American Union.

J. H. EMERSON, EDITOR.

DENTON, MARYLAND:

THURSDAY MORNING, MAR. 25, 1880.

The "UNION" is the leading newspaper of the county. It is taken by all the leading Merchants, Professional and business men of the county. It circulates extensively among our farmers and it is the object of the publisher to make it an indispensable necessity in every household.

IT cost Dauphin county, Pa., last year $4,200.44 to support 73 prisoners in the state penitentiary at 24 cents per day. The earnings of these prisoners amounted to $1,313.24. Only three out of the whole number earned more than their cost. A forger and bigamist named Carl has made 80 cents, and Jonathan Waters, formerly member of the South Carolina legislature, has not made a cent since his imprisonment.

BALTIMORE CITY Democratic roughs made a pilgrimage to Annapolis last week, and made things very lively for the members of the Legislature. As they are a prominent element in the Democratic ranks, they desired that their interests should be cared for, and fostered by appropriate legislation. Their bull-dozing propensities received a sudden check, and before some of them were scarcely aware of it, found themselves safely stowed away in a place of safety in Baltimore city.

A CROWD of high-school girls in Harrisburg one day last week had a desire to make their class room smell as if a man was around. To effect their object a package of cigarettes was purchased and a smoking congress instituted. It was not long before they began to feel very repentant, and as sick as if they were "half seas over." A physician was called in, who, by the application of emetics, restored the sufferers to their normal condition, without any wish for another smoking bout.

THAT sleepy, demure and antiquated old town of Annapolis has recently put on fashionable attire, and is about to spring into life. Recently they have had a post office robbery and following closely upon this a reverend colored minister eloped with the wife of one of the deacon's of his church. A few days later a Mr. Mackabee skipped the town, and just before his departure disposed of two houses at $800 each. He too spirited away with him a young lady of that place, leaving behind him a wife, but no children. These doings, with that of the Baltimore city roughs, will entitle this little city on the Severn to be better known to the outside world.

THE Supreme Bench of Baltimore city at a meeting held on Friday last, the matter of placing colored men on juries came up for consideration. It was decided that, in conformity with the recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Judge Cole, colored men have the right to serve as jurors. The Judges then decided, without a dissenting voice, to place the names of twelve respectable colored men among the 750 names of persons whom they are required by law to select as a panel from which to draw the necessary juries for the several courts. Juries will have to be drawn in a few days for one or more of the courts, and it is not unlikely that some of the colored men may be upon them. If such should happen to be the case, it will be the first time in the history of Maryland that a colored man has been a member of a jury in any of the state courts for the trial of either civil or criminal cases.

WHEN the little elephant was born in the Philadelphia circus on Wednesday, the other elephants threw up their trunks and danced around as far as their chains would let them, and altogether raised such a hubbub that the mother became frantic. She picked up the baby with her trunk and threw it about twenty yards across the stable. It fell near a stove. Then Hebe broke her chains with terrific plunge, and followed after the little one. She tore down the railing that was around the stove and gave the stove itself a blow that demolished the pipe. But about this time Stuart Craven, the trainer arrived. The watchman had sent for him in post-haste when the baby was born. Craven came just in time, for under his direction and through the influence of his voice on Hebe, she was quieted and secured with chains again. The other six elephants had become calm again The little elephant measured 35 inches in height, and weighed just 213½ pounds when born. Her trunk is rather stumpy, but in other respects she is perfectly developed.

What the Legislature Has Not Done.

From present indication it seems probable that this session of the Legislature will be distinguished even more by the right things which have been left undone than by the wrong things which have been done. As a general rule the public is not called upon to criticise legislative bodies for not exercising sufficiently their functions as law makers, and is generally only too glad to see their powers for mischief devoted to the comparatively harmless uses of a debating club. But there are occasions when a Legislature ought to legislate and not to talk, and the present session was one of those rare occasions.

The Democratic majority went to Annapolis pledged to do certain things, and to carry out certain specific reforms. It will not be denied in any quarter that the pledges of the Democratic platform represented real popular demands, and related to actual grievances and wrongs. There was every reason, therefore, for the passage of certain well defined public measures which were intimately connected with the general welfare. The people demanded them, the Democratic party had promised them, and it was not reasonable to expect that this demand and this promise would both be utterly ignored.

And yet the session is fast drawing to its close, and all the most important measures of reform are still in the legislative womb, and are more than likely to utterly miscarry. The registration bill, the bill regulating primary elections, the various bills for the abolition of useless offices, the curtailment of unnecessary expenditures, and the sweeping away of hurtful political influences, are still lingering in one or the other of the two houses, and will probably never pass the threshold of the Executive Chamber.

In view of the solemn pledges made in the platform of the Democratic party, this utter failure to carry out its promises is to be regretted more deeply than can be expressed. It is not too much to say, that if the Legislature should adjourn, as now seems only too probable, without the fulfillment of the promises of retrenchment and reform, popular confidence in the Democratic party will have received a serious blow. There is still time enough for the passage of the more important measures of legislation that are demanded, if the Legislature will only recognize and accept the situation. Let us trust that it will do so.—Baltimorean.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our own Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March, 19, 1880.

The reported quarrel between the President and Secretary Sherman is probably made out of whole cloth. Their relations are the best and will probably remain so. It is well to observe the rule that Republican quarrels are manufactured chiefly by Democrats, and have no real foundation. The Republican party have an idea that the present year is to be one of great importance in our history, and they do not propose to friter away every chances by indulging in personal quarrels.

The Election Committee of the Senate have voted to commit as great an outrage as their fellow Democrats proposed but failed to commit in Maine. They will try to steal the seat of Senator Kellogg of Louisiana for Spofford, who claims it simply because he is a Bourbon like the present majority, and because, if possible, they desire to secure control of the Senate for the future. They will find however that Senator Blaine learned something about these things in Maine, and will apply his knowledge in this case, and there are plenty of Republican Senators to help him resist this infamous game.

Captain Eades has been before the Congressional Committee again to tell about his plan for a Ship railway across the Isthmus. He shows over and over again that it is much cheaper than any canal project ever presented. The Committee and members generally are very favorably impressed with Captain Eades showing.

General John B. Hawley's resignation as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury was unexpected. He has not been satisfied with the position, and is likely that his resignation was hastened by the fact that thereby his chances for the nomination for Governor of Illinois may be increased.

The Star route deficiency bill has passed the Senate. It gives the public Printer eleven hundred thousand dollars, which is quite an increase over the amout appropriatedly the house and which will increase the happiness of the contractors accordingly. The Senate does not criticize the action of the Post Master General in increasing the routes to such an extent, neither does it criticize him. But intimates that he must not do so any more.

It is reported here that large numbers of miners and sellers, pending the agreement with the Utes, for surrounding their reservation, and locating claims, to a large extent in their lands. There is danger of collision between the Utes and the Whites, and the Chiefs now here are going home to prevent, if possible such a catastrophe. LEO.

THE Philadelphia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church was deeply agitated last week by the proceedings in the case of the Rev. T. B. Miller and Rev. William Major.—The former was expelled and the latter suspended; but they have taken an appeal to the General Conference, where the whole affair will have to be revied again. These two clergymend had gone into the business of healing bodies, as well as souls, and they managed some sort of a a medical college in Philadelphia. There was some suspicion that the institution was crooked, and a newspaper reporter presented himself at its doors in the guise of a student. To him the reverend officials represented that it was all delusion, that to practice the medical art there was no necessity of study it. For the contemptuously small sum of $25 they issued him a license and a neat little package of tickets testifying to the falsehood that he had attended a full course of lectures. The reporter, of course, was only looking for an item, and he at once "gave away" the college and its managers in the columns of his paper. They deserved to be exposed, and the evidence against them appears to be conclusive; but it would be interesting to know how many of their "graduates" are now bleeding, blistering, dosing and dissection their fellow-beings.

Anxiety for Gen. Grant.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—There is a rumor afloat here to-day that the steamer City of Mexico, on which Gen. Grant is a passenger, has been disabled, and another that she has been lost at sea. The only ground for these rumors seems to be that the City of Mexico is overdue, and that she has not yet been sighted by pilots. She was due at Galveston yesterday. Inquiry at the Executive Mansion and signal office fails to confirm the rumor.

GALVESTON, March 22.—The steamer City of Mexico, with Gen. Grant on board, is not due here until to-day. Gen. Ord, with his staff, and a committee from San Antonio to invite Gen. Grant there, arrived last night. Nothing had been seen of the steamer City of Mexico up to a late hour to night.

The Norwegian bark Reform went ashore yesterday, off this point, with 1,460 bales of cotton on board. The crew was saved. The cargo will be saved in a damaged condition.

Midnight.—Nothing has been heard from the steamer City of Mexico. The agent of the Alexandre line, to which she belongs, arrived from New Orleans Sunday. He says he thinks the captain did not put to sea from Tampico on Saturday, owing to rough weather. He looks for her to-morrow.

The Physical Paradox.

It has been said that "the blood is the source of life." It is as truly the source of disease and death. No life, that is to say, no healthy tissue can be generated from impure blood, no organ of the body can normally perform its functions when supplied with impure blood. The fluid that should carry life and health to every part, carries only weakness and disease. Blood is the source of life, only when it is pure. If it has become diseased, it must be cleansed by proper medication, else every pulsation of the human heart sends a wave of disease through the system. To cleanse the blood of all impurities, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, the most effectual alterative, tonic, and cathartic remedies yet discovered. They are especially efficient in scrofulous diseases.

A CHURCH USED AS A BAR-ROOM.—The Rev. A. B. Dufresne, of Holyoke, Mass., a French Catholic priest, has been compelled by the Collector of Internal Revenue to settle for selling liquor without a license. It was proved that he had four casks of liquor in the basement of the church, in the same room where a juvenile school was held, and several persons are ready to testify that they have bought liquor from him. Dufresne has now fled to Canada, his career in the United States having been very unprofitable. He is the same priest who told his people not to patronize Joseph Parker, a backman, who had displeased him, and so injured his business that Parker recovered $3,400 damages in the Superior Court last fall.

IS IT POSSIBLE that a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such marvelous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

For the Union.

Old Bills.

A lawyer's office may be a queer place to pick up items for study, but in all places, high or low, one can find food for reflection—that is if you are inclined to do so.

I went into an office one day, and on the desk lay a bundle of papers nicely tied up with red tape, and labeled "Bills for Collection."—Well this may not be an unusual occurrence, but we thought how many bills are there outstanding for and against mankind that are not tied with red tape, but will be collected some day with an inexorable hand.

The mechanic and laboring man rushes along driving the man machine to its utmost stretch of strength, toiling in season and out of season, driving the wheels with an extra pulley. He has the name of being a fast workman, it it is his present capital; he drives about at a break neck pace, but there is a bill to be collected of him in the near future. It will not be tied with red tape, but aching bones, broken health, diminished powers of endurance, and who thanks him for his speed. Like an old hound, the days of his triumph are gone, and like the hound, can root or starve as the case may be.

The Bachalanian who can drink his thirty to fifty glasses of a night, then sing, "We won't go home till morning," is fast having a bill which will be collected with an iron hand.—The father of a family who is forever prating about making money, skins his family expenses down to the lowest possible point of selfish economy, stints his household in all of the good and beautiful, grudges a dollar for a book, magazine, newspaper or picture; has nothing but bare blank walls all over the house, has nothing but that which common decency compells him to have, and often not even that.—That father is making a bill which will be collected here, and in the hereafter. Some of it may even be tied up with red tape; some of the items of the collection will be drunkenness, squaller, quarreling and hatred. These things be bequeaths to his posterity as the full crop of his niggardness.

Then there is the man of means and leisure, he walks abroad swinging his big stick in a manner which asks, "Do you know who I am?' He eats of the toil of others, drinks the wine of life, by the sweat of other's faces, exacts the last penny, but feels loth to pay it, drives the sharpest labor bargains, gains all he can, deems himself a model of perfection; yet he has never made one single heart glad, never comforted a single human sorrow, nor relieved any of a load of care. It is a bill that now has not much significance, but for all that it must be paid, and when settling day comes, how fearful the doom. How many bills enlightened man owes; how little do they care for the collection. Alas! a demon must possess mankind greater than that which was driven into the herd of swine. We care naught for values, save that which possesses value in our estimation. The tinsel of human vanity or ambition is of far more value in our eyes than all the gems we so wantonly tread beneath our feet. Bills to be valuable to us must be marked with signs and figures. They only are collectable in our estimation. The divine attributes of our nature are drowned in the sea of selfishness; all else but self is a void; yet, sooner or later, our bills will become due; our notes must be paid with fearful interest added to the principal, and then oh! how we will wish that we had tied up all our bills more carefully with red tape. FARGETTER.

BLAINE is very strong in Michigan. The canvass which the Detroit Post and Tribune has been making among its subscribers foots up: Blaine 3,167, Grant 584, Sherman 64, and Washburn 60.

THE FENCE QUESTION
SOLVED AT LAST!

THE undersigned beg leave to inform land owners and the public generally that they have bought the right to manufacture and sell the

"EMPIRE BARB WIRE FENCE,"

on this Peninsula, and they are now prepared to take orders for and put up the same in any part of the Peninsula. This fence is very extensively used in the West and Southwest by railroads, farmers and stock-growers, and always gives universal satisfaction, because it is the

that can be made—the first cost being no more than white pine board, and it is good for 60 or 75 years. It is in no danger from fire—being composed entirely of Iron and Steel.

Storms nor floods cannot affect it, as it presents so little surface to their force. It affords no shelter for noxious weeds and briars, and will save its cost in in the extra amount of produce grown on the ground that would be taken up by a worm fence or osage hedge. It is a safe fence, there being no danger of

as they frequently are by sharp-ended rails, broken boards, leaning stakes, &c., and the barbs being so short that should they come in contact with our wire it will prick the skin and turn them back without injury. It is reliable, "breachy" ing stock turned in a field enclosed with it will always be found there.

This fence is made of

with a spiral screw, (coated with a preparation to prevent rust,) by which they are screwed in the ground where they are anchored by 20 inch anchors; to the posts we attach steel barb wire, making an indestructible fence.

Orders for fence for fields, yards, gardens, cemeteries, private grave yards, or for other purposes, promptly attended to. We are prepared to put up or sell any wire barbed or plain fence in the market.
