New Postal Card.

The new double postal cards, a card for the message and a card for the reply, are on sale at most of the postoffices. They cost two cents. The cards contain the respective superscriptions, "Postal Card, with paid reply," and "Reply Postal Card." Each card contains a portrait of General Grant in the place of the stamp, "Message Card—one cent" and "Reply Card—one cent" being in a circle about the portraits on the cards. The instructions to "detach the annexed card for answer" is placed on the message card. The cards are similar in appearance to the ordinary cards, and are separated by a perforated line to enable them to be torn apart.

Thanksgiving Day Proclamation.

The President has issued his annual Thanksgiving proclamation, as follows: By the President of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION.

The gifts of God to our people during the past year have been so abundant and so special that the spirit of devout thanksgiving awaits, not a call, but only the appointment of a day when it may have a common expression. He has stayed the pestilence at our door; He has given us more love for the free civil institutions in the creation of which His directing providence was so conspicuous; He has awakened a deeper reverence for law; He has widened our philanthropy by a call to succor the distress in our lands; He has blessed our schools and is bringing forward a patriotic and God-fearing generation to execute His great and benevolent designs for our country; He has given us great increase in material wealth and in the diffusion of contentment and comfort in the homes of our people; He has given His grace to the sorrowing.

Wherefore, I, Benjamin Harrison President of the United States, do call upon all our people to observe as we have been wont, Thursday, the 24th day of this month of November, as a day of thanksgiving to God for His mercies, and an application for His continued care and grace.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this fourth day of November, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and seventeenth.

BENJAMIN HARRISON.

By the President:

JOHN W. FOSTER, Secretary of State.

In Mrs. Harrison's Memory.

On Sunday morning last the President accompanied by Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Dimmick, and by the venerable Dr. Scott and his son Judge Scott, of Washington State, Mrs. Harrison's only brother, who was unable to reach here in time for the funeral, attended the morning service atthe Church of the Covenant. As they came out at the close of the service they passed Mr. Blaine who walking alone, was taking his daily constitutional.

It has been the expressed wish of the President that Mrs. Harrison's death should be regarded as a private bereavement and be unaccompanied by any public demonstrations. The statements is made, however, that as the result of a private conference between Mrs. Morton, the wife of the Vice-President, and Mrs. J. W. Foster, wife of the Secretary of State, it has been agreed that the wives of the Cabinet officers will wear mourning for the next thirty days, and during that time will refuse all invitations to entertainments or attend any places of public amusement.
