THE NEW FORD V-8 TRUCK
USES NO MORE FUEL THAN A "4"
Gives you exclusive V-8 performance with proved 4-cylinder economy

THE acid test of ownership has decisively proved the rigid economy of the New Ford V-8 Truck. Truck operators all over the nation, engaged in every type of hauling and delivery service, have voiced their approval of V-8 economy with enthusiasm born of personal experiences.

Owners who have used Ford trucks before are reporting even greater mileage than their 4-cylinder trucks gave them. Operators who formerly used other makes are amazed at their savings in gasoline. All have discovered that it makes no difference whether you divide a gallon of gasoline into eight pints or four quarts. It's still only one gallon!

But the economy of the New Ford V-8 Truck goes beyond fuel savings. It includes low oil consumption, low-cost repairs, and an engine exchange plan that ends big overhaul costs. And it sells for the lowest truck price in America. See your nearest Ford dealer — hear about the full-floating rear axle, 80-horsepower V-8 truck engine and many other features — 101 in all. He will arrange to give you an "on-the-job" test with your own loads, with your own driver at the wheel. You'll be convinced!
