WASHINGTON LETTER

From Our Regular Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29, 1882.

Senator Vorhees has been "talking out in meeting "about his recent visit to the Democratic national headquarters, in New York city, and his talk is far from complimentary to those in charge. He is credited with saying that Harrity and Dickinson are both idiots, as far as national politics are concerned, and that the entire Democratic campaign as far as it has gone has been a batch of errors, for which Whitney is as much responsible as Harrity and Dickinson. Mr. Vorhees tells his Democratic friends that if the election were to be held now, Cleveland could not carry New York to save his life, and that he saw nothing when there to base any hopes for an improvement in the situation.

This information from Senator Vorhees is, so far as it refers to New York State, is in accord with that received through Republican sources. Senator Perkins, of Kansas, who has also been in New York, says he found the Republicans in good shape all around, and that the campaign is being vigorously and intelligently pushed, and that he has not the slightest doubt of the election of Harrison and Reid by a larger electoral vote than that cast for Harrison and Morton. Of his own State Mr. Perkins says: "We have a hot fight on our hands, with the Democratic party swallowed up by the so-called People's party, but you may put it down as certain that we are going to redeem Kansas this year. The campaign has progressed far enough to make it absolutely certain that the Republican State ticket and at least five Congressman will be elected, and before November we expect to be certain of the rest of the Congressmen and all of the electoral ticket. The prosperity of the farmers of our State is leaving the demagognes, whose stock in trade is woe, without argument."

If the cholera gets into the United States it will not be because of any lack of effort on the part of the Marine Hospital Service to keep it out although it is absolutely necessary that the various State and city health authorities should intelligently cooperate with this bureau to make the quarantine actually preventive. The Marine Hospital Service, which is a bureau of the Treasury department has control of the Congressional appropriation known as the epidemic fund, which will be used to keep out this dreaded disease. Collectors of customs at all the ports of entry will act in conjunction with the Marine Hospital Service, and while there may be isolated cases of cholera which will evade the vigilance of the quarantine authorities and get into some of our seaboard cities, it is believed that the precautions taken will make it impossible for it to become epidemic.

A local democrat of prominence says that Whitney told him that Mr. Cleveland would try in his letter of acceptance to tone down the effect of the plain spoken free trade plank in the national platform, which is doing his party so much harm in New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut, states which he must carry to be elected. It is too late for any toning down process, and nothing that Mr. Cleveland can say in his letter can change the issue of this campaign —protection vs. free trade.

Much regret is expressed here at the announcement that Senator Dawes, of Massachusetts, whose term expires March 4th, 1893, will not be a candidate for re-election. Mr. Dawes has been one of the wheel horses of the republican party for so many years that his absence cannot fail to be felt; but there is consolation in the fact that Massachusetts has many able republicans and that his successor is certain to be a good man.

The most troublesome problem that the citizens committee in charge of the G. A. R. encampment had to deal with has been satisfactorily solved. That was to arrange for a plentiful supply of good, wholesome food, well cooked, and at a reasonable price, in close proximity to the barracks in which free sleeping accommodations will be furnished all veterans who do not engage their own quarters. A contract has been made with a caterer who has had wide experience in feeding large crowds by which he agrees to fuanish those of the visitors who desire regular meals with three good meals for $1 per day, and to supply at all times during the night or day cold lunches with hot coffee and tea and milk at the usual city prices. The barracks have been named, those on the monument lot Alger, in honor of General Alger, and those in Garfield park, Farragut, after the gallant old Admiral, long since gone where all good sailors go.

The addresses of sixteen of the surviving war governors have been obtained by the committee and this week invitations to attend the encampment as special guests of honor of the committee will be forwarded to each of them. It is to be hoped that all of them may be able to attend, as it is the purpose of the committee to make their reunion a memorable occasion.
