The co-operation of the professional and business interests of the city is being sought, as a means of providing jobs for deserving students. Wesley L. Sadler, Jr., president of the Y. M. C. By expressing more love to others, more helpfulness and co-operation rather than selfish indifference; by showing forth appreciation instead of disparagement, charity in place of condemnation, we take a definite step in seeking "the kingdom of God and his righteousness."—Christian Science Monitor.

Homemakers' Meet At Wesley Chapel

Helen K. Brice sends us an interesting account of the club's affairs as follows:

Wednesday, October 31st, the semi-annual County Executive Meeting of the Homemakers' Club met in the Church Hall of Wesley Chapel from 10.00 a. m. to 3.30 p. m. There were representatives of seven clubs—thirty-eight earnest and sincere women in all; with Mrs. T. H. M. Bramble, the president, in the chair.

Mrs. James Bidlow, on Community Achievements from Swan Creek Club, told of their establishing a circulating library — exchanging magazines among members and suggested that this same method be used with bulbs and flowers in order to beautify home grounds and surroundings.

Mrs. Ben Robinson, of Still Pond, reached one of the "high lights" of the meeting when she advocated that the women of the different clubs stand behind "Our New Hospital" and lend uplifting support and encouragement. The Council has already contributed $60 in cash and are making plans to arrange for a yearly stipend.

Music was ably taken care of by Mrs. John Redding, of Flatland.

Plans are now on foot for the Musical Pageant to be given November 15th in William Smith Hall, Washington College. "America In Song" with 150 in the cast.

Quite interesting was the clothing report read by Mrs. D. C. Kelly, of Kennedyville, for Mrs. Edw. Hepbron, telling of the Coat School last spring. They were lovely in fit, selection of material, etc. Better join our club and make a new frock!

Food came next—Mrs. Chas. Pippin reporting for Mrs. Audrey Qauffman, of Chestertown. Mrs. Caldwell Crew, of Betterton, won first prize at the Kent County Flower Show on her jars of carrots and strawberries, with Mrs. Wm. Groves, of Kennedyville, a close second on strawberries and corn. These jars will go forward to College Park to enter the State-wide contest. Good luck to you ladies!

Mrs. Wm. Groves spoke with animation on 4-H Club Work and what it had meant to her children; but deplored the fact that there was great need of local leaders and more cooperation on the part of parents to keep this splendid work up to its past record.

Mrs. Wm. Dempsey, of Kennedyville, told of the loss of a few old members and the gain of new ones, bringing the total to 235 — fine outstanding women, a pleasure to know and work with.

Mrs. Edgar Walbert, of Quaker Neck, told of 33 of fellow women had availed themselves of the privilege of going to the Rural Women's Short Course at College Park in August. Next year we hope to win the $10.00 prize offered to the club sending the most new members.

The poultry report as Mrs. P. W. Bigelow intimated was rather below par—a challenge for another year!

Mrs. Elwood Gurgess, from Dock Hall, one of the most versatile and tireless of club workers, came with the news that we might bring out old chairs and couches from our attics and learn through the various classes how to "dress them up" and fit them again for use in our homes.

Our program committee, headed by Mrs. Henry Clark, of Betterton, tells us that the big spring meeeting will be held the last Thursday in March, probably at Millington. Also that there are plans under discussion to have a Winter School at College Park from January 7th to February 15th.

Mrs. Jesse D. Maxwell brought the meeting to a close with a fine talk about the recent Flower Show. Already she is turning over in her mind plans for Spring Mart.

A rising vote of thanks was passed to the ladies of Wesley Chapel for their wonderful lunch they served.

WORLD WIDE WINGED WORDS

New York . . . Bell telephone users now have at their disposal a total of 84,000 miles of radio telephone circuits reaching almost every section of the globe. From the United States extend four telephone circuits to England, nine to South and Central America, one each to Bermuda, the Bahamas, Hawaii, and the Philippines. These transoceanic telephone lines connect at London with wire circuits to more than 20 European countries and with radio or wire and radio telephone circuits to Australia, Siam, the Dutch East Indies, Egypt, Palestine, South Africa and India. Transocean telephone service was inaugurated January 7, 1927, between New York and London.

Johannesburg, South Africa . . . This modern city of 350,000 inhabitants is fast becoming "telephonically minded," according to Telephony. Last year four telephone central offices with a capacity of 11,800 telephone lines were installed. This year an order was placed for a dial operated central office equipped with an ultimate capacity of 10,000 telephone lines. Orders were also placed for equipment for 1,500 lines for extensions to equipment now in service. Six telephone offices were installed in 1932 with an ultimate capacity of 25,000 telephone lines.

Lincoln, Nebraska . . . A recent survey among 500 housewives served by the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Company showed that 94 per cent of them utilized the yellow-paged section of the telephone directory for business calls and for buying purposes, according to Telephony.

IN UNION THERE IS STRENGTH

"As individuals, one farmer's strength cancels another's," said Chester C. Davis, AAA Administrator, recently. "Through organization, his strength multiplies. Only as he can and will express himself through organization is the farmer's influence felt in national councils."

That brief statement concerns every American farmer. One of the greatest difficulties faced in the past, both by private and public bodies, in seeking to stabilize and improve farming conditions, has been lack of organization. Too many farmers existed solely as individuals, and had no one to speak for them. In brief, agriculture lacked centralized authorities of the farmer's own choosing, who could exert continued and aggressive efforts to bettering his statutes.

That was true, and is probably still true, of the majority of farmers. But a minority of farm producers have a different story to present. These farmers have joined in creating great organizations. They have elected directors who hire trained, experienced executives. And no one who has watched agriculture during recent years can help but be impressed bp the progress these associations have made. Dealing in milk, cotton, fruits and other products, they have met and solved many problems. They have had their ups and downs. While they haven't brought about an agricultural millenium, members of these cooperative farm organizations have had a much happier time of it than have unorganized farmers.

The old saying that "In union there is strength," was never more apt than it is today—and it goes for farmers as well as all other workers and producers.

NEGRO TOWN IS DEMOCRATIC

The all-Negro village of Boley, in Oklahoma, gave a plurality to every Democratic candidate, deserting the Republican standard for the first time in its history.

Even the lone Negro candidate, Frank Anderson, Republican nominee for corporation counsel, trailed the Democrat, A. S. Shaw, 158 to 185.

Millington Bank of Maryland

DEPOSITS INSURED BY The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation WASHINGTON, D. C.

$5000 MAXIMUM INSURANCE FOR EACH DEPOSITOR $5000

The Millington Bank of Maryland has received from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation at Washington the official signs which will hang at all receiving windows as visible evidence that depositors of this institution are insured.

The Millington Bank of Maryland is one of more than 14,000 licensed banks in the country which are receiving these signs. Insured banks are able to offer protection to their depositors up to $5,000. Statistical studies have shown that this maximum fully protects more than 97 per cent of all the depositors in insured banks.

A statement by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation follows:

"The purpose of the signs is to let depositors know which banks are insured. Heretofore, although 90 per cent. of the licensed banks are insured, depositors have had no easy means of identifying them.

"If, by any unforseen circumstance, an insured bank should suspend, the Insurance Corporation would begin paying off the depositors just as soon as a receiver was appointed for the closed institution. The depositors would receive their money in a few days instead of waiting months or year as was the case in the former method of liquidation. This is not only a benefit to the depositors, but it saves the community from a terrific economic and social blow. When the depositors receive their accounts they assign their claims to the Insurance Corporation. Thereafter liquidation proceeds on a business-like basis with the maximum chance of the Corporation and other creditors being paid in full."
