gave an interesting rehearsal, from memory, of some of the facts of history associated with the life of Kitty Knight.

"The Knight family," he said, "lived in Georgetown next to the estate of the Pearce family. The latteris represented now by Judge James Alfred Pearce, of the Court of Appeals at Annapolis, whose father would undoubtedly have been president of the United States had he not died just previous to the slated tender to him of the Democratic nomination, already decided upon by the party leaders.

"After the defeat of the small American force just below Georgetown, on the Sassafras river, the British landed and proceeded to burn Fredericktown, in Cecil county, and Georgetown, in Kent. The American force was under command of Capt. Veazey, who made a most gallant defense. In his company, strange to say, was a private soldier by the name of Miles Standish, a direct descendant of the Puritan captain.

"Commodore Cockburn, in command of the British forces, had applied the torch to the home of a widow in Georgetown who was lying very ill in a room in the second story. Kitty Knight, who had left her father's home and had been watching with horror the destruction wrought by the soldiers, rushed up to the British officer and earnestly appealed to him to put out the fire, saying that otherwise his action would result in the death of the aged woman.

Flames Extinguished.

"Commodore Cockburn immediately complied with her request, ordering his men to extinguish the flames. He then had the house next door fired, but a moment later had this blaze also extinguished upon being appealed to a second time by Miss Knight, who feared that the wind would blow the sparks over to the widow's home and again set it on fire. Miss Knight, I believe, aided in extinguishing this second blaze."

Concerning Miss Knight personally, Colonel Love said: "She was distinguished for her magnificent presence, and her courage and common sense. A family tradition is that on one occasion in Philadelphia, during the last term of President Washington, he was so much struck by her beauty and grace that he requested an interview.

"An interesting incident of Miss Knight's life is the fact that Commodore, then Admiral, Cockburn—his promotion having followed his return to England after the war—came back to the United States and offered Miss Knight his hand and heart in marriage. His proposal was not accepted, and he went back to the mother country much dejected."

The name of Kitty Knight will always stand out prominently on the pages of Maryland history. Vessels at different times have been named in her honor, and but comparatively recent the Tolchester Company has had a new acquisition to its fleet of steamers christened "Kitty" Knight."

Gold Discovered in Delaware.—Gold has been discovered on the farm of Dr. T. O. Clements, near Dover, Del. A quantity of soil, raked up by a brother of Dr. Clements, who had been engaged in mining enterprises in the west, was assayed at Scranton, Pennsylvania, and the returns show that the gold contained in the find amounted to $2.69 to the ton. Experiments will now be commenced there and a section of the earth will be excavated in the hope that the precious metal can be found in sufficient quantities to warrant smelting. Dr. Clements was at one [illegible] a practicing physician of this tow[illegible] has [illegible] here. Centreville [illegible]rd.

William H. Vanderford Dead.

William H. Vanderford, general manager of the Democratic Advocate Company, of Westminster, Md., died on Saturday morning last, in his 66th year. Mr. Vanderford had been a resident and prominent journalist of Westminster for more than 38 years. He was a native of Baltimore, a son of the late State Senator Henry Vanderford and Mrs. Angelina Vanderford, and the last survivor of their 12 children. His brother, the late Charles H. Vanderford, who was associated with him in the publication of the Democratic Advocate for 25 or 30 years, died in January last.

Mr. Vanderford was a very skillful practical printer and able business man. He learned the printer's art in the office of the Cecil Democrat, at Elkton, when his father was the publisher and proprietor of that paper, and later perfected himself in typography and printing in Philadelphia and Baltimore offices. In the spring of 1868 he went to Westminster and purchased the Democratic Advocate, devoting himself with untiring energy to the printing, business and local Departments of the paper until his death, making it one of the best county newspapers in the State and building up a large and profitable business. For some years his father was editor-in-chief of the paper.

Mr. Vanderford was a decided Democrat, but was strangely averse to participation in political affairs. He never aspired to office and very rarely, if ever, attended a primary meeting or convention of his party. He was interested in projects for developing the business and promoting the growth of Westminster and was identified with most of the enterprises for that purpose. He leaves a handsome estate.

Centreville Man President of a College.—Rev. James H. Straughn, son of Mrs. Laura M. Straughn, of Centreville, and pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church of Lynchburg, Virginia, has resigned his pastorate to accept the presidency of the West Lafayette College at West Lafayette, Ohio. The resignation came as a great surprise as Mr. Straughn only a few months ago declined an election to the position of Christian Endeavor superintendent of his denomination, making at the time a financial sacrifice to remain in Lynchburg. He goes immediately to his new work, and the pulpit will be supplied until his successor is secured.
