CHRISTMAS NOTES

Christmas Day dawned cold snowy the mercury registering 12°. weather bureau claims that it was coldest Christmas Day for 34 years, we doubt it. The merchants throughout the county report good sales and everybody seemed to be happy.

Pianos, violins, automobiles, gold watches, gold coins and other valuable presents have been reported as rec by Kent countians

An amusing incident is told of a derly lady well-known in Chesterto who started out in Philadelphia to buy six presents. She entered a department store about 11 A. M. and was unable to budge because of the immense crowd. She was carried along by the people to the counter where candlesticks were sold and she bought each one of her friends a candlestick!

Pastor White says his Christmas turkey was the finest he ever tasted anywhere, a compliment to one of his Chestertown congregation.

Most Kent countians celebrated the holiday by gathering round the fireside. The biting cold made the day even more of an indoor holiday than usual. It is always the one day when young and old alike try to realize in the greatest degree "that there is no place like home, sweet home." Then it is that the boys off at college and the other wayfarers of the family reunite, taste again the delights of the old days by vivid recollections and add to them the joys which the present conditions provide. The older brothers and sisters and the cousins and the aunts, especially those who are unattached to another smaller family circle of their own come trooping home. To the traveler from near or far nothing was more appreciable than a welcome that was warm, for whether he came early or late he left without doors a chilliness that made him glad in more ways than one that there was a home for him.

With a skill greatened by exertion to make everything pleasing for the guest, the home folks showered their hospitality. Here and there were guests, but chiefly it was the family that celebrated.

The greatest glee was in those houses where there were young children small enough to be still remembered by Santa Claus. There the bubbling shouts of delight of the young ones revived in the older members tingling sensations of their own childhood anxious mornings.

But the grown up folks got joy directly from the evidence of love and esteem which their presents showed. Their efforts to make everyone feel happy had the effect, which all such efforts usually have, of making themselves glow with the feelings which they sought to communicate to others.

While the moment of surprise, just before or after breakfast, when the heart-tokens were exchanged was, of course, one of the features of the day, the burst of enthusiastic joy came at the dinner table. Although it happened that the price of turkey was high, there were few tables without them.

Sheriff Medders allowed the ten prisoners the freedom of the corridor and fed them on turkey and other edibles. Officers report a very sober Christmas and not a single arrest was made.

The following extracts from an editorial which appeared in the New York Sun, affirming the existence of Santa Claus in reply to question of a little girl;

"You may tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

"No Santa Claus? Thank God! he lives and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

At a Christmas entertainment given by the pupils of Cherry Lane School on December 21st, the following program was excellently rendered.

At the close of the exercises old Santa Claus personated, by Mr. Wm. Reusch, appeared and generously distributed gifts to all. He was dressed in a suit of scarlet trimmed with ermine and myraids of tiny bells. The little children were at first somewhat awed by his august appearance, but the shyness was soon forgotten. After much merriment he departed wishing them all a merry Christmas. The exercises were enjoyed by a number of persons of the school, who congratulated the children and teacher upon the excellence of the entertainment and greatly admired the decoration which were indeed beautiful

One of the most delightful social events of the season was the Christmas dance held in Stam's Hall Thursday evening. Among those present were the following: Eben F. Perkins and wife, P. A. M. Dr. William S. Gardner and wife, nee Miss Minnie Maslin, of 6 West Preston street, Balto., have been entertaining the following house party: Dr. and Mrs. L. S. Hapgood, of Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.; Mrs. L. C. Weeks, of Falmouth, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. William B. Usilton, Jr., of Chestertown, and Miss Blanche Gardner, of Ohio.

AT HYMEN'S ALTAR.

MALLALIEU—SHEPPARD.

In the presence of a few intimate friends, Miss Adaline Sheppard, the only daughter of Mrs. Emma Sheppard, of Crumpton, was married to Mr. Wm. Mallalieu, of Millington, at her home Wednesday, December 19th at 1 o'clock p. m. The house was prettily decorated with holly and evergreen rope. The room in which they were married was darkened and lighted by three large parlor lamps; one corner was banked with holly and potted plants in the midst of which was a stand with one of the lamps on it; across this corner was stretched rope of evergreen from which was suspended a bunch of mistletoe and under this the two were made one by Rev. Richard Adams, of Pocomoke City, an uncle of the groom. During the ceremony Miss Ethel Clements, who played Lohengrin's marsh as they entered, played very softly, "O, Promise Me."

The bride looked very sweet in a white silk made princess, trimmed in lace, and wearing a spray of lilies of the valley in her hair. She also carried a shower bouquet of brides' roses. The groom wore the conventional black.

After congratulations refreshments of ice cream, cake, fruits and nuts were served in abundance.

The bride's traveling suit was of blue cloth with hat to match.

Accompanied by five girl friends who wanted to see the finish of the affair, they were driven to Millington where, amid a shower of rice, they boarded the afternoon train for a trip North. Upon their return they will reside in Millington where the groom is successfully engaged in the livery business.

Among the very pretty and useful presents was a cut glass punch bowl over a hundred years old, a gift of the bride's mother.

MULLEN—SANFORD.

Miss Edith M. Sanford, daughter of Mrs. Alice V. Sanford and Mr. J. H. Mullen, son of Katherine J Mullen, both of Rock Hall, were quietly married on Saturday morning, Dec. 22nd, 1906 at Wesley Chapel Parsonage by Rev. J. W. Parris.

JEFFERSON—MARVIL.

Prof. C. Norman Jefferson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Jefferson, of near Chester bridge, arrived home Christmas day with his bride, Miss Sallie Blanche Marvil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Marvil. They were married at 6.30 o'clock Tuesday morning in Delmar, Del., and came at once here. A reception will be held on Dec. 31st at the home of the bride.

Married, at the Galena M. E. parsonage, December 27, 1906, by Rev. T. C. Smoot, Powell F. Johns, of Warwick, and Mary A. Walters, of Galena.

ANTHONY—MEREDITH.

A pretty wedding took place last Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll F. Leverage, near Church Hill, when Miss Gertrude Belle Meredith, daughter of ex-Sheriff and Mrs. James E. Meredith, became the bride of Mr. Mark Elmer Anthony, of Chestertown.

The home was decorated with holly and evergreen. From an arch was suspended double hearts, beneath which the ceremony was performed by Rev. E. C. Poole, of Church Hill. Mrs. Grace Anthony Jester played the wedding march from "Loheugrin." Miss Nora Adelia Cosden, of Centreville, was maid of honor, and Mr. Rumsey Edwin Anthony, of Chestertown, best man.

The bride wore brown silk, with Persian trimmings, and carried holly. The maid of honor was attired in steel gray cloth, with applique trimmings.

After the wedding a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony will reside [illegible]
