Marshalsea - Dublin

My Dear Uncle.

Your letter of the 25th June last reached me thro' the post this morning — why so long in coming I cannot tell — it appears to have been enclosed in a package to some one, as part of the address on the back is in a different hand writing from yours. I do not allow a single day to elapse without replying, & for greater security I send this thro' packet.

I merely intend this letter as a precursor to a more full account which I will as soon as possible transmit you, & I entreat you in the mean time to suspend your opinion & to believe me when I assure you that you have been very, very, grossly deceived in what you have heard. I wrote to you two or three times, sending my letters as I then supposed, in a parcel with others from the family — but I have reason to believe you never got them — in particular I gave one letter for you with a Statement of your account with my father drawn out by myself, into the hands of Mr. John Dunwill, one of his Trustees, for the purpose of his enclosing the money in it & handing it over to Mr. Barnett to be forwarded to you, & I was assured most positively afterwards that this had been done. indeed I had thought that Sam Napier had a power of Attorney from you opinion & that of Every one else. You will ere this have heard of the death of my Mother. I was not allowed to see either her or Saml. before their deaths. You will judge from this what kind of people the parties are. I have the misfortune to be involved with. I beg you will write to me again the moment you receive this, & if you think that I would not be inclined to adopt any advice that you would give me, I can only say you greatly misjudge me. I will send another offer to the parties before I am a day older.

My dear Uncle believe me yours affectionately. Wm. Napier
