THURSDAY MORNING.....Feb. 28, 1867.

☞ MR. J. B. ROBINSON, 48 Barre street, Baltimore, is our authorized agent for this paper in that city.

☞ Postmasters are requested to inform us of any refusal to take our paper from their office.

For Sale or Exchange.

We have in this office a good Adams' Printing Press—bed 28x41—and Steam Engine, all complete and in good order, which we will either sell on good terms, or exchange for one of Hoe's or Taylor's No 3. Washington Hand Presses. Address, "UNION" OFFICE, Denton, Md

The Orphans Court of Caroline county will sit on Tuesday, March 12, 1867.

GOV. SWANN resigned his position as Governor of Maryland on Tuesday last. Lieut. Governor Cox was installed in office the same day, Judge Bowie administering the required oath

GEORGETOWN ELECTION.—At the election held in Georgetown, D. C. on Monday last, for Mayor, Mr. Charles B Welsh, republican, was elected over his conservative competitor by a majority of 96 votes.

THE MILFORD ARGUS is the title of a very neat 28 column sheet published at Milford, Del, by James B Mahan. It is neutral in politics, and is devoted to the advancement of home interests. We welcome it to our exchange list.

GOVERNOR BROWNLOW was renominated for Governor by the Republican State Convention of Tennessee by acclamation. A resolution was unanimously adopted declaring General Thomas to be the choice of Tennessee for the next President of the United States.

THE Washington Republican of Friday says that the United States Senate on Thursday rejected the appointment of Somerset R. Waters, Internal Revenue Collector Fourth District Maryland; Wm. J. Brittingham, Internal Revenue Collector First District Maryland; Henry G. Hazen, Superintendent Inspectors Steamboats, Baltimore.

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS.—Governor Swann has appointed the following gentlemen as Justices of the Peace for this county: First District, Thomas Melvin and Andrew B. Rowe; Second District, Benjamin A. Richardson, Asbury Prouse and Wm H. Thomas; Third District, Manlius T. Hutchinson and John H. Wallace; Fourth District, Wm. Lockerman and William Hignutt.

WILL our friends in different parts of the county, and in the adjoining counties, who desire their marriages published forward their notices to us, stating names, time, place and by whom married? It is a matter of local interest, and will be published gratuitously. We are unable, in many instances, to ascertain the names of parties, etc., until they are sent us by the ministers, and then, very often, are weeks and months old. Also, notices of deaths solicited, stating time of death, age name, etc. In all cases, such notices must be accompanied by responsible names.

POST OFFICE REMOVALS.—The Postmaster General reports to the Senate the number of removals from office since March last at 1,644, and for the following reasons: political reasons, 1,283; to give place to soldiers, 92. In Delaware the number of removals was six, of which five were for political reasons. In Maryland 33 postmasters were removed, of which 21 were for political reasons.—Those removed for political reasons in Maryland were the postmasters at Towsontown, Chesapeake City, Dublin, Unionville, Mechanicstown, Mount Pleasant, Federalsburg, Berlin, Beaver Creek, Cambridge, Newtown, Centreville, Emmittsburg, Harford Furnace, Denton, Royal Oak, Frederick, Taneytown, and Fincksburg If the two postmasters in this county, at Denton and Federalsburg, were removed for political reasons it was because they were uncompromising Union men. The postmaster at this place we know to have been a consistent supporter of the cause of his country, and during the war sent three of his sons into the army to battle for the old flag. If he was removed for political reasons, it was for entertaining the same opinions as those held by the Postmaster General himself.

Teachers' Association.

A stated meeting of the Teachers' Association of the First and Second districts of Caroline county was held in the M. E. Church at Boonsboro' on the 25th inst, which was attended by a large and attentive audience. Mr. E. Plummer, the President, called the meeting to order, after which, in the absence of Miss Dora E Gray, the Secretary, H. S. Marshall was elected Secretary pro tem., and the association proceeded with its regular order of business, to audit reports of committees and to transact other unfinished business till 12 o'clock, when it adjourned to meet at the same place at 2 o'clock, P. M., at which time it met and was addressed by H. S. Marshall on the "Wonders of Science," and was followed by an essay on the "Advantages of Education." [The essay will appear in our next issue.] The reading of the essay was followed by a lengthy, entertaining and instructive lecture. by Mr. Allison, on the subject of "Education" which elicited from Drs. Betson and Booth interesting remarks, and after the society had resolved to furnish their proceedings to the county papers, and thanking the audience for their attention, adjourned to meet at Castle-Hall the last Saturday in March, where and when the public are invited to attend.

H. S. MARSHALL, Sec'y protem.

PAY YOUR TAXES.—We see by the Denton Journal that Mr Gibson, the Deputy Internal Revenue Collector, is to be in town from the 11th to the 16th of March to collect the taxes due from citizens of this county to the United States. We advise all persons who wish to save 10 per cent. cost to pay their taxes promptly.

As the Union men of this county pay a large majority of these taxes, and the Deputy Collector has not complied with the law by giving the required notice, we therefore give a gratuitous notice that tax-payers may save themselves from cost.

JOHN H. SURRATT was arraigned in the Criminal Court at Washington on Saturday on an indictment for murder. When brought into the Court his hands were handcuffed, but by request of his counsel the Court ordered them released, and the indictment was read to him by the Clerk of the Court Surratt entered the plea of "Not guilty" The Clerk then asked, "How will you be tried?" To which the latter replied, "By my countrymen;" when the officer added: "Then may God send you a safe deliverance." The handcuffs were then replaced, and the prisoner remanded to jail. No time has yet been fixed for his trial.—BALTO. AMERICAN.

ELECTION IN CECIL COUNTY.—The special election in Cecil county, Md., on Thursday, for a member of the House of Delegates, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Mr. Magraw, resulted in the success of Mr. Joseph Gollibert the conservative candidate, by a small majority.—Wilm. Daily Commercial.

THE ASSASSIN.

THE LANDING OF SURRATT.

The Washington Chronicle of Wednesday gives the following additional particulars of the surrender of Surratt to the civil authorities:

Shortly after three o'clock Marshal Gooding, accompanied by Deputy Marshal Phillips, Major Richards, Superintendent of the Metropolitan Police, District Attorney Carrington, Detective G. A. Miller, and Sergeants Austin and Pierce, of the Fourth Ward, left the City Hall in carriages for the Navy Yard, upon reaching which Marshal Gooding and District Attorney Carrington held an interview with Commodore Radford, and the former presented the papers giving him authority to take Surratt into custody. They proving satisfactory, Captain Balch, accompanied by another naval officer, proceeded on board the Swatara — By this time quite a number of persons, including representatives of the local and Northern press, persons attracted thither by curiosity, and two Indian chiefs of the Kaw tribe, Kah-be-gah-me-wag-ah, or Fool Chief, and At-lego wah hau, with an interpreter, had congregated upon the wharf opposite to which the Swatara was lying. The presence of the two Indians in full war dress and bearing their glistening tomahawks attracted no little attention, and one excitable individual started the rather improbable story that they had been sent there by the War Department, so that immediately upon the landing of Surratt he might be tomahawked and scalped in the most approved Indian style, and thus all the expenses of the trial be avoided. As might have been expected, this story elicited nothing but laughter.

About 4 1-2 P. M., a boat rounded the stern of the Swatara, and rapidly moved toward the wharf, impelled by the strong arms of its sturdy crew. Upon a seat about amidships was described a figure arrayed in a Zouave uniform, and the crowd were immediately upon the tiptoe of expectation. Upon reaching the wharf Surratt, who was manacled, was assisted from the boat by two naval officers. He was presented to Marshal Gooding, who served the bench warrant upon him, and being asked whether his name was John H. Surratt, he without hesitation replied in the affirmative. While standing on the wharf he was exposed to the full view of the assembled crowd. Surratt is a man about five feet seven or eight inches in height, rather square built, thin and regular features, with light hair, moustache, and goatee. He was dressed in a full Zouave uniform of bluish grey cloth, trimmed with red braid, a dark red Zouave skull cap, with a blue tassel, a crimson sash around his waist, and white leggings He appeared somewhat depressed at first, seldom raising his eyes except to cast a searching glance upon those upon wharf, as though trying to detect a familiar face. In charge of Marshal Gooding and Major Richards he was led toward the carriage, and though he walked with head erect, and with a nonchalant manner, his legs appeared to be rather weak, probably from want of sufficient exercise during his imprisonment. He entered the carriage, accompanied Marshal Gooding, Deputy Marshal Phillips and Major Richards, and the door being closed, the vehicle was rapidly driven off, followed by another carriage containing Detective Miller and Sergeants Austin and Pierce, who were to assist should any attempt be made either at escape or rescue. The whole matter, however had been so quietly conducted that nothing of the kind could have occurred; indeed, after leaving the navy yard, but few knew who were in the hacks which passed at so rapid a rate As the carriage in which Surratt was seated was passing Whitney's Hotel, near the Capitol, one of the counsel engaged for the defence in the trial of the conspirators, who was standing upon the porch, upon looking into the vehicle, recognized the prisoner. It is said that he attempted to obtain admission into one of the carriages following, but was unsuccessful.

Upon reaching the county jail, Surratt was taken from the carriage into the building, and at once placed in a cell in the east wing of the second story, one of three iron-clad cells which have been used for the confinement of murderers and desperate characters. His blankets, of foreign manufacture, and many small articles of personal property, were brought from the vessel in the carriage and delivered over to warden Brown for safe keeping.

It is not known positively when the trial will take place, but it is generally understood that it will occur at an early day.

During the voyage to this country all conversation with Surratt, except with regard to his personal wants, was strictly prohibited. During the ride to the jail yesterday he was very reticent, never speaking except when addressed. He invariably answered to the name of Surratt, and though this fact is good proof of his identity, the recognition of his face by several acquaintances yesterday renders it positively certain that the authorities have secured the right man.

TRIAL TRIP OF THE DUNDERBERG.—The iron-clad steam ram frigate Dunderberg, arrived at New York, on Saturday evening after having made a two days' trial trip on the ocean. Her speed, sailing qualities, and suitableness for naval service were tested in every way, and are said to have proved fully satisfactory. A number of United States naval officers, detailed to report on her efficiency as a sea-going frigate, were on board, as were also several captains in the merchant marine, and all appeared to be pleased with the result of the trip. During a portion of the time she made twelve miles an hour.—BALTO SUN.

TENNESSEE.

The Horrors of 1861 Revived—Union Citizens Fly for Their Lives—Voices from West Tennessee.

The following letters come from unquestionable sources. The writers of them are men of the highest character in all respects and have been blameless, consistent Unionists from the beginning of our troubles We suppress names for the reason that publication would very probably cost our friends their lives. We entreat the Legislature to send speedy aid to the suffering Unionists of West Tennessee before they are murdered and driven from their homes. When the assassination of loyal civil officers is styled "retributive justice" by leading Rebel journals, the State Government should protect the lives of true men against the assaults of desperadoes. One letter says, under date of February 1st:

"* * * The feeling here is worse, if anything, than it was last week. Mr. G. W. Pursely, Jo. Pursely and Robert Pursely are gone. They were advised to leave and they did not stay out their 20 days. God only knows how long we will get to stay west the Tennessee river. You may look for me in Nashville. The Rebels are trying to get some of our Union men to sign a petition to defeat the Military bill. They are afraid to refuse lest they should be killed before the force gets here. You must caution the Legislature against this, for we may have such an overwhelming majority against us that policy for the present must be used. I know I write the feeling of the loyal party here when I say they want the Military bill to pass, so if you see their names to a petition to defeat the Military bill you may know it is not an expression of their wish but a strategem. * * * If you want to see the Union men frantic with joy, just send the soldiers. I wish I could hear the drum and bugle right now, and see the boys in blue."

The next letter is from a leading citizen of West Tennessee:

"* * * Can you organize your military force by March? It ought to be done immediately, before any more of our loyal citizens fall by the hands of the Rebels. There is no safety here. Every Union man of any note is in momentary danger of his life. We know what pitiable excuses are made for these murders; that they are committed by a few reckless fellows under the influence of drink, for other than political reasons, and that the respectable part of the community condemn such acts. What barefaced hypocrisy and falsehood! We know, and all the circumstances prove, that public sentiment winks at these crimes, and Rebel juries never will punish the offenders. Men, while publicly professing to regret these deeds, rub their hands with secret satisfaction that another and another '— Tennessee traitor and Yankee' has met his merited doom. It is gravely stated that Case had been instrumental, during the war, in the killing of Ferris' brother.

"We know of no instance where crimes are not justified on similar ground. Unless you do something speedily to stop this, we cannot remain here. It grows worse every day The courts are silent and impotent. The President and United States Supreme Court have invited the Rebels to take the country by force, and they will do it unless promptly arrested. Send on troops, and levy a tax on the criminals and their abettors to pay the cost. In the name of God, why hesitate? Are you afraid Rebels will condemn you? * * * If the principles of the Union party, that saved the country, are right, put them through; 'fight it out on that line.' Let them growl at radical measures Radical measures only will save the country from the perils that threaten us."

The same agonizing, heart-rending cry for help comes up from other quarters.—Will the petition of our Southern brethren be rejected or delayed? Let speedy relief be given.—Nashville Press and Times.

THE RECONSTRUCTION BILL TO BE VETOED.—The Washington Republican, which is said to be one of the "organs" of President Johnson, in an article in its issue of Monday, given prominently in double-leaded type, thus discourses of the Reconstruction bill now in the hands of the President:

If any mischief-making Radicals suppose that President Johnson intends to "pocket" the Military Reconstruction bill which reached him on Friday evening last they will find themselves very much mistaken. He is no such a man. He will not allow it to be said that he obstructed the great work of reconstruction in that way. The two Houses of Congress will have an opportunity of making the bill a law, notwithstanding it is clearly unconstitutional in many of its provisions. If it becomes a law, if that is the best the Thirty-Ninth Congress can produce after laboring for two years, the President will do the best he can with it. He will execute it, and, if possible, will bring harmony out of the present national chaos through its agency, unless prevented by the constitutional interference and check of that august and ever-to-be-respected co-ordinate branch of the Government, the Supreme Court of the United States. We have no doubt that the President will return the Reconstruction bill to Congress at the earliest possible moment.

DEATH OF MRS N B. SMITHERS.—We learn with regret of the death of the wife of Hon N. B. Smithers. She has not been in very good health for some time and on Thursday evening last she died at her home in Dover. She was a lady of intelligence and culture and though of a retiring disposition leaves behind her a large circle of friends to mourn her untimely death. She was a daughter of the late Joseph Smithers of this county.—WILMINGTON DAILY COMMERCIAL.

☞ A YOUNG LADY returning to her country home, after a sojourn of a few months in the City, was hardly recognized by her friends. In place of a coarse, rustic, flushed face, she had a soft ruby complexion of almost marble smoothness, and instead of twenty-three she really appeared but eighteen.
