him about the Term she could be bound) that he had bought one a short time ago that promises well for $180 fourteen years of age which he considered more Valuable than one of Ten. I would have no objection to give that price for her & I suppose the difference in age would about make up for the Interest — Altho' your Letter to me says nothing on the Subject I am exchemely sorry to find you have had a very severe illness, these Things will sometimes occur without any cause known to us, but I think you are not so careful as you ought to be in keeping your feet dr dry, very dangerous Complaints have often been brought on by wet feet or sitting in wet Cloaths. — The Farmers here I believe scarcely ever make Rye Flour they generally always sell it to the distillers, there was some sold here at 6/6 & from the great Crop Farmers seem to think it will not be higher when they begin to thrash out, but the late seeding has kept them back from that

I merely mentioned it in case it had been lower with you than here which is 7/6 at present oats 3/9. — Money is not plenty enough with us yet to secure large Quantities but I believe with respect to Rye the present is the highest price it will be, Whiskey rules the price of Corn & Rye entirely here Will you be able to come down & get a drink of Beer when the seeding is over. even here the Farmers have only just done with kind Love to all your Family

I remain Yours very sincerely
