of both of their deaths. It was a bull calf weighed 84 lbs, was 4 feet 3 inches long and 3. 4½ around the girth. Had the heifer been as big as the mammoth bull Emperor she could not have delivered herself of her calf, nor could all the motive power of the railroad have drawn it from her except by killing her.

You have made a narrow escape with her, and can draw on me as last advised you for the sum named in my letter. Yrs truly
