FRED. G. USILTON. WM. B. USILTON, JR

WM. B. USILTON'S SONS, PUBLISHERS.

SATURDAY, - NOVEMBER 17, 1906

It is now estimated that Jackson gave $65,000 for his congressional victory!

THE ... in hearty sympathy with any pl... will break up the bribery of voters. ... is a disgrace and infamy upon the State.

THE Centreville Electric Light Co. have secured the Dudley & Carpenter wharf property and have begun the erection of their power plant. Day as well as night power will be sold.

THE cry of bribery at this time is like locking the stable after the horse has been stolen. It's true this is the first time that an Eastern Shore Congressman admitted buying his seat and maybe something can be accomplished. It is surely a crying need of the age.

THE Republican State chairman refuses to join the Democrats in an agreement not to spend money in bribing voters at the election next year! Mr. Hanna, unfurl your banner and let the cause of right prevail. Do you think it will interfere with your Gubernatorial aspirations?

SOME people have gotten the impression from reading The Sun and other daily papers that the Eastern Shore is the only place where the Republicans (and Democrats, too) bribe the voter. This is a serious mistake. It is a practise that exists in Baltimore (except in Bonaparte's ward) (?) Western Maryland, Southern Marvland and in every State in the Union, (except possibly in Delaware) (?) the reason the Eastern Shore is mentioned is because they come higher here!

REPUBLICAN bosses in "playing politics" have brought Chicago face to face with the negro problem. T. D. Barnett, a negro, who was put on the Republican ticket to catch the negro vote, has, to the surprise of the bosses and himself, been elected a municipal judge by a few hundred votes. Race prejudice has been aroused throughout the city and the Republicans are roundly denounced for allowing Barnett to be a candidate for an office where he must pass judgement upon the delinquences of whites.

It is said he has been asked by the bosses to resign, but the negro leaders insist that he fill the office.

It was Chicago that began the movement to hold receptions in which negroes and whites were to be brought together on terms of social equality.

It was in a Chicago convention—the last national convention that the Republicans held—that a Baltimore negro was selected as the orator to represent the South. Can it be this same Chicago that is so widly indignant at the fact that a negro judge has been elected to preside over one of its courts? This judge was not forced on the city. He was elected by 495 votes over 27 white lawyers of ability who were candidates and whose sole fault was that they were Democrats.

Now the very people who put him on the ticket are distressed at his election. A number of lawyers have suggested to Chief Justice Olson that he assign Judge Barnett to the trial of negro cases only. But the Chief Justice refuses to discriminate. He says: "This is not a jim-crow court, and I shall assign Mr. Barnett where I think he will do the most good."

Cardinal Gibbons in his sermon at the Cathedral in Baltimore, Sunday morning last said some things that could be regarded as significant on the eve of the election. His text was "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's." On the subject of vote-buying and selling the Cardinal said, in part: "No man can be a good Christian who sets at defiance the laws of the Commonwealth. The man that breaks the laws of the State is violating at the same time some commandment of the decalogue. The citizen who buys or sells votes, who creeps into political power by intrigue and briberv, is a thief and is transgressing the commandment which says 'Thou halt not steal'. The moral condition of the State is what we ourselves make it. It is our own creation, for the State is composed of units of citizens. The destiny of the Commonwealth under God is in our own hands."

Don't Betray Confidence.

How few people there are who know how to keep a confidence made to them, in the true sense of the word! They frequently forget the fundamental principle of the whole idea, which is this: Have no desire to tell it to another person. So much can be done to betray a confidence by dropping into hints and inuendoes without once deliberately breaking the compact to the letter, but only in the spirit. What a valuable point to have in your reputation, that you are a perfectly safe person to whom to intrust a secret. Remember when you are inclined to pass a confidence to a bosom friend, however much they may want to hear it, they will remember the fact against you when they want to confide in you, that, as you are capable of breaking your bond with one friend, so you can do it with another, perhaps with them next time.

JACKSON ADMITS SPENDING A BAR'L!

Says Its Nobody's Business — Not Quite $100,000—Congress Is Called Upon To Declare His Seat Vacant And Order A New Election — Bribery Of Voters Like Buying Cattle.

This Shore has become stirred as never before over the disgraceful conduct of "Chorister" Wm. H. Jackson. He says he never sings until the hymn is given out but he has evidently forgot his purpose and started in before he should. He has made a terrible discord!

The Baltimore Sun has just awakened to the awful condition in politics but the NEWS has been fighting this battle for years. In the Ellegood campaign Kent Democrats asked the Republicans to join in an agreement and they refused. In Wicomico the Republicans broke their agreement this year.

To a Sun reporter Wm. H. Jackson said in an interview Wednesday night in Philadelphia Congressman-elect William H. Jackson, of the First district, with the utmost frankness, admitted having spent large sums to "induce voters to the polls," and declared that it could not be proved "he had bought a solitary vote."

He said he deplored vote buying and large campaign expenditures, but would not "promise to be good" until he saw "what the other fellows are going to do."

Mr. Jackson said that the amount of his campaign expenditures was nobody's business but his own.

He ridiculed the idea that his seat in Congress would be contested by Mr. Smith, the defeated candidate, and virtually defied the Democrats to show their hand.

He contended that the present anti-bribery movement is a mere "agitation," and said he did not care what the newspapers printed.

Mr. Jackson was asked whether it was true that he had made the statement that money was spent for votes.

"Don't you know money is spent there every election?" was the reply. Don't you know that? What ails you, anyway? Don't you know that?"

"Yes, sir," he was told, "but it isn't generally known that you had admitted it. Is it true, Mr. Jackson, that in the neighborhood of $100,000 was spent in your campaign?"

"No, it isn't true!" Mr. Jackson shouted over the telephone. "I never said that."

DEMOCRATS ACCUSED.

Mr. Jackoon was then asked whether he had made the following statement, which is said to have come from him:

"They are out for the boodle and they must get it or they don't vote. If you buy a man you buy him; it matters not whether you give him whisky or a $5 note. No whisky was given any man to vote for me with my knowledge or consent. The Democrats used whiskey as a vote getter. I did not see it myself, but I am told they had jugs and bottles at many polling places. People living in glass houses should not throw stones.

Mr. Jackson was then asked whether he had said this:

"TAKES MONEY TO WIN."

"It takes money to win an election on the Eastern Shore. The precedent of spending it was not established by me. Years ago, when the Democrats had the votes anyway, they bought them. This spoiled the voters and made them so that they wouldn't go to the polls unless they were paid to do so. No man without money need run for Congress in the First district, and a poor man has no chance against a rich man."

At this point Mr. Jackson lost his temper. "I'm not going to talk. I don't care who this is. Do you suppose I care who it is? I am going to bed. Do you hear that? I am going to bed!"

With this Mr. Jackson cut off the conversation and persumably went to bed.

Mr. Jackson is also reported to have said before he left Salisbury that "in Baltimore you have brass bands and parades and things like that. They cost money, don't they? So what's the difference? Down here the fellow that has a vote would rather get the cash for it. Then he can provide for himself the kind of amusement he prefers, whether it is a brass band or something else."

Ex-Governor Elihu E. Jackson in a sensible interview strongly condemns his brother for breaking the solemn compact. He says, "if my brother had expressed two weeks ago the views which he alleged to have expressed in the interview with your correspondent, he could not have been elected in this district with even the most lavish use of money, for I am of the opinion that there are enough honest Republicans in the district who would have been so incensed at his views that they would have declined to support him, even though he was the regularly nominated candidate of the Republican party."

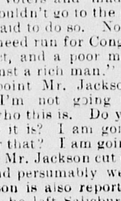

REPUBLICANS AMAZED.

Among the Republican politicians Mr. Jackson's confession has created consternation. It has fairly left them aghast at its boldness and defiance. One leading Republican said:

"The age of political lunacy has come. Would anybody have believed that Mr. Jackson had no more sense than to admit. He ought to have a guardian."

A GRAND WORK.

Kent Countians Among the Active Workers in the Y. M. C. A. Campaign—It was a Big Undertaking.

To complete a building fund of $500,000 in 30 days for the purpose of erecting a new home for the Young Men's Christian Association at the corner of Franklin and Cathedral streets, Baltimore, was the purpose of the campaign which ended at 12 o'clock Tuesday night.

Mr. Charles S. Ward, one of the international secretaries, whose specialty is building, organized the campaign at a banquet held at the Belvedere on October 15. As an evidence of faith in the project, the board of directors pledged $100,000 on condition that the rest of the $500,000 be raised, and $100,000 was appropriated from the sale of the present site, which is yet to be consummated. The third $100,000 was raised in two weeks, and the fourth in one week. There were three committees—the Citizens' Committees, headed by Mr. Joshua Levering; the Young Men's Business Committee, headed by Mr. J. Harry Tregoe, and the Central Branch Young Men's Christian Association Committee, headed by Mr. C. W. Maydwell. Each committee is composed of 100 men, divided into teams of 10 each. Among the active members of the young men's teams were J. W. Chapman, Jr., Roland Watts and others well-known in Kent. Cards bearing names of prospective subscribers and the amounts which they were expected to give were apportioned, and every prospect was personally canvassed. These cards are legally binding in form, and the amounts subscribed are payable in 6, 12 and 18 months.

The lot on which the new building will be erected is 113 by 140 feet, and cost $100,000. The building will be eight stories high, and will contain dormitories, bowling alleys, a swimming pool, separate baths, pool and billiard rooms, a fully equipped gymnasium and all the usual educational and religious rooms.

MYERS SAFE IN CHESTERTOWN JAIL.

Sheriff Andrew Medders landed Wm. Myers, the Still Pond colored murderer in the Chestertown jail on Wednesday night. The Sheriff went to Baltimore and obtained the requisition papers from Gov. Warfield and going to New Jersey presented them to Gov. Stokes, of the latter State and received the prisoner from the Camden, N. J. Jail where he was placed as told in the NEWS last week. Myers is very talkative over the affair and seems to take the crime philosophically. Myers' wife and son are also in Chestertown jail and all will have to remain until the April term of the Kent County Court.

CHARCOAL AND SALT FOR HOGS.

It is a good deal easier to keep a hog healthy than to cure him after he gets sick. Doctoring hogs is a discouraging business first, because it is hard to correctly diagnose the trouble; and second, because administering proper remedies is difficult. One thing that will help keep hogs in a healthy condition is charcoal and salt and we give below Theo. Louis' directions for preparing it.

"Take six bushels of corn-cob charcoal or 3 bushels of common charcoal, eight pounds of salt, two quarts of air-slacked lime, one bushel of wood ashes. Break the charcoal well down, with shove, or other implement and thoroughly mix. Then take one and a quarter pounds of copperas and dissolve in hot water and with an ordinary water-pot sprinkle over the whole mass then again mix thoroughly. Put the mixture into the self feeding boxes and place where hogs of all ages can eat of their contents at pleasure. The charcoal furnishes the required mineral matter which has been lacking in the food, and is also an excellent corrective for digestive troubles, while the copperas is a valuable tonic and stomachic."

More Salary for Rural Carriers. — Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Degraw will recommend to Postmaster General Cortelyou a substantial increase in the maximum salary allowed letter-carriers in the rural free-delivery service. Estimates for the appropriation necessary to provide for an increase in salaries of rural carriers, if determined upon, will have to be submitted to Congress by the Postmaster-General. There are now in the rural free-delivery service 36,437 carriers employed in all parts of the country, the service being operated from postoffices in cities, where it is very expensive to own and maintain horses, as well as from postoffices in small towns and villages, where the cost of grain and forage varies greatly.

The man who has never lived in the country when a boy, milked the cows, kissed the girls at the husking bees, stacked hay in the high wind, swallowed quinine in scraped apples and castor oil in cold coffee, ate molasses and sulphur, wore a sack of assafoetida around the neck and drank sassafras tea in the spring to purify his blood, has lived in vain.

The first new shelled corn of the season was received in Baltimore last Saturday. The consignments consisted of two lots. One lot, contained 542 bushels graded No. 3 yellow, was sold at 48 cents a bushel. The other lot, which was also yellow and consisted of 214 bushels, was sold by sample at 48½ cents. The corn showed fair condition. It came from the Eastern Shore of Maryland. The first arrivals of shelled corn last year in Baltimore was on September 28. It sold for 47 cents a bushel.

A TOURNAMENT was held at Cecilton on Saturday for the benefit of Cecilton Driving Park. Harry Robinson won the first prize, a set of harness, and crowned Miss Josephine Aiken; Mr. Shallcross won the second prize, and crowned Miss Mary Walters; E. P. Bishop won the third prize, a blanket, and crowned Miss Mamie Merritt; S. H. Buckworth won the fourth prize, a whip. The addresses were made by Omar D. Crothers and Henry A. Warburton, Esqs., of Elkton.
