American Union

J. M. EMERSON, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

DENTON, MARYLAND:

Thursday Morning, May 25th, 1871.

For Sale Cheap.

We offer for sale very low the Press upon which THE UNION has been printed for the last three years. It is a Smith Hand Press, 22 by 32, in good order. The universally neat appearance of THE UNION will attest this fact.—Our only reason for selling is because we have no use for the Press, having been compelled to purchase a new one in order that we might enlarge our paper. Address all inquiries to THE UNION, Denton, Md.

THE MINERS of the Delaware, Lackawanna, and Western Company have come to terms and the mines been opened. The Delaware and Hudson region will doubtless come to an agreement, and the coal troubles will thus end.

WASHINGTON advices say that the great treaty will positively be ratified by the Senate. It has already been approved by Great Britain, the assent of the Crown, (not of Parliament,) being alone needed, and the favorable action of the Senate will close the matter.

BALTIMORE CITY is said to be sure for Pinkney White in the selection of her Delegates to the State Convention to nominate a candidate for Governor. The Eastern Shore is persistently pushing the claims of Richard B. Carmichael, of Queen Annes, and the contest is likely to be an exciting one.

IF "MORE ANON," writing from Hillsborough to the St. Michael's Comet, has any friends, they would confer an especial favor upon him by taking him under their immediate care. We are very fearful another effort will burst his cranium. His last production, with its ærial soarings and "woodpile" alighting, its foul conglomeration of grammatical inaccuracies and faulty rhetoric, gives unmistakable evidence of overtaxed energies, with promises of serious results to a renewal of the effort. Judging from his bleatings, we should take him to be a very small calf.

THE SEASON has opened unusually lively for Denton, socially. The entertainments already given and those to come off have infused into the community a condition of social communion which it would be well to perpetuate. As a general rule, the more universal social intercourse becomes and the more frequent the intermingling of the people together in recreationary pleasures, the more happy and contented is such a community, and the freer is it from idle gossip and family heartaches. We trust the spirit of sociability already manifested will not die out with the entertainments already arranged, but that others will be projected. During the summer season picnics, fishing parties, &c., will be very appropriate, and will be found to yield a deal of pleasure, as well as recreation.

THE ESTABLISHMENT of a canning factory at this place has been often suggested and as often been passed by with neglect. The importance of such an enterprise is universally conceeded and its profitableness has never been questioned. But, from some cause or other, none of our capitalists have ever been urged up to the sticking point, and the enterprise has never been carried out because of this. In view, therefore, of the probability of a heavy peach crop and consequent low prices, we suggest the propriety of calling a public meeting to from a joint stock company to prosecute the enterprise, if enough public spirit cannot be found among one or two individuals to begin it. Let us get together and compare notes on the subject, and see what can be done. The subject would not be an improper one for the consideration of the Farmer's Club.

THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS have refused to levy the fifteen hundred dollars asked for by the School Commissioners to continue the schools until the end of the term, and they will consequently close for the summer on Wednesday next.—This decision of the County Commissioners is unfortunate for the children, and a source of deep regret to all who feel any interest in the cause of education. But the Commissioners say they are only giving expression to the popular will, having previously made dilligent inquiry of the taxpayers in the several districts. If this be so, which we do not pretend to doubt, it certainly is a misguided public sentiment, which is likely to entail untold woes upon the county in the years that are to come. The idea that the schools can be very well dispensed with when the boys can be made useful on the farm is a grave error which will demand the most earnest efforts of the friends of education to correct.

THE FRENCH REBELLION is now virtually at an end, the Government army being inside the gates of the city of Paris. The entry was begun on Sunday by an offier discovering that one of the gates was abandoned, whereupon he summoned three hundred sailors and marched in. It was evident that the Communists had given up the defence of the ramparts, and the entire army was put in motion, and by Monday seventy thousand men occupied the western and southwestern portions of the city. The insurgents still hold the district towards Montmartre, and the advance of the troops through the streets is sometimes fiercely resisted by defenders behind the barricades and in the houses. They are, however, being steadily driven back, although the fighting has been terribly desperate, and immense slaughter and destruction has been reported. The insurgent batteries on the heights of Montmatre on Monday cannonaded the Loyalists, and at night great fires were raging within the city. If the statements are not exaggerated, Paris is now undergoing a more fearful ordeal even than it has ever had to suffer all its past days of siege and battle and civil war.

The Strawberry and Floral Exhibition.

AN OCCASION OF GREAT INTEREST—BEAUTIFUL DISPLAY—THE EXHIBITION A COMPLETE SUCCESS.

Never before, perhaps, in the history of our county was an enterprise of any character set on foot which elicited such universal interest as the Strawberry and Floral Exhibition held in this town on Saturday last under the auspices of the Farmers' Club. It was inwardly feared by many that the exhibition would be a small affair, owing to the earliness of the season and the shortness of the announcement, but in the extent and variety of the contributions and the surging crowd that filled the Court room it exceeded the loftiest expectations of the most sanguine, and demonstrated beyond contradiction that the citizens of this county are not the slow, plodding, conservative people that some of our neighbors would have us believe, thoroughly imbued with the wisdom of ancestral customs and practices and following with stubborn pertinacity in their beaten tracks. It further demonstrated through the wealth and artistic arrangement of the floral offerings that our ladies are ladies are ladies of culture and refinement, and that the rose and the lilly in profusion adorn our rural abodes.

The Court House, in which the exhibition was held, was taken in charge by the ladies of the town and clothed with an air of neatness and cleanliness with which that time-honored seat of justice has rarely been familiar in all its past history. Three tables were arranged within the space occupied by the bar and the jury, all covered with snow-white cloths from which hung evergreens in graceful festoons—the one on the right hand containing the fruits and flowers, the one on the left the vegetables, while between the two and next the clerk's desk was the third table, upon which was spread all the paraphernalia of a festival, embellished with fragrant flowers. This last was not in the original design of the exhibition, but was added by the ladies, and the wisdom of their suggestion was abundantly proven in the happy results attending it.

The display was most beautiful to behold, and as profuse as beautiful. We subjoin the list of contributors, with their several contributions:

Josiah White, strawberries.
W. H. Blackiston, potatoes.
Mrs. R. M. Tylor, potatoes.
Jas. B. Steele, gooseberries.
Benjamin Miller, strawberries.
Same, vegetables.
Henry Jopp, strawberries.
Mrs. J. W. Kerr, boquet.
J. W. Bryant, strawberries.
Miss Belle Collison, boquet.
Kemp & Kerr, strawberries.
Alex. Matthews, strawberries.
Wm. G. Horsey, potatoes.
W. D. Kelly, strawberries.
T. H. Kemp, potatoes.
Mrs. Benjamin Milier, boquet.
Mrs. P. W. Downes, peas.
T. W. Fountain, peas.
Mrs. H. Blackiston, vegetables.
E. W. Williamson, strawberries.
Miss Ida Williamson, boquet.
E. W. Williamson, potatoes.
Miss R. B. Satterthwaite, boquet.
A. P. Sorden, strawberries.
Mrs. T. H. Kemp, boquet.
Charles Jones, cherries.
Mrs. B. G. Stevens, boquet.
Mrs. R. R. Emerson, boquet.
Mrs. W. Boynton, boquet.
W. Boynton, strawberries.
Mrs. S. F. Liden, boquet.
Mrs. H. A. Sparks, boquet.

In accordance with the programme as made out by the committee of arrangements, the names of the members of the committees to award premiums were duly announced, as follows:

Committee on Strawberries:
Jno. F. Dawson,
Wm. Sisk.

Committee on Vegetables:
E. W. Williamson,
Henry Wilson.

Committee on Flowers:
Mrs. J. W. Bryant,
Mrs. T. H. Kemp,
Mrs. J. H. Emerson,
Mrs. R. J. Jump,
Mrs. W. G. Horsey.

The committees at once proceeded to the task assigned them, and after a patient and careful investigation into the merits of the several articles on exhibition reported the following persons as entitled to the award of premiums. The names of the contributors were carefully kept from the committees, and known to them only by numbers corresponding with numbers set opposite the names in a book kept for that purpose. The awards were as follows:

For the best collection of strawberries, to Kemp & Kerr.

For the best quart of strawberries, to Henry Jopp.

For the second best do., to W. D. Kelly.

For the best boquet of flowers, to Mrs. J. W. Kerr.

For the second best do., to Mrs. B. G. Stevens.

For the best collection of vegetables, to Benjamin Miller.

For the best six potatoes, to Elias W. Williamson.

The collection of strawberries for which the premium was awarded comprised seventeen different varieties, among which were the most popular of the day. There was also another collection of strawberries embracing fourteen varieties, and all fine specimens. The best quart of strawberries was of the Triomphe D'Gand variety, very large and unusully perfect. The second best quart was of Mr. Kelley's collection—the Golden Queen variety—and handsome berries they were, too.

The premium boquetwas in the form of a five-pointed star, arranged upon a frame of fine wire so shaped and concealed from view on the one side by leaves of American Arborvitæ, cut to fit the frame. The points of the star were supported by a wreath of Weigela Rosea, the divisions marked with Yellow Roses full blown. The star was composed of Spireas, Weigelas, Philadelphus and Rose Buds, with "packing moss" distributed among the obscured stems to keep the flowers fresh. The second premium boquet was in the form of a basket, beautifully trimmed with roses and other flowers, and what we supposed to be English Ivy, though of the latter we cannot speak positively as we failed to notice particularly.

The best collection of vegetables comprised onions and radishes, unusually large for the season and very fine specimens.

The premium potatoes were of the Early Rose variety and well developed. There were potatoes in other lots even larger than Mr. Williamson's, but the remainder were so small that the committee could not decide in their favor because of the lack of uniformity. In order to arrive at a conclusion the committee was obliged to call in a third and afterwards a fourth party before they could decide who was entitled to the premium. Mr. Williamson's potatoes were about the size of an ordinary hen's egg.

After the award of premiums had been announced, an address appropriate to the occasion was read by Mr. T. H. Kemp.—We regret that we are unable to give even a synopsis of the address, but we have already devoted more space to the exhibition than we can conveniently spare. Suffice it, therefore, to say that the address was one of Mr. Kemp's happiest efforts, its thoughts eminently practicable and clothed in choice language.

The exhibition concluded with the festival which had been arranged by the ladies. Ice cream, cake and strawberries were spread in the greatest profusion, and ample justice was done these tempting luxuries upon this occasion. When the festival ended, at about ten o'clock at night, it was ascertained, after estimating the expenses, that the receipts from the festival were sufficient to pay the premiums, and leave a balance in the treasury besides.

This first exhibition of the Farmers' Club was thus a decided success. It has awakened a new interest in the Club, such as promises to ultimate in great good to the Club itself and redound to the lasting benefit of the county.

But we must not forget to make public acknowledgement of the valuable assistance rendered by the ladies of this town upon this occasion. To Mrs. J. W. Bryant in particular is the club under many obligations for the conspicuous part she took in the preparation of the tables, and in the general superintendence of the festival.—Much of the success of the exhibition is due directly to their efforts, and the Farmers' Club will ever hold their cheerful co-operation in grateful remembrance.

Why We Can't Have a Town Election.

We have, at last, the reason made public why a town election is not held. The Journal, of Saturday last, says that the remnant of the Board of Commissioners is only "measurably copying the amiable example of our Radical friends in regard to holding elections." And so the insurmountable obstacle in the way is a political one—a desire to repay some previous Board of Republican Commissioners for similar conduct, as they allege, or, as the Journal expressess it, to "bring forth the legitimate results" upon the "heads of those now clamoring for municipal reform." But it was only a few weeks ago that the Journal was as clamorous for "municipal reform" as ever we have been, and we suppose it will endure as much of the "legitimate results" as we will. We have no personal interest at stake, and our anxiety in the matter extends no further than the general improvement of the town. We expect to receive no immediate benefit from the election of Town Commissioners; and as for the credit or discredit of the town it will be shared mutually by its citizens. The stranger will very naturally attribute the condition of the town to the slothfulness of its citizens but knowing ones very properly to the old Board of Commissioners who desire to "bring forth the legitimate results" upon the heads of "those clamorous for municipal reform." So, gentlemen, since your reasons for denying the citizens of the town the privileges of municipal regulation are such as they are, we, as an independent citizen, regard the whole matter with a spirit of indifference, fully persuaded that we can live as long and as comfortably as any one else.

But there is another phase to this subject which should sink deep into unbiased minds. Every public wrong committed has its "amiable example" in some previous Republican administration. Last fall, when a Republican meeting was denied shelter from the merciless peltings of a pitiless storm in the public buildings of the county, justification was sought in the similar action of the Republicans themselves. And now, when the privilege of electing a Board of Town Commissioners is asked it is denied that some "amiable examples" may be "measurably copied." But whilst "measurably copying these amiable examples," we would invite our Democratic friends to remember their loud denunciations of such measures and their promises for reform.—They have made for themselves a record of opposition to Republicans and Republican measures, and for them to "measurably copy these amiable examples" now deprives them of all semblance of consistency and invests them with a garb which smacks strongly of hollow-hearted hypocrisy. Besides, there is not the least possible excuse for such unwarrantable action. Good-will is being rapidly restored between man and man, and there is not the least reason in the world for any manifestations of political spleen. But politicians are ever ready to keep the spark of discontent alive, and fan it into a flame in any case of emergency. Honest men should be on the alert, and encompass the politicians with an opposition so strong that they will readily understand that they can practice their deceptions wiles no longer. In this alone lies the obliteration of all past differences and the inauguration of that era of "peace and good-will to men" which Christ and his apostles sought to establish upon earth.

PHILADELPHIA, at the close of last year, had 380 public schools, with 1,539 teachers and 82,891 children. The school expenses of the year amounted to $1,197,902, of which sum over $773,000 was expended in teachers' salaries.

Complimentary Notices.

THE UNION has, within the past few months, had very many flattering compliments paid it by editors of this and other States, which, although highly prized, our modesty has forbidden us to publish; but we this week give place to two notices clipped from daily papers—the Wilming-Commercial and the Baltimore American. We have every reason to believe our paper is appreciated at home, and we publish these notices to show the estimation in which it is held abroad:

The Denton (Caroline county) UNION comes to us greatly enlarged, and still as beautifully printed as ever. It is now a twenty-eight column newspaper, the handsomest on the Eastern Shore, and full of the freshest general and local news, and with carefully thought out and well written editorials. It is a sterling republican journal, and the fact that it lives and thus thrives while so many of its peninsular contemporaries of our faith have gone to the wall merely proves what we have always believed, that sense and energy will make a paper succeed despite adverse political circumstances.—Commercial.

THE DENTON "UNION."—The newspaper which is known everywhere as the Denton Union, but which takes to itself the more pretentious title of The American Union, has recently been enlarged, and now makes its appearance weekly in a dress so neat and tasteful that if the excellence of its selections and the sound political morals taught in its columns did not commend it to the homes of the Eastern Shore, its good looks certainly would. The Union is not precisely "the voice of one crying in the wilderness," because there are some sturdy Republicans in the region in which the Union is published. Nevertheless, the predominant public sentiment is against the political principles which it advocates, and the fact that it prospers and increases in size and circulation in such a community is the best possible evidence of its superior merit as a newspaper. Discriminating people of all political parties in Caroline and adjacent counties ought to read the Union.—American.

Our Exchanges.

THE KENT NEWS, published at Chestertown, celebrates its 32nd birth-day by an enlargement, and an air of general improvement throughout the paper. The News is a good paper, popular and influential in the county where published, and deserves the extra liberal support extended it. Politically it is Democratic, and ranks among the first of its politics on the Shore.

THE LITTLE CORPORAL for June closes volume twelve of this valuable juvenile.—The next number begins a new volume, and also a new story by that best of writers for children, Emily Huntington Miller, entitled "Summer Days at Kirkwood." All new subscribers beginning with the new volume will receive the June number free. Terms, $1.50 a year, or 75 cents for six months.—Address John E. Miller, Publisher, Chicago, Ill.

DIE MODENWELT is a handsomely printed journal, of the size of Harper's Bazaar, being devoted wholly to fashions. Its pages present a perfect wilderness of fashion cuts, of all the feminine styles imaginable; colored fashion plates and large pattern sheets accompany nearly every number.—Die Modenwelt is published in Berlin, and an English edition is imported for sale in this country by S. T. Taylor, 391 Canal street, New York. $3 a year.

A SERIOUS CONFLAGRATION occurred in Baltimore, on Sharp Street, before daylight on Tuesday morning. Two extensive warehouses and a dwelling house were destroyed and several other buildings damaged, the loss amounting to a total of between two hundred and two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. The saddest incident of the calamity was the killing of Mr. J. Harry Weaver, member of the First Branch of the City Council from the Fourteenth ward, by the explosion of one of the steam fire engines.

Cure for Chicken Cholera.

UNION CORNER, May 16, 1871.

MR. EDITOR:—

You state in your last issue that the chicken cholera has been and is very troublesome in Anne Arundel county. It appears to have spread all over both Shores of our State and Delaware. I once heard it hinted that quinine was a preventive against that destructive disease, but did not know how to apply it or the quantity, and being troubled so much with the cholera in the chickens I was determined to do something; so I got quinine and averaged the dose ½ grain to each chicken, mixed in corn meal and made into a stiff doe. The chickens refused to eat it at first, but I kept all other food from them until they did eat the dough. I hear of this disease in our country almost universally, yet I am not plagued with it in the least now, though before I used the quinine I lost several hens during each week. Oftentimes persons bring them to the store in a drooping condition, with pale gills, feathers apparently dead, and the fowls in fact nearly ready to die. For this I have dipped a feather in spirits turpentine and run it down their throats. This has made permanent cures a number of times, and I never knew it to fail but twice, and in these cases the chickens were so weak that the operation itself killed them. The application of turpentine may be repeated when necessary.

If you think this receipt will be of any benefit to your patrons you have my consent to use it. They will find the expense very trifling, and if they are as successful as I have been I am sure they will not regret the outlay. Very truly yours,

W. J. WILKINSON.

WHEN CHURCH SUBSCRIPTIONS ARE BINDING.—A case has recently been decided by the Supreme Court of Ohio involving the validity of subscriptions for church purposes. The general principle established is, that after a church has incurred any liabilities on the strength of subscriptions, these subscriptions were legally binding. In the case decided the subscription was payment of a church debt, and the court held that the subscriber was bound to pay. A subscription may be withdrawn before there is an indebtedness, but not afterward.

A STATEMENT of the colored population returned at the Census Bureau, makes the aggregate number in all the States and Territories about 4,857,000, being a gain of 9.35 per cent. over 1860. The Southern States stand in the following order in respect to the number of the colored population: Georgia, Virginia, Alabama, Mississippi, South Carolina, North Carolina, Louisiana, Tennessee, Kentucky, Texas, Maryland, Arkansas, Missouri and Florida.

Hon. Reverdy Johnson has written a letter to Senator Bayard, of Delaware, heartily endorsing the Alabama Claims Treaty.

There is a woman in Wisconsin who supports an invalid husband by working a forty-acre farm, and gives $200 a year to help his poor old grandfather.

The Democratic executive committee of Hamilton county, Ohio, endorse the Vallandigham platform, and the Butler county convention ignore it. Happy Democracy!

A sea seal was discovered in the Delaware river, below Burlington, New Jersey, Thursday and driven on the flats by the fishermen and shot. It weighed 500 lbs.

Billy Donnelly and Arthur Chambers, of New York, are matched to fight within two months, for $2,500 a side and the "feather-weight championship of America."

Mr. Bonner has accepted the challenge of the owner of the much talked-of San Francisco horse for a trot, the match to be for $50,000, and to take place at Chicago in June. Probably he will bring out Dexter, although this is not stated.

Speculators propose running a four hundred and fifty feet pier out into the sea at Long Branch, N. J., similar to that at Brighton or at Leels, England, as a fashionable promenade for enthusiastic visitors. Its cost will be $150,000 in gold, and the stock, it is said, is being rapidly taken.

Twenty masked men attempted to rescue two illicit whisky distillers from two United States marshals in Bollinger, Missouri, a few days ago, and fired upon them, wounding one in the leg and arm. The officials returned the fire, put spurs to their horses, and escaped with their prisoners, who were lodged in jail in St. Louis Friday night.

A violent tornado and hail-storm passed over a belt of land one mile wide in New Kent county Va., on Friday. Trees and houses were blown down, and persons in the road knocked senseless by hail stones. Hail was formed in some places nine inches deep. The crops are entirely destroyed. Four years ago exactly a similar tornado passed over the same belt of land.

The young crops all over Iowa and Wisconsin are reported in prime condition. Winter wheat is the best it has been for years. Spring wheat is unusually forward and promising. Corn planting is ten days earlier than usual, and the bulk of the crop in the State will be planted during this week, should the weather keep fair. Fruit proves not to have been very badly damaged by the late April frosts.

The Congressional Committee to investigate the Ku Klux outrages in the South, at a meeting in Washington on Friday appointed a sub-committee of eight, to take testimony during the summer and to report to the full committee on the 20th of September next. The sub-committee is composed of Senators Scott, (Chairman) Poole and Blair, and Representatives Poland, Coburn, Stevenson, Beck and Van Trump.

It has often been reported of late that Minister Bancroft desired to be relieved from his post at Berlin, and several probable successors have been named, but the reference of the San Juan boundary questions to the Emperor of Germany as arbitrator has put a new phase on the Berlin mission, and the President and Mr. Fish, it is now understood, desire Mr. Bancroft to remain, so that the Government may avail itself of his very thorough knowledge of the subject.

Status of the Next General Assembly.

[From The Annapolis Republican.]

Below we give the status of the General Assembly next after the publication of the census of 1870. We say next, because the Governor cannot issue his proclamation, under the Constitution, until the census returns are published by the Washington authorities. It will be seen by the list given below that no county in the State, with the exception of Somerset gains—it having a gain of one delegate while five others, viz: Allegany, Cecil, Frederick, Harford and Washington counties, will each loose one delegate.

The delegations from the Eastern Shore will be the same as under the Constitution of 1867, having gained one in Somerset to make up for the one lost in Cecil. Baltimore city will remain as now, as it is entitled to the same number from each district that the largest county may have, which is six, (see Baltimore county.) The Western Shore counties loose from, viz: Allegany, Frederick, Harford and Washington, one each.
