LIST PATRONAGE PLUMS AVAILABLE FOR G.O.P.

Compiled List Gives Interesting Facts on Nice's Patronage

It is interesting to know the main places Governor-Elect Nice will have to fill, some contingent upon approval by the Senate. The first is Secretary of State. This job is not worth as much now as it used to be. Cutting out the fees which was done under a ruling of Mr Ritchie, as Attorney-General, supported by the courts reducing the emoluments from around $7,000 to $2,000 plus $500 allowed the official for acting as Secretary of the Board of Public Works.

Among other places are:

Executive Secretary	$4,000
Parole Commissioner	4,000
State Auditor	7,500
Commissioner of Motor Vehicles	4,000
Bank Commissioner	4,500
State Purchasing Agent	4,500
State Employment Commissioner	5,000
Director of Department of Public Works	6,000
State Librarian	1,500
Land Office Commissioner	1,500
Insurance Commissioner	6,000
Public Service Commissioners, 3 (total)	16,000
State Tax Commissioners, 3 (total)	16,000
Industrial Accident Commissioners, 3 (total)	16,000
Conservation Commissioner	6,000
Motion Picture Censors 3 (total)	7,200
Commissioner of Labor and Statistics	3,000
Traffic Court Magistrates, 3 (total)	9,000
Superintendent Public Buildings and Grounds	1,500
Commissioner of Health	7,500
State Athletic Commissioners, 3 (total)	3,900

Some of the above positions are filled by appointment for specified terms, but practically all will become vacant during Nice's administration.

Extension Telephone Use Foiled Bold Bank Robber

An extension telephone paid big dividends to the State Loan Company, a banking institution in Mt. Rainier, Md., a short time ago when Mrs. Maurine Weir, cashier, was held up by a robber who posed as a potential customer.

Was the robber surprised? Mrs. Maurine Weir when being held up recently, answered a telephone call and recognizing a friend's voice asked her to call the police. The robber ran.

The "customer" appeared in the banking rooms to discuss the possibility of a loan. When Mrs. Weir took him into one of the private offices to talk the matter over the "customer" drew a gun and informed her that he wanted all the money she had.

He then ordered her to the front office where the cash drawer was located, warning her that he would shoot if necessary. About this time another customer came into the bank to make a deposit. The hold-up man, Mrs. Weir said, ordered her to wait on him. "I tried to write a warning on the customer's receipt, but I lost my nerve."

Then the extension telephone rang! Automatically Mrs. Weir answered the telephone on her desk—Decatur 5555—and, recognizing the voice of a friend, took advantage of the opportunity to say quickly, "Betty, call the police! I am being held up."

The robber, startled by the suddenness of this telephone request, turned and ran out of the bank. Mrs. Weir followed him to the street. A police officer who happened to be standing nearby gave chase to the robber, and, assisted by citizens of the community, captured him.

A sum of money taken from Mrs. Weir by the robber was recovered.

"If it hadn't been for the extension telephone, I suppose we should have been out that much money," Mrs. Weir says.

NOTES ON SPORTS

Monday afternoon the Freshmen and Sophomores up at Washington College held their annual tug-'o-war with a new game thrown in for good measure. Supplanting the creek at the mill, through which other freshmen have been dragged, was a fire hose in full blast.

• • •

The Sophmoores, displaying more brawn, hauled the Freshmen ropesters through the stream in a short test of pulling power. But in the added attraction, a game of tie-'em-and-toss-'em-out, the yearling proved too numerous for their sophisticated brothers. Used to groveling in the dirt, the Rats teamed up on their bosses and carried them out in wholesale lots.

Being a member of the "Lost Generation," as we are described by the editor of the Washington Elm, Bill Baker, it is useless for us to risk an opinion on the comparative merits of tug-O'-Wars with fire hose and the same game with Radcliffe Creek as the scene of battle. We will, consequently, merely chronicle the event as a typical display of undergraduate foolishness which was in no way degnified by a transfer of scenes from Radcliffe Creek to Kibler Field.

The manner in which the Haverford football team has improved since the beginning of the season is an indication that Washington College has much more than a snap this afternoon when it meets the Pennsylvanians on Haverford's field.

Last Saturday, Haverford defeated Hamilton University, of New York, and a few weeks earlier they gave Johns Hopkins a close battle. In September, when the Washington coaches saw Susquehanna trim them two touchdowns, the Haverford squad looked poor in defeat. But today there will be no taking of chances with this club. Coach Ekaitis appreciates the manner in which they have developed since the season opened, and has consequently drilled his team hard all this week. This game is wanted! And Haverford must be met and defeated today before Washington can journey to Newark next Saturday primed and pepped to defend an undefeated record.

Basketball fans hereabouts should be priming themselves for some real sport during that popular season. We predict that the sport here will be the best its ever been by virtue of the fact that the Flying Pentagon, at last, will have a home court worthy of its ability; and a court that will accommodate even the largest anticipated crowds. The decision to play Washington's home games in the Chestertown Armory will revive interest in this, the greatest sport. No more will there be a holding back because of fear of not being able to find a seat. No more will the bugaboo of reserved seats and high prices keep the fans away. A new deal is in store for local basketball fans...And we hope that with it will come a season of basketball success to which the Flying Pentagon was accustomed as of old.

The schedule is as follows:

Dec. 14—Upsala	Home
Dec. 18—West Chester T.	Home
Jan. 11—Hopkins	Away
Jan. 12—Western Maryland	Away
Jan. 16—University of Md.	Away
Jan. 19—Mt. St. Mary's	Home
Jan. 26—Loyola	Away
Feb. 2—St. John's	Home
Feb. 6—Swarthmore	Home
Feb. 9—Hopkins	Home
Feb. 15—Mt. St. Mary's	Away
Feb. 16—Delaware	Home
Feb. 21—St. John's	Away
Feb. 26—Western Maryland	Away
Mar. 1—Loyola	Home
Mar. 2—Delaware	Away

Home games with Johns Hopkins and Mt. St. Mary's and the possibility of a game with St. John's are attractions of the Washington College football schedule for next season. The Johnnies have been absent from the Washington card for several years and now, that we can boast of a football team which wins, its good to have them back. Six games are listed for the 1935 gridiron campaign.

Delaware. Saturday night at Atlantic City's huge auditorium, met a crack P. M. C. team and held that doughty crew to a twelve to nothing victory. Observers had expected a greater margin of victory for the military boys rrom Chester, and the manner in which Delaware kept the score down in indicative of the tough struggle the Shoremen will have with the Blue Hens next Saturday.

The Washington squad, the student body and townsfolk are keyed up for this game next Saturday. Many will attend. And we, for one are looking for a strenuous battle.

Down our way are a couple of sandlot football teams which battle tooth-and-nail every afternoon. The other day, when the jamble of arms and legs separated itself, and joined the respective bodies of the players, I recognized Jack Kibler, the Harris brothers, John A. Deringer, the Queen Street flash, the Riverside Terrace triple-threaters, and "Jimmie Metcalfe. The lack of a referee provides a rest period between each play to allow the contestants to argue over ground gained or lost.

THE Kent County Savings Bank today occupies a high place among the banks of Kent County. Yet there has been nothing spectacular, no rapid spurts to occasion widespread comment about its growth. Rather it has grown steadily, soundly, solidly, year after year.

That, we believe, is why The Kent County Savings Bank has become more and more popular among Kent's citizens. They have recognized The Kent County Savings Bank's consistent progress, particularly over the past trying years, as the product of a management that is both sensibly conservative and sanely progressive. And they have found at The Kent County Savings Bank a type of banking cooperation which both protects and advances their interests.

The Kent County Savings Bank now seeks to make itself increasingly useful in re-building Kent's prosperity. To that end, it invites applications for loans from responsible individuals and well-managed concerns whose progress will contribute to Kent's payrolls and profits.
