State Central Commitee for Caroline County.

DR. ERWIN SMITH of the Agricultural Department, Washington, who has been investigating the peach yellows in the orchards in Caroline, left on Monday for Easton, where he will look through some of the orchards of Talbot. His investigations in this county developed the fact that there are several orchards in the vicinity of Greensborough in which this terrible peach disease has made its appearance, and nothing but the most persevering efforts on the part of all growers can prevent its spreading, and even with the greatest care on the part of all we fear that the disease may get a foothold in our county which will be hard to eradicate. We are glad to know that after a careful examination of the three leading nurseries in this section of the county, no yellows were found among the stock or anywhere in the vicinity of the nurseries. We trust every peach grower in our county will take this matter in hand and not allow a diseased tree to remain in an orchard. The immediate grubbing up and burning of diseased trees is the only known method of curing the yellows. Let our growers take this warning and act upon it at once. Don't let a diseased tree remain among your healthy ones twenty-four hours after it is found out.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Philadelphia Inquirer writing from New York says:

Stories are constantly multiplying about how much Mr. Cleveland owes the members of his Cabinet for his lost nomination. He probably is indebted to none more than to Mr. Bayard, as this incident will show.

A part of the plan of the Hill Democrats was to have a number of other states declare for Hill following the February convention. Maryland was to follow New York. Gorman was at that time willing. Bayard started to kill the scheme. He has much infiuence in Maryland, and with some little assistance he succeeded. Maryland did not hold an early convention and did not instruct for Hill.

THE proposed water w orks for Cambridge come too late to save the place a destructive fire. It is admitted that if a fire plug backed by a good supply of water had been anywhere in the vicinity the fire could have been controlled and confined to the stables where it started. The people of the place will now, after sustaining this severe loss, probably organize and equip a fire company. This is usually done in all towns after a big fire. The town had a fire engine but it was out of order and the old-time bucket brigade, (like that of our town) could not cope with the flames.

IF STRIKES were never heard of in unprotected industries, if, in fact, the greatest strikes in the country had not occured in unprotected industries like the steam railroads and the horse railroads, if Free Trade England were not a country of strikes, and if all these facts were not known to everybody with education enough to read large print, these assumptions might be worth contradicting. As the case is, they are so far-fetched and wildly absurd that we fear they will bring discredit upon the Democrats in the national campaign. — N. Y. Sun (Dem.)

THE United States postal authorities have taken up the matter of distribution of anarchistic literature through the mails. Col. Hudson, superintendent of mails at Pittsburg has mailed copies of the New York and Pittsburg anarchist papers to the Postmaster-General. He says he has no doubt that as soon as the matter is brought to the Attorney-General and his opinion is had, prompt action will be taken to prohibit the use of the United States mails for such purposes.

EDITORS Harrington & Henry, of the Cambridge Chronicle, and Mills, of the News will have the sympathy of their brethren of the craft in their misfortune in the late fire, as will also the citizens of the town. The place is without a single Hotel its Bank building is in ruins and the stocks as well as buildings of many of its most enterprising business men have gone up in smoke.

SUPERINTENDENT FRICK, of the Carnegie Steel Works, has sufficiently recovered from his recent wounds to be out of bed.

A Slight Difference of Opinion.

THE POLITICIAN.	THE STUDENT.
Turning our eyes to the plain people of the land, we see them burdened, as consumers, with a tariff system that unjustly and relentlessly demands from them, in the purchase of the necessaries and comforts of life, an amount scarcely met by the wages of hard and steady toil — while the exactions thus wrung from them build up and increase the fortunes of those for whose benefit this injustice is perpetuated. -- Grover Cleveland in his Madison Square Garden notification speech.	There has never been a period in the history of this or any other country when the general rate of wages was as high as it is now or the prices of goods relatively to the wages as low as they are today, nor a period when the workman, in the strict sense of the word, has so fully secured to his own use and enjoyment such a steadily and progressively increasing proportion of a constantly increas ing product. — Edward Atkinson in a paper in the Forum for May.

The Political Outlook.

The presidential situation is still foggy. Mr. Cleveland's address to the notification committee this week has created a local ripple, but I see nowhere signs of enthusiasm for either of the great party candidates. We know that Mr. Cleveland will make his fight absolutely upon the Force bill "spooks" and hostility to the existing tariff. This simplifies matters.

The absence of Senator Hill from the Madison Square Garden ceremonies was significant. Unless Mr. Hill can be induced to show some interest in the canvass, several thousands of his followers, especially in the interior will quietly cut Cleveland. The selection of Harrity to manage the Cleveland campaign has had a tendency to allay the irritation begotten by the Syracuse bolt.

There is no indication as yet that Tammany will poll its full vote for Cleveland. It is moving down in a purely perfunctory way, but Mr. Whitney, who is a prime adjuster, may smoth the political waters with the oil of his diplomacy.

Mr. Harrison has not as yet made his peace with Platt, and until he secures harmonious action here the state cannot be called his. New York must again be regarded as the pivotal state I believe the odds to be in favor of Harrison now, but there is a hard fight ahead. The bad Democratic legislation of last winter and a sharp contest on the the tariff issue ought to produce Republican gains in the interior. I do not see how the Democrats can expect to do better in New York and Kings county than they did four years ago. The Republicans are certain to lose at least four electors under the new election system in Michigan, and there is danger that the crazy silver of Nevada will slip away. At the same time the People's Party has a chance of drawing North Carolina out of the Democratic column.

Of the party managers, Carter and Harrity, I believe the former to be the best equipped. All agree that Carter is a clear-headed, shrewd, energetic man. He made himself felt at Minneapolis. The labor troubles at Homestead will be adjusted within a few weeks, I believe, and the Democratic party will not be able to draw comfort from that source. The great railway strikes and riots of 1877 were laid at the door of our protective system, but peace soon followed, and the Republicans elected Garfield, their candidate for president in 1880. I do not believe that the people of the United States are ready to abandon the present economic system, and this is what Mr. Cleveland's party emphatically demands shall be done.

When Mr. Harrison writss his formal letter of acceptance I believe that he will effectually dispose of the Force bill issue. which Mr. Cleveland is endeavoring so strenuously to put to the front. The apprehension of the Southern States and Northern demagogues will be allayed. The presidential situation at this time may be summed up thus: Mr. Cleveland is not as strong in the state of New York as he was four years ago; Mr. Harrison is stronger and the business interests of the country will sustain him. As goes New York, so goes the presidency.— J. A. Cockerill in New York Herald.

Dress Trimmings.

Our modern methods of merchandising can meet and master any ordinary conditions. But a blizzard in winter or the lowering blaze of a boom of hotness, in Mid-Summer tax our powers.

Therefore, while the dissolving temperature lasts, we will not print very much store news If we were advertising much to-day the story would have a chapter each on Housekeeping Linens, sold without profits. The sorts that brought satisfaction last week to so many prudent housewives.
