could not go, it was very large the order of procession was, first the Doctors, next Corps, then his family then the Lawyers all in mourning & lastly the citizens generally he had been quite delirious but at his death was quite collected, a short time before he died he called his eldest Son to him & gave him some very excellent advice, it was reported here that Mr Brooke was an Unbeliever, but I believe without foundation, as he was visited by a Priest. Lea May "there is now here a parson on trial in Mr Hatch's place, & as soon as I can obtain an opportunity I will send her the Testaments give my Love to all the family & believe me your affectionate Son
