there must be discipline.

Persons in the habit of buying bark wood as you mention say it is worth from 100 to 125 cents but that everything depends upon the quality when seen.

In last letter infirm us that other James Duke has lost frozen limb by a rapid consumption he is spoken in good spirits & he knew him.

There was dreadful weather in Ireland in January last extremes of Dublin with the country was stopped for seven days which involved great distress. There was also in that city a mortality to the extent of 200 to 20 daily.

Remain ever well yours sincerely J. Parker

WASHINGTON TERR. 50