DENTON, MARYLAND:

THURSDAY MORNING:::::::::::June 30, 1870

WHITTEMORE, the South Carolina Representative who was expelled for his traffic in cadetships and who was returned by his constituents, has been refused a seat in the House of Representatives. This is in accordance with the wishes of every honest man.

IT IS ARGUED that, because the tariff duties, stamp taxes, &c., were war measures and the war has ceased, these measures should be abolished. But although the war has ceased its effects are still felt in our national debt, and until every dollar of that debt is honestly discharged they are as necessary as at any time during the war.

WILMINGTON MERCHANTS, we observe, are advertising quite liberally in the Chester county papers since the new railroad has been opened. But they should not neglect the Peninsula, with its net-work of railroads, since its trade can be measurably controlled by them if they will but make the effort to secure it. Let the people know you have an existence, and also have bargains for them, and they will not be slow in finding you out.

OUR DEMOCRATIC FRIENDS are in an awful dilemma. The fall elections are rapidly approaching,and no definite line of policy has been determined upon by them. Nor can they agree upon a line of action which promises to restore them to the confidence and esteem of the people. Before them lies Scylla and Charybdis, and if they steer clear of one they are sure to be swallowed up by the other, and vice versa. One class wants to bid for the colored vote, a second to organize a grand "white man's party," whilst a third counsels the forcible demolition of the Amendment which confers the right of suffrage upon the colored man. Each class feels and recognizes their forlorn situation, and evidences it by the strange and unnatnral manner in which they meet the issue. But it's no use. All their plans will fail them, for the people have long since determined that modern democracy is false and treacherous, and have bidden it an affectionate farewell.

BY A PROTECTIVE TARIFF, Free-Traders allege, the tools a man works with and the sugar which sweetens his tea and coffee, as well as these articles themselves, are taxed. Granted. But these Free-Traders fail to tell the fact that a protective tariff increases the wages of the laboring man, thus enabling him to more easily pay the small amount which the tariff demands. The only question, therefore, to be determined is, Would it be easier to purchase the necessaries of life, free of tariff, with diminished wages for labor, or to purchase the same articles, with the tariff imposed upon them, and with the wages for labor increased. To our minds there can be but one answer to the question, plain and comprehensive to the minds of all. With wages at their present standard in Protective America mechanics and laboring men of all kinds are better able to live, and do live better than the same class of men do in Free-Trade England. Else why is it that the tide of immigration to this country is so strong from England and other Free-Trade countries? Men are not going to sunder the friendships of years, and bid farewell to the familiar haunts of their childhood's happy homes without a prospect of being able to better their condition. It is unnatural and unreasonable to suppose such a thing. Our increased wages, made so by our protective system, is the beacon light whose magnetic influence attracts from beyond the great ocean.

EXECUTION OF EDWARD DARNELL AT DOVER, DEL.—SPEECH ON THE GALLOWS—PROTESTATIONS OF INNOCENCE.

Edward Darnell, colored, 19 years old, convicted at the last term of the court for the murder of John Hogan, peddler, of Philadelphia, on the 19th of March last, was executed in the presence of a large crowd, at Dover, Del., on Friday last. On Wednesday night Sheriff Wilds quietly went into the prisoner's room, and found him loose, he having burned out the bolt which held his chains to the floor. He was digging with the bolt into the wall, and had made a hole almost large enough to get his body through. A friend of the prisoner's, named Anderson, had made an equally large hole on the outside. A few minutes longer and he would have been a free man. Darnell was heavily ironed, and was put in a more secure cell.—Rev. Dr. Hoskins, an Episcopal minister, was with him all the morning, and administered the communion. Darnell persists in denying his guilt, and says Wm. Lober killed the man. He (Darnell) only helped to drag him to the mill-pond. He was willing to die, believing himself innocent. He thought Lober ought to be hung with him. Darnell is evidently of unsound mind, and was enticed and threatened by Lober, who received all the money on Hogan's person.—Darnell says that Lober threatened to kill him if he refused to help him. In company with the sheriff's deputy and Dr. Hoskins the prisoner went on the scaffold, where Dr. Hoskins read the Episcopal service and offered prayer. Darnell was then asked if he had anything to say, and, in a clear voice, he replied: "Gentlemen, it is hard to die; I did not do it; Wm. Lober did it; I went with him; he told me he would pay me for the robbery; J. Young told me to go with him, I would not be hurt. Lober did it." The cap was then put over his head, the noose tightened, and at twenty minutes of two o'clock he was launched into eternity. He never moved after he fell, but broke his neck, dropping about six feet. About seven hundred people, men, women and children, boys and girls, from five to fifteen years of age, witnessed the execution with apparently the greatest satisfaction.

The colored citizens of St. Mary's county will celebrate the Fourth of July by a grand mass meeting at Leonradstown.

The Congressional Nomination and the Officiousness of Unconcerned Parties.

Mr. Editor:—

The question as to who shall be the nominee of the Republican party for Congress in this, the 1st Congressional District of Maryland, has, for some time past, been agitating the minds of a certain political faction, outside the district, and who have no substantial interests in the limits of this district, pecuniary or otherwise. Believing a few plain hints, if received in the same spirit in which they are given, might be of interest to our party, I have ventured to commit a few thoughts to paper, and present them to you for publication.

It is a well known fact to all who are conversant with the movements of both parties in this State, that whichever party has control of the Custom House attempts to control the nominations, State and National, and by this influence it is often the case that incompetent and unfit nominations are made, and for which the people of the District are held responsible. An attempt is now being made by these officials to force a man of their choice down the throats of the people of this Shore, believing, when the nomination is made, the people will "go it blind" on their man and give him their cordial support. A combination of these men has been formed in Cecil county and Baltimore City, with their head-quarters in the city, and they desire not only to control the nomination in this district, but all over the State.—It is about time that we, of this Shore, had opened our eyes to plain facts, and, if we possess the spirit of manhood, should resent, in a proper spirit, this officiousness and impertinence manifested by these self-constituted agents, who propose to intermeddle in our affairs and make our nominations for us. Creswell & Co. have run the political machine about long enough, and if abler men, who are not so puffed up with vanity, and whose sins of political ingratitude present so dark a cloud in the back-ground, do not wrest from their grasp the sceptre of power, there is no human foresight can foretell the evils that are to befall us in this district. Already the leading working men of the district have become disgusted with them, and desire a change of leaders. And throughout the State the same dissatisfaction exists, and if they will still persist in such a course, ere long the mutterings of the coming storm and the thunders of the wrath of the people will be heard from Allegany's rocky peaks to Worcester's wave-bound shore. We implore them, for the sake of the union and harmony of the party, if for nothing else, to keep aloof and hands off.—We want no intermeddling of selfish demogogues, political wire-pullers, or of men whose characters are blackened with the sins of political ingratitude. The people of the district are fully able and competent to take care of themselves.

But, Mr. Editor, with a due regard to the feelings and opinions of the Cecil Whig and his particulnr candidate for congressional honors, I beg leave to say that the people, outside of Cecil county, have a few men in this part of the district who they believe are entitled to some consideration on account of past services rendered the party. Among quite a number of distinguished gentlemen who would wear the congressional honors with meekness, and discharge the responsible duties pertaining thereto with fidelity, may be named those of Col. Ed. Wilkins, of Kent; Hon. H. H. Goldsborough, of Talbot; and Hon. Thos. A. Spence, of Wicomico. These gentlemen belong to no faction, but have a national reputation, and whose patriotism is as broad as the Union. They are gentlemen of principle, moved and actuated from pure motives, and no selfish spirit moves them to thrust themselves upon the party. They are good men, and I trust some such may receive the nomination for Congress in the approaching canvass.

Mr. Editor, I have but one more suggestion to make at this time. It is this: the time and place for holding the convention for the congressional nomination should be decided on at an early day. The place for the meeting of the convention should be in a central portion of the district, and the town of Easton, I believe, would be acceptable to a majority of the counties. Baltimore city has been the place usually selected heretofore. This is outside the district.—Let us for once, at least, hold our convention in the district, away from Custom House and all other influences, and our nominee, whoever he may be, will have the merit of being the nominee of the people of the district, and not the selection of those who have no interest in our affairs.

A TRIP TO HURLOCK'S STATION—WOODS—CAMP-MEETING—GRAND 4TH OF JULY CELEBRATION—SABBATH-SCHOOL ASSOCIATION—HARVESTING—BERRIES—WEATHER—HEALTH, &C.

Mr. Editor:—

On last Monday morning we took the car on the Del. & Dorchester R. R. for Hurlock's Station, and after a pleasant ride of about one hour, we arrived there. There is a very fine woods of twenty or thirty acres, well timbered with oak, and outside of the oak timber there is plenty of pine. The ground is elevated, diverging off to certain points, sufficient to carry off the water nicely in a heavy rain. There is very little underbrush, and it would be very easy to locate a camp-meeting there. The camp-meeting at Ennall's Spring has seen its day. The ground there has served the people fifty years, and now it is time to move it. The woods at Ennall's is not very good now, as it has been cut out considerably, and the country around is rough and broken, and inconvenient to travel. The spring is fine, but the water has to be carried too far to make it pleasant. The time was when the people would put up with anything, and any inconvenience—such as ox-carts, old wagons, stage-coaches to travel in, &c., but now they want railroads, steamboats, telegraphs, &c. The church, and even camp-meeting, must be held on an improved plan. At Hurlock's you can get first rate water, and plenty of it, and any other convenience necessary to make a camp-meeting pleasant and attractive. Now is the time to go to work; "work while the iron is hot." Or Cromwell's improvement on the proverb is better, "make the iron hot by working."

Great preparations are making for a grand and glorious demonstration on the 4th of July. The whole county is filled with enthusiasm. The fires of seventy-six are burning in their veins, and the flames are beginning to gush out at every point. At this time of writing they (the flames) are spreading, for two important citizens of Federalsburg are here to help on the enthusiasm in this town, and they, instead of trying to quench the fire, as is usual, have increased it ten-fold. Later—a meeting is convened here by the Federalsburg gentlemen, and the fire is increasing. Still later—11 o'clock at night. There is no stopping it, with all the efforts that are put forth. Well, let it go; it will sweep over the entire county. The oldest inhabitants think it is the greatest fire they ever heard of.

The best feature of all is, that a Sabbath-school Association was formed there, and not to conflict with county, town, or State lines. They gave it the name of Choptank and Nanticoke Association. You see by this that the children are involved in it also. Well, it seems that they must have the children in everything these days. And they say the children are to sing, led by Prof. Fisher, of Philadelphia, and a band of music. Orations and addresses.

Mr. Editor, do you think the people in this county can stand such a mammoth concern as that is to be? Come and take a few notes of the proceedings.

The farmers are busy harvesting here now, and the grain is better than was expected. Cherries and raspberries are being shipped pretty extensively now, but the prices are not very good.

The rainy weather has ceased, and now it is warm and dusty. The thermometer stood 91 in the shade to-day. The health of our town is good at present, but if the weather continues so warm, it is feared that there will be much sickness this summer.

Hope you are enjoying health and prosperity. DELTA.

Letter from New Castle County.

ROTHWELL'S DELIGHT,
New Castle Co., Del., June 27th.

Mr. Editor:—

Noticing that you make a specialty of giving place to communications in the columns of your paper from different sections, I have concluded to pen you a few lines from the "old Diamond State," believing that many of your patrons take an interest in knowing what is transpiring throughout the Peninsula.

I am living about three miles and a-half East of Smyrna, in a beautiful section of the country. The land is about rolling enough to give the country a slight romantic appearance, and, indeed, some spots seem well suited for the admirer of nature to sit and drink in the beauties of the Great Architect of worlds, for truly the beauties of God are conspicuously displayed in all His works.

Harvesting is now at its zenith. In this field you see McCormick's reaper laying low the golden grain; in another, you see "The Little Harvester," and so on through the entire section you find that earth is pouring her golden treasures into the lap of the honest farmer."

Peaches with us are very plentiful, if I except Hale's Early and the Smock. A gentleman informed me the other day that the Hale's Early were a total failure, he having about 2000 trees from which he did not expect to gather any whatever. I find that this variety of peaches are growing into disrepute, and some talk of cutting down this variety and substituting some other.

I find that some are cultivating the gooseberry to success. Mr. Rothwell has about one acre set down in plants, from which he sold about 300 bushels receiving $2.75 and $1.40 per bushel. So you perceive at a glance that they pay.

Corn is looking very well but suffering a little for the want of rain. Farmers are using a great many tiles in draining their land, and really, if some of our Maryland friends could only come up and take a view of the result, I think they would come to the conclusion that it really was a paying enterprise, and would go home and immediately order a few thousand tiles.

Farmers are raising hedges, generally preferring them to the old post and rail fence. I notice that the osage orange is used in preference to the "black thorn." Farmers through this section of the country will ship their peaches by water instead of rail, as the former is more cheap and also more convenient. More Anon

"BILLIE."

PERPETUAL EXEMPTION.—One hundred illicit stills have been broken up in the State of Tennessee—the home of Andrew Johnson—the great modern Moses—the consumer of the productions of the stills. The United States soldiers were brought into requisition in the accomplishment of this work. Over three hundred miles of territory have been traversed in hunting up these spirituous violators of the law and bringing the culprits to summary justice. Information of the fact was forwarded to Washington by Assessor Chaslian of the third district of Tennessee.

We take it the disciples of the Democratic persuasion are somewhat indignant at having their business disturbed by this means. Of course they think such summary procedure is unconstitutional, tyranical and oppressive—in open violation of the plainest rights of Democrats—in opposition to immemorial custom and very trying to the interests of those who profited by the operations of these illegal stills. Last March, quite a number of stills, manufacturing whiskey by a diret evasion of the revenue laws, were broken up and none of them have been revived. We guess this business of giving stills a perpetual exemption from the privilege of making whiskey is against the wishes of "My Policy."

A NEW SECRET SOCIETY.—A new secret society has been formed within the last three years, which aims at uniting agriculturists for protection against monopolies and to secure their public interests. It is known by the pastoral title of the "Patrons of Husbandry," and it already numbers 80,000 members. It admits women and children to its rights and fellowship. It has various State and county organizations, called "Granges," under the control of the National Grange at Washington. Among other things it hopes for, is to break down the high prices at which agricultural machines are sold, by ordering them by wholesale for its members; and the same thing will be done with seeds and other supplies.

THE MASSACHUSETTS LIQUOR BILL.—The Governor of Massachusetts has signed the bill amending the prohibitory law and the supplementary act. It will therefore be lawful to sell cider, ale, porter, strong beer and lager beer. The bill provides that cities and towns shall each year vote whether the sale of strong drinks shall be make within their respective municipalities.

THE KID GLOVE.—The kid glove is about to cease from its mission as the emblem of aristocracy on account of defection in prices. Very excellent kids are now sold in Paris at thirty cents a pair, and in New York they are marked as low as fifty cents. The market is absolutely overstocked, and even the present prices cannot, it is believed, long be maintained in the trade.
