WASHINGTON LETTER

From Our Regular Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15, 1882.

Capt. T. H. McKee, assistant Secretay of the National Republican Committee, is now quartered in the same building with the Congressional campaign committee, and has more than half hundred assistants hard at work mailing documents.

Secretary McPherson, of the Congressional committee, who is a veteran of many campaigns, is at present acting in an advisory capacity to Capt. McKee, and the two "Mc's" make a strong team; but later on he will give his undivided attention to the Congressional districts which are marked doubtful on the little list he keeps. Mr. McPherson knows how to be silent in nineteen languages about the work upon which he is engaged, but he told your correspondent that he thought the prospect for wresting the House from the Democrats was good and improving all the time.

"One thing was apparently overlooked by those who started and those who accepted as true the story that Judge Walter Q. Gresham would soon take the stump for Weaver," said an old member of the Supreme Court bar, "and that is, that that Gresham is at this time a judge of a United States Court. Until he resigns that position, and I haven't heard that he had any intention of resigning, there is not the slightest probability that he will take the stump for anybody. I do not remember to have heard of a United States Judge making a political stump speech and, I think, I know Walter Gresham's idea of the diginity which should always be maintained by the National Judiciary well enough to predict that he will never make a speech favoring Weaver or anyone else for the presidency as long as he remains a United States Judge, and I do not believe he would support Weaver for President if he were a private citizen."

The greed of the great Well's Fargo Express Company compelled the Government to make at its own risk the recent shipment of $20,000,000 in gold, from San Francisco, and it may result in transferring a very profitable line of business from the express companies to the Government—the transportation of large sums of Government money. The United States made that shipment of gold from San Francisco to New York for about $56,500 less than the Wells Fargo company charged for doing it, and it may be that the express companies will not be asked to do such work in the future. Not long ago the Government paid the United States express company $3,500—more than the cost of bringing $20,000,000 across the continent— for carrying $7,000,000, in gold from Philadelphia to New York, a job that was completed in a little more than two hours.

The change in the British administration has caused a delay in setting a date for the meeting of the International monetary conference, but the State department is advised unofficially that it will be one of the first matters to be taken up and disposed of by the new Gladstone Government, so that the delay in fixing a date is not likely to be a long one. Only two of those selected by the President to be United States Commissioners to the conference—Senators Allison and Jones—have formally excepted their appointments, but there are no reasons for expecting any of the others to decline to serve, although the point has been raised by an outsider that neither Senators nor Representatives are elligible to act as commissioners at this conference, but nothing is thought of this in official circles.

The G. A. R. encampment committee will spend about $75,000 in the erection of Barracks for the accommodation of the veterans who do not engage their own sleeping quarters, and while the committee does not undertake to supply food it proposes to make arrangements that will result in good food at reasonable prices for those who will occupy the barracks, and it will also provide a place of safe keeping for baggage of the old soldiers, which the committee hopes will be confined to articles absolutely necessary.

Free Trade or Nothing.

The conflict between free trade and protection is irrepressible and must be fought out to the bitter end. We spit upon compromises and propose neither to ask nor to give quarters—Henry Watterson.

Mr. Watterson, it may be remembered, wrote the tariff plank in the Democratic platform which was adopted recently at Chicago, Grover Cleveland declared that he stood upon that plank, squarely and unreservedly.

Result of the American Policy.

Of the results of the policy of reciprocity and protection. William Elroy Curtis forcibly says:

"It is due to these conditions that the ruins of the ancient world vibrate with the shriek of a Philadelphia locomotiue; that the holy Kremlin of Moscow and the Vatican at Rome are strung with the wires that were spun in Pittsburg and are lighted with lamps that were made in Lynn; that the murmur of an American sewing machine is heard in every place in Europe and Asia; that the King of Siam communicates with his minister through an American telephone; that the basement of the parliament house in London is filled with machinery made at Providence, Rhode Island."
