a melancholy change prevail. At the Lords strongly & energetically yet I have not an idea that it would give any offence, for every word of it must come home to him as founded in fact, & only as a friendly inspiration to excite him to do an indispensable duty. I most earnestly hope such will be the issue, & I am of opinion a personal interview would not prevail so much. I have not heard from him since, but I expect I shall no delay intervene. I think he cannot postpone the business so much longer. We have no news of importance. Complete tranquillity England, Ireland & perhaps France in the course of a month. We are all personally I am with Caroline & Mrs Bernie & family yours sincerely

J Parke