A coal heaver on the steamer Ida, George Sample, was shot in the head while the steamer lay at her wharf on Saturday night the 15th inst., and we understand has since died. The bullet was from a pistol of small calabre that was being cleaned by another colored man when a catridge accidentally exploded. The bullet struck Sample in the back of the head and flattened against his scull, only breaking off a small chip of the bone, and the man seemed all right at the time.

How to Sell Your Property.

From the Cecil Star, Elkton.

It is a bad policy to be too close when advertising valuable property for sale; often large sums of money are lost in a sale by trying to save a few dollars in the advertising. The printer, very often, can do more than all other influences combined to make custom and effect a good sale. The true policy is not to be afraid to advertise valuable property. To show such fear, the conclusion with people often is that the property is not worth much. A buyer wanting it will often take advantage of such indifference on the owner's part to create an impression of others that the property is not valuable, so he can buy at his own price.

Columbus Day at Choptank.

The public school was called promptly at 9 o'clock on Friday morning by the teacher Miss Lizzie E. Wright and in a few minutes the house was at its full seating capacity. The room was very nicely decorated with Autumn leaves, evergreen, flowers and flags. From the belfry was raised a large flag. At 9.45 the exercises commenced by the official program furnished by the School Board, as follows.

Order:

Reading of Proclamation, by Teacher.

Singing—My Country Ti's of Thee—School.

Reading of 107th Psalm followed by Lord's Prayer.

Singing—Song of Columbus—School.

Saluting the Flag—School.

The whole was very pleasing and showed much taste in training the children to such perfection.

The shirt factory of Messrs. J. A. Wright & Bro., is now working at its full capacity turning out about 8,400 shirts per week. Ten more new machines have been ordered and will be in next week. They will enlarge their factory to four times its present size in the early spring.

Mrs. Hester Hubbard, of Easton, has purchashed building lots in Choptank and will build one or more dwellings next spring.

Mr. Perry S. Messick will build a new dwelling in Choptank in the near future lumber is already being prepared.

Friday was a gala day for Choptank. There were probably more than one thonsand people present to hear able speeches delivered by R. D. Bradley, Col. J. M. McCarter and Mr. Willis Wright upon the discovery and progress of our country, and also the rapid strides of the town of Choptank since its first settlement, also to witness the National enthusiasm of its citizens in display the country emblem. "The American Flag." Not a house in the town was without the "Stars and Stripes" flowing in the breeze from its windows, while several large flags floated over the streets.

The most pleasing feature on Friday was that of the Improved Order of Red Men, who went on parade in Indian costume, captured a horse thief and draged him through the street behind running ponies, after which he was burned at the stake and a general war dance was performed around his burning body.

The oyster supper at Choptank was well patronized and quite a handsome little sum was realized. The prize cake, baked by Mrs. W. E. Towers and Mrs. L. H Nichols, for which several young ladies contested. Miss Etta Matthews was the successful contestant realizing $22.93. The whole amount received from the prize cake was $44.57.

Mrs. Harrison Dead

While this intelligence comes not unexpected, yet it comes like a shock to the American people. A little over three years ago she entered the White House as the wife of the President, the highest honor America confers upon a women. Then the future looked bright and joyous. But disease the fell destroyer of the human life entered the White House and claimed one of America's noblest women as its victim, and Mrs. Harrison is no more; but she will ever be held in grateful remembrance by the American people. All will remember with what christian fortitude she bore her suffering, uncomplaning, pleasant and smiling to the last, for it is said that only a few hours before her death, she greeted those who stood at her bedside with a smile seeming in her last hours to try to lighten the stroke which was so soon to fall upon those she held most dear on earth.

The funeral services at Washington will be private, only relatives and very intimate acquantances will receive invitations. The funeral train will leave Washington on Thursday and arrive at Indiannapolis on Friday when the funeral services and burial will take place. The President is nearly broken down by the loss of his wife and nothing but his indominable will keeps him from giving up entirely. He has the heartfelt sympathy of the entire American people regardless of sex or condition.

For headache, billionsness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, the blues, scrofula, the blood and all skin eruptions Dr. Fenner's Blood and Liver Remedy and Nerve Tonic never fails. Warranted to satisfy or money refunded. Sold by George & Redden.

A Good Illustration.

Democrats tell you that you are robbed by this protective tariff, but I am going to prove to you by this hat—borrowing a hat—that it is not true. I will ask what is the cost of this hat. I say $3. Well, say the Democrats, you could buy that in England for $1.50; but this abomiable McKinley bill compelled you to buy this hat, made by some fellow in Newark, N. J., or some other fellow up in Connecticut. But I want to know if it wouldn't cost more than $1.50 to go to England to get a hat? Then they answer: "You stupid fool, don't you see, that if you vote for Cleveland and free trade, you will get the hats brought over here to you in ship lots?"

What is this hat any way? It is a little bit of fur, a little bit of wool a little piece of sheep's skin for the lining, and a small mite of silk and cotton. Now when I go back to a state of nature I find there is not 15 cents' worth of raw material in the hat. What will I go to England for with my $1.50? I go to buy 15 cents worth of raw material and $1.25 cents worth of labor. I transfer that much work from America to England, because labor is cheaper there than here, and I make good times there and hard times here.

This does not stop at the hat alone. I learned at school that it required ten men to make a pin. It takes hundreds of men to make a hat. It has to be made on a block cut, perhaps, from the woods of Michigan. It requires machinery to make the block, and tools to make that machinery. The leather has to be tanned, the silk and cotton with which it is trimmed has to be spun and wove. When I go abroad to buy my hat, I attempt to set all these trades idle at home and put them to work in a foreign country. Not only that but the money the American workmen would spend at home goes abroad to set other foreign workmen at work. —Patrick O' Farrell.
