Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

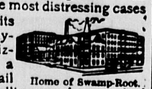

If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Home of Swamp-Root.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y. on every bottle.

ARE WE IN IT?

INDIANS OF EASTERN SHORE

Their Grants Of Land And Burying Grounds—Their Villages, Arts, And Languages.

Few people now living upon the Eastern Shore of Maryland, enjoying, in season, the delicious peach, the crimson strawberry, the toothsome fish, and the luscious oyster, realize that not many years ago a vast number of unsophisticated Indians were living in the same section. The traditional history of these men of the forest is not told around the hearthstone as it formerly was, and our boys and girls know but little of their dwelling places, customs and characters.

These Indians were living in the same sections and subsisting almost entirely upon the natural products of water, field and forest. As evidence of their existence in large numbers too, may be sites of villages, burying grounds and war feasts. Apparently many districts then contained as many Red Men as they now contain whites, but were not so well distributed. With them, it was not as producing as it is now, but as consuming. The numerous rivers and streams on the Eastern Shore that point, like so many fingers, toward the Bay, were dotted near their shores from source to mouth with Indian clearings which were mere garden spots as compared with the vast fields and farms of the present.

There were at one time as many a seventeen distinct tribes located on the Eastern Shore and these were divided and sub-divided into groups, families and bands. Two tribes, the Accomacks and the Accohanocks, were located on what is now known as the Eastern Shore of Virginia.

The Aroecs, Sarapanaugh, Nause and Nantiquacks Indians are supposed by some to be bands of the Nanticokes. The Nause were located on the North side of the Nanticoke river, near its mouth and the Nantiquacks were located further up the river, both in Dorchester county. The location of the Aroecks and Sarapanaugh is uncertain.

The Abanbenes, Autsasnaps and Tequassimoes supposed to be bands of the Choptank Indians were in 1669 located with the Choptanks, on the South side of the Choptank river, near Secretary creek, in Dorchester county. The home of these Indians was defined by an act of the General Assembly of Maryland in 1723 on Secretary creek southward along the Choptank river and located by Col. Thomas Smithson and Lieut. Col. Thomas Ennals.

The Conoys, or Canai, were located on the Manokin river in Somerset county. They were close affilated with the Nanticokes and may have been a part of that tribe. Kuskarawacks, a band of the Nanticokes, were located on the same river. The Nanticokes were the most numerous on the Eastern Shore located in Somerset, Wicomico and Dorchester counties.

The State of Maryland by act of General Assembly in 1704 and re-affirmed by act in 1723, fixed the boundry of their home between Chicone creek and the northwest fork of the Nanticoke river, Dorchester county. But owing to the enroachment of the whites, a new dwelling place was given them on Broad creek, then in Somerset county, containing three hundred acres of land.

The Ozenies were located on the South side of Chester river. The Susquehannas, another large and powerful tribe, occupied the country near the head of the Chesapeake bay and mouth of Susquehanna, Elk and Northeast rivers. The Tockwaghs or Tockwhoghes were located on the Sassafras river. The Wighcomcos resided on the Wicomico river.

While the relation between the Indians and the whites were friendly on the Eastern Shore, the Red Man was watched with a suspicious eye. The Nanticokes were very fierce. On several occasion the homes of the whites were burned by the Indians and settlers were murdered. The Governor adopted energetic measures to stop these outrages and a system of signals was established for protection.

The population of these several tribes and bands was not definitely known; at best it was only an estimate. Captain John Smith, the first explorer of the Eastern Shore, in his expedition of 1608, estimated that there were at that period several thousands of them. Bozeman speaks of the Choptank Indians including the Alaebnes, Hutsawaps and the Tequassimoes as being "remarkable for their strength and numbers."

Prof. Dinwiddie, a few years ago, located many of the Indian villages and burying grounds on the Eastern Shore, among them were two large village sites on the Manokin river, and many others on the Nanticoke and Wicomico rivers. Perhaps, the most important was near the Nanticoke, on the Dorchester side, just below Sharptown, near the ancient Indian village of Red Banks. Near this spot exists a hillock of about four acres, entirely surrounded by wooded mirage, which answers perfectly to the description given by Bozeman, of the great burial grounds of the Nanticokes. Extensive excavations have disclosed the fact, that the earth there has been redisturbed to a depth of several hundred feet and contains quantities of bark and charcoal. The facts point to the conclusion that this had actually been the burial ground of these ancient people. But their bones have all been carried by their offspring in their many wanderings. It was well known that they were in the habit of carrying their dead with them in their migrations. Rev. Dr. Pyrlans mentions the fact that the Nanticokes made periodical visits between the years 1750 and 1760 from their home in Wyoming, Pa., to their ancient burial grounds on the Eastern Shore, for the purpose of carrying the bones of their ancestors to their new hunting grounds.

October Weather Conditions.

According to Rev. Irl R. Hicks the weather during October is likely to be of a somewhat tough character. We give below in condensed form his prediction as given in Word and Works:

A reactionary storm period is central on the 10th, 11th and 12th. The Venus influence all through this part of October will tend to extremes of temperature, with storms all the way from vicious lightning and thunder to sudden change to almost winter storms and temperature.

A regular storm period covers the 16th to 20th. Tropical storms, with high temperature and lightning, will be natural on and about the 16th. The 17th is another seismic period, extending from the 15th to 20th.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 23d to 25th. Our agricultural readers should keep all of these October periods well in mind.

A regular storm period covers the last five days of the month, embracing the second Full Moon in October on the 31st and Moon on the equator on the 29th.

Memorial Resolutions.

WHEREAS, it has pleased Almighty God in His infinite power and wisdom to remove from us one of the most esteemed honorary members of the Adelphia Literary Society of Washington College, MR. LEMUEL CHARLES MEGINNIS; and—

WHEREAS, his death has been such a great loss both to the community and the institution whose interests he was always active in promoting, it is befitting that we, the Adelphia Literary Society, of which he was a recent and honored president, express our appreciation of the work done by him during his membership and our realization of the great loss the community has suffered by his untimely death; therefore be it

Resolved, That his valuable services to our society and his association at this institution be held in great remembrance.

Resolved, That we tender to the bereaved and grief-stricken family and to the relatives our heartfelt sympathy and our earnest and fervent hopes that even so great a loss to them on earth may be more than recompensed by his accession to the rights of an eternal abode in heaven: that in spite of the fact that the Supreme Hand which seized him just as he was developing into active manhood may seem unmerciful: our prayer is that they may soon realize that all is for the best; and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the county press, that a copy be forwarded to the bereaved family and a copy of them be recorded in the history of this society.
