Two heads are better than one—and Harold Lloyd and Una Merkel prove it in the comedian's newest story, "The Cat's Paw". 2PB

The New Lyceum Theatre Monday and Tuesday will play host to the glamorous Mae West, who will appear in "Belle of the Nineties"—the title of the film which the censors have been having such a to-do about. Miss West, of the drawl and hour-glass figure, is ably supported by a cast mainly consisting of the male of the species, chief of among whom are Johnny Mack Brown and Roger Pryor; while Duke Ellington, Harlem's own, appears with his music to assist Miss West in her song renderings.

"Belle of the Nineties" is a story of St. Louis during the mauve decade, if you get what we mean, and it concerns particularly Mae West, as Ruby Carter, a girl with a past and great promises for the future. The scene switches from time to time to such alluring spots as New Orleans, while the advent of The Kid, a prize fighter, lends romance to Miss West's screen life in this drama. All in all, "Belle of the Nineties" is good entertainment and it really 'ain't no sin' to see it.

For Wednesday and Thursday Harold Lloyd, that sterling comedian, will return to the local screen after a much-too-long an agsence in his latest laugh-getter, "The Cat's Paw."

Harold Lloyd, a master of the unusual in hilarious comedies, has outdone himself to bring to the screen what may be termed as his comeback picture. In fact, everthing about "The Cat's Paw" is new Harold Lloyd comedy but the inevitable tortoise-shell glasses, which are his trademark.

The story has to do with Lloyd, as a missionary, who leaves the wilds of China to come to America for a visit, and hilarity reigns supreme. An elaborate cast including Una Merkel, Nat Pendleton and Alan Dinehart help Lloyd make welkin ring with roarious laughter.

For Friday and Saturday there will be another of the popular double-feature bills offered to the screen fans at the New Lyceum Tim McCoy will be seen in "Voice in the Night," cast as a telephone mechanic who runs into all sorts of thrilling adventures in the course of his duties. Billie Seward and Francis MacDonald lend his generous support.

The other attraction for these evenings is "You Belong To Me," starring Lee Tracy, Helen Mack and Helen Morgan. This is a yarn of the vaudeville halss with the intertwining of backstage romance, heartthrobs and bizarre life. It is fast-paced drama with a generous mixture of comedy which makes it enjoyable entertainment. Miss Morgan finds opportunity throughout the film to render two or three songs in her characteristic fashion.

The Board of The Chestertown library is planning a succession of benefits for library maintenance. The first will be an Antique Exhibit and Tea, to be held in the Library Rooms. October 24th. An admission of twenty-five cents will be charged. This will be followed by a moving picture benefit in the winter. and in May it is planned to have a Garden Tour.

It is to be hoped that the public will patronize these worthy efforts to make the library a success.

The Triangle Club are planning a supper for October 29th.
