HOW TO STOP IT.

Whiskey Selling in Chestertown May Be Broken Up as in Hot Springs—Will It Become Necesrary to Adopt Such Measures?

That the local option law is violated in Kent county there can be no doubt, but it is almost impossible to catch the guilty ones. For instance, there are places where whiskey is said to be dispensed quite freely, and yet a few days before court convenes the proprietors and friends find it convenient to visit other places. There is a way, however, in which this traffic may be broken up, as told in the following telegram, dated Monday, October 8th:

"Forty years of gambling came to a spectacular end in Hot Springs, Ark., to-day, when the City Improvement Union of 500 citizens closed 30 gambling rooms and gave a lot of gamesters a few hours to leave the city Disgusted by the continued evasion of their duty by the sworn officers of the law, 23 executives of the local union, known as the "skidoo committee," last night issued a final warning, both to the recalcitrant officials and to the gamblers that the rooms must be closed at once.

"No heed was paid to the warning, and to-day the entire membership of the union, headed by a brass band, marched to the city hall, police headquarters and court house, and forced state, county and city officials to raid and close the gambling houses forthwith, the 500 going along to see that it was done properly. To the roll of drums and blare of trumpets playing patriotic airs such gamblers as were found were marched to Union Station and ordered to take the first train out and return no more. Five hundred gamblers, cappers and women left to-day and to-night, and fully $500,000 worth of paraphernalia is boxed for shipment."

A FEW HINTS TO FARMERS.

Suggestions From Those Who Have Made Agriculture Pay.

For 13 years the Ohio Experiment Station has been conducting experiments with fertilizers on a farm which had been reduced to a very low state of productiveness by exhaustive cropping. In these experiments corn, oats, wheat, clover and timothy have been grown in a five-year rotation, each crop being grown every year, and the fertilizers have been applied to the corn, oats and wheat.

When acid phosphate has been used alone, 80 pounds an acre on corn and oats and 160 pounds on wheat, the increase yield on the five crops of the rotation has reached an average value of more than $18 50 an acre, leaving a net profit of $16 an acre over and above the cost of the fertilizer.

When to this quantity of acid phosphate were added 480 pounds of nitrate of soda and 260 pounds of muriate of potash, these being distributed over the three cereal crops, and raising the total cost of the fertilizer to $21 for each five-year period, the total increase has risen to a value of $43, leaving a net gain of $22, or more than $4 annually.

One-third of this line has been left continuously unfertilized, and unfertilized plot adjoining everyone that has received fertilizers. For the last eight years of the test the yield of wheat on this unfertilized land has been 9½ bushels an acre—a yield which has been increased by acid phosphate alone to an acre, and by the complete fertilizer to 29 bushels.

It has thus been possible to raise the yield of this worn land from less than 10 bushels of wheat an acre to an average of 29 bushels, and to accomplish this result by a method which has not only paid its way, but has paid in addition an annual rental for the land of more than $4 an acre.

It will be seen that while the first cost of the acid phosphate used alone has been much smaller than that of the fertilizer than from the acid phosphate alone.

Other experiments on the same farm have shown that farm manure, taken directly from the stable to the field after being reinforced with some carrier of phosphorus, such as acid phosphate or the powdered rock from which acid phosphate is made, may completely replace the nitrate of soda and muriate of potash used in the test above described, thus reducing the necessary expenditure for the fertilizer to that for phosphorus alone.

In these experiments the manure has been applied to the corn crop in a three year rotation of corn, wheat and clover, at the rate of eight tons an acre, and has increased the yield to a nine-year average of 62 bushels of shelled corn an acre, followed by 25 bushels of wheat without any further manuring, the total increase on the three crops of the rotation reaching an average net value, after paying for the phosphate, of $45 an acre, or $5 an acre annually after paying $1 a ton for handling the manure.

A WESTERN MAN who has had considerable experience in raising potatoes says that by planting two or three flax seed in each hill not a bug appeared in the patch. He claims to have tried it for several years in succession with always the same result. This is a simple and inexpensive experiment and is worth trying.

Trust to Nature.

A great many Americans, both men and women, are thin, pale and puny, with poor circulation, because they have ill-treated their stomachs by hasty eating or too much eating, by consuming alcoholic beverages, or by too close confinement to home, office or factory, and in consequence the stomach must be treated in a natural way before they can rectify their earlier mistakes. The muscles in many such people, in fact in every weary, thin and thin-blooded person, do their work with great difficulty. As a result fatigue comes early, is extreme and lasts long. The demand for nutritive aid is ahead of the supply. To insure perfect health every tissue, bone, nerve and muscle should take from the blood certain materials and return to it certain others. It is necessary to prepare the stomach for the work of taking up from the food what is necessary to make good, rich, red blood. We must go to Nature for the remedy. There were certain roots known to the Indians of this country before the advent of the whites which later came to the knowledge of the settlers and which are now growing rapidly in professional favor for the cure of obstinate stomach and liver troubles. These are found to be safe and yet certain in their cleansing and invigorating effect upon the stomach, liver and blood. These are: Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Stone root, Bloodroot, Mandrake root. Then there is Black Cherrybark. The medicinal principles residing in these native roots when extracted with glycerine as a solvent make the most reliable and efficient stomach tonic and liver invigorator, when combined in just the right proportions, as in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Where there is bankrupt vitality—such as nervous exhaustion, bad nutrition—and thin blood, the body acquires vigor and the nerves, blood and all the tissues feel the favorable effect of this sovereign remedy.

Although some physicians have been aware of the high medicinal value of the above mentioned plants, yet few have used pure glycerine as a solvent and usually the doctors' prescriptions called for the ingredients in varying amounts, with alcohol.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is a scientific preparation compounded of the glyceric extracts of the above mentioned vegetable ingredients and contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs.
