☞The Orphan's Court for Caroline county, will meet Tuesday, July 21st.

A MASS CONVENTION.

In order that all persons may have an opportunity to act in concert in devising ways and means to do away with bribery at elections hereafter in Caroline, a mass convention will be held at the Court House in Denton, on at 10 o'clock A. M., to which every one who loves free speech, a free ballot, and the free chosen representatives of a free people, are invited to be present.

TUESDAY, JULY 21st, 1885,

J. W. BRYANT, JAS. E. HIGNUTT,
THOS. MELVIN, JAS. I. LEDNUM,
URIE TOWNSEND, CHAS. W. BYRN,
WM. H. DOWNES, J. H. EMERSON,
AND MANY OTHERS.

County and Peninsula.

------Wheat threshing has commenced.

------The Fourth passed off quietly in Denton.

------The excursion party from Hillsborough to Cambridge on the fourth we have been informed was a success.

------For Sale—two good New Home Sewing machines can be bought cheap. For particulars apply at THIS OFFICE.

------Look out for Walter H. Thompson & Co's. announcement in our next issue. It was received too late for this week.

------The population of Oxford continues to increase rapidly. A mother in that town gave birth to triplets,—three boys,—a few days ago.

------We have received the first number of the Middletown Transcript under the management of Moreau Bros., and it is fully up to the standard.

------The excursion from this place to Cambridge on Saturday last was financially a success. The best of order prevailed, and every person on board enjoyed the trip.

------We were in error last week when we stated that Messrs. Hynson & Roshy had formed a co-partnership in the shoemaking business. Mr. Roshy was working for Mr. Hynson.

------FOR RENT.—The dwelling-house lately in the occupancy of E. W. Emerson is for rent for the remainder of the year 1885. For particulars apply at once at THIS OFFICE.

------Mr. Jesse Leager, miller at Garey's mill, near town, ground some new wheat on Saturday, July 4th, which gave 40½ pounds first-class flour to the bushel. The wheat was grown by Mr. L. H. Messick.

------Dr. Ridgely has a peach orchard near Dover upwards of thirty years old, which has more fruit this year than any orchard near it. Some growers think that fifty years is not an impossible age for peach trees if properly treated.

------Mr. N. Schaumloeffel, the merchant tailor from Baltimore city, who we stated in our last issue would occupy the front room in the town hall has been disappointed in getting the dwelling house which he expected to occupy, and has decided not to locate in Denton.

------The Federalsburg Courier says: "The colored voters of Dorchester county will demand a mixed ticket of the Republican convention the coming fall, and threaten to put an independent ticket of their own in the field. They poll eighteen hundred out of a total of twenty-five hundred Republican votes in that county."

------The wheat is about all cut, the bulk of the crop being taken down last week. The crop is variously estimated, but the most conservative estimate puts it at three-fourths of last year's yield. Threshing was commenced this week, but the greater part will be put through next week, when more correct estimates can be made.

------In all towns where newspapers are published, every man should advertise, even if nothing more than a card telling his name and place of business in which he is engaged. It not only pays the advertiser, but lets the people at a distance know that the town you reside in has a prosperous class of business men. As the seed is sown so are recompenses. Never pull down the sign while you intend to do business, for it often indicates that your grip, commercially, is broken. The judicious advertiser will receive, in return, ten dollars for every one invested in the columns of a local newspaper.

Oakland Camp-Meeting.

A Greensborough correspondent kindly furnishes us with the proceedings of the meeting of the managers held at Oakland camp-ground on Saturday last. The board of managers met on Saturday, July 4th, and the following persons were appointed a committee on tent sites: Jno. F. Dawson, Jos. Orrell, Thos. H. Jarman and Chas. E. Jarrell. About twenty-five or thirty persons have already indicated a desire for tent sites. The committee will meet on the ground on Monday July 13th, at 3 P. M. All persons desiring to tent should either communicate with some of these gentlemen or be present on the ground July 13th when the committee meets.

The following privileges are to be disposed of: Bread tent, horse pound and two boarding tents. Sealed proposals will be received until 3 P. M. Saturday July 11th, at which time the managers will meet in Greensborough and dispose of said privileges, the managers reserving the right to reject any or all proposals. The proposals can be placed in the hands of Rev. Alfred Smith at any time during the week up until the hour above named.

A Very Much Captured Darkey.

There happened to pass through the lively little village of Marydel, Md., last Saturday, a colored man upon whose forehead some of the natives noticed a scar, and remembering that a certain escaped horse-thief from Centreville jail had a scar on his head, and also remembering the most important part of that escape was a reward of $62.50 for the arrest of that scarry fellow, they put their heads together and resolved to arrest him and go for that $62.50, but the important part was who was to tackle the man. All wanted a share of the reward, but upon close examination of the burly darky no one ventured to lead off and the man passed on quietly toward Templeville. After he was out of sight all hands became courageous and the prospects of that sixty-two fifty worked them up to the point of venturing on an arrest. Mr. Joseph———, Mr. Dave R———, and Danl. H——gave chase, and captured the poor fellow while walking leisurely along the road. As he made no resistance, in fact seemed to rather enjoy the arrest, the spirits of the captors boomed, and they commenced to make calculations of the division of that sixty-two dollars and odd cents. Says Dave, I saw him first so he is my man, but I will give each of you $5 for your help. No, says Dan, we must divide fairly and we will toss up for the odd cent. Joseph all the while getting Mr. prisoner in the carriage intending to slip off with him, but the others were too quick and all hands got in and started towards home with the thief. When on their way they met a colored man named Goldsboro, who is acquainted with the real thief and after looking at their man, pronounced him some body else, so with smking hearts the bold three released their prisoner and went home. But upon arriving at Marydel and explaining matters to the waiting crowd, two of them slipped aside (Jno. Swing and Fred Ross) and resolving that that $62.50 must come to this place, and also that as $31.25 was the exact sum each were short, and that Providence had sent them this chance to make an honest penny and help them out of their difficulties. So they quietly left Marydel in search of the darky who had again started towards Templeville. They overhauled him at about the point of his first capture and boldly shouted "You are my prisoner!" The prisoner who weighs about as much as the combined weights of the captors, said all right "I don't fight agin the law, I'll go with you," but lo! while this conversation was going on up drives Mr. Joe and Mr. Dave who had decided between themselves that they would slip away from Dan and thus the $62.50 could be divided evenly, and that inasmuch as that $31 25 was the exact amount each needed at that very time, and notwithstanding Abe Goldsborough said that this is not the man, yet they felt sure he was in fact, must be the fellow, and they must have the money. But finding him already in the hands of Jno. and Fred who did not seem inclined to give him up, and in whose hands the darky expressed a preference to stay. But a happy thought of Dave's solved the problem. Calling Jno. and Dan aside he promised them each $5 to give up their claim, which on being accepted the prisoner was transferred to the custody of the former captors, who started proudly towards Centrevill. Joe whispered to Dave. "Don't be afraid Dave, I borrowed a revolver before I started and we are safe." Dave answered "that's all right, Joe. I've got an axe helve under the seat; if he gets fractious you just hold him until I get it out. Then I'll knock him down so that you can get good aim, you know you never could hit anything flying, but be very careful when you shoot so as to kill him dead. I've heard that wild animals are just fearful when they are wounded, and think niggers must be the same." But the prisoner was very quiet, as they were taking him just where he wanted to go. He was perfectly happy. On arrival at the Centreville jail, tired, dusty and dry; oh! so very dry. So they hunted up the sheriff and called for the reward. "Which is the prisoner," said the sheriff, and on being pointed out was examined, measured and discharged.

The pair arrived home some time in the night, still dry and minus the reward.

SPECTATOR.

The Peach Prospect.

The Dover Delawarean has this to say of the coming peach crop: "A great deal has been written and said about the peach crop of this peninsula for this year and everybody, us included, predicted a month ago a very large yield. The state of the crop at this time shows the folly of persons talking about that they know but little about. The peach crop of this year will be just about what it was one year ago, and we very little doubt whether it exceeds last year's crop, when the yield was over three million baskets. From Wyoming up the State, east of the railroad, which is one of the great peach growing sections, there is not one-fourth of a crop, and we very much doubt if there is a third of a crop west of the railroad from the same point north of this State. South of Wyoming and around Wyoming there may be two-thirds of a crop of peaches but not more than that. From this statement, which we believe represents the true state of the peach crop, any person at all who is acquainted with the peach growing sections can but know that the crop will be short this season. Up to the middle of May the trees in every section of the State where peaches are grown were full, but a frost and easterly winds, in conjunction with the June dropping, left but a small crop of peaches, when compared with the prospects up to the middle or last of May.

A Summer Song in Sections.

JUST AS IT IS.

Now the wealthy merchant weareth,
On his head a common straw,
While his junior clerk appeareth
In a nobby mackinaw.

HIT HIM WITH A BRICK.

Now the sun his furnace fireth,
Causing human flesh to stew,
And the summer fiend inquireth,
"Is this hot enough for you?"

"SOME OF THE SAME OLD BRAND."

Now the customer who winketh,
As the druggist's eye meets his,
Shows he something stronger drinketh
Than the ordinary fizz.

HE NEVER SLEEPS.

Now the patent mower waketh
Sleepers from their peaceful rest,
E're the golden morning breaketh
Or the robin leaves his nest.

THE DECEITFUL HUSBAND.

Now the festive husband sendeth
To the beach his trusting wife;
While she's absent he pretendeth
His will be a lonely life.
Tearfully with her he parteth;
Gladly he would go but can't—
When she's gone, he gayly starteth
Out to see the elephant.

The "Salvation Army" Arrives.

The salvation army—or it may be better to say a "division" of the salvation army—reached Chestertown last Wednesday and commenced operations. It consisted of a man—an able-bodied individual with black whiskers, and rather gawky mien, notwithstanding his helmet cap and lettered uniform—and a young woman plainly dressed, represented to be the wife of the former. The man gave his name as Flannan. The two perambulated the streets during the afternoon, stopping at various points to sing and exhort; at one place they met with success: a colored woman listened to their piteous wailings and let them "pray" with her—with what effect we have not heard. About sundown the pair marched down the main street singing—the woman keeping time with her tambourine and the man wildly gesticulating with his long arms; a halt was called in front of the market house and a crowd soon gathered to see the show. The man prayed and exhorted and the woman prayed and sung and "preached" and the tambourine was industriously circulated by the former to gather up the pennies. The whole performance wound up in about an hour, and the army moved upon one of the churches where religious services were being held, but they were very properly refused admittance. Day and night since the two have paraded the streets peddling "Salvation army" literature and holding "service" wherever they could attract the attention of passers by. Solemnly marching down Main street now and then they would halt, kneel down and offer wailing cries for the salvation of the benighted sinners of Chestertown; then followed an effort at singing—the woman making out pretty well in that line, but the man is the most wretched apology for a "singist" imaginable. A little space about the pair they would keep clear of the crowd and appeal to the "saved" to enter this "blood and fire circle" and relate their experience. The collections from the evening crowds gathered around them have not been encouraging—the first night it was thirty-two cents and the second nearly seventy cents, which the man said was far short of expenses. Various opinions are expressed as to the character of these people, the general conclusion being that they are after an easy way to make a living. Their pretentions and "efforts" are a mockery of religion and simply disgust sensible people.—Kent News.

Something for Young Men.

Young man, stop for a moment; did you ever think how much trouble, heartaches and pain your mother has undergone in order to bring you up to manhood? Did you never think how hard it was for her to attend to her other work and keep you from crawling into the fire, or from falling out the door and breaking your neck? Did you never think how, in days gone by, she has watched by your bedside through the long weary hours of the night for, perhaps, weeks at a time, when that little body was racked with disease of one kind or another? How she has watched your growth from babyhood to youth, and from youth to manhood? Did you never think what she has suffered, how she has toiled and toiled to give you a fair education? How she has toiled to bring you up as a gentleman?

Young man look back upon your past life and think how that poor old mother must have studied, toiled, inched and pinched, so as to make of you a respectable young man. Young man you have reached the stage of manhood; you have reached a point in life where you will need all those early instructions; who gave you those early instructions? Did your father impress upon your youthful mind the large amount of sorrow, degradation, shame and misery that is brought about by the use of intoxicating liquor? Did the doctor give you them? No. Who nursed you when you were upon your deathbed? Was it your father? No. Who was it? It was that mother, who, when you were small, you would wish to go a swimming, would tell you that she did not want you to go, for fear you would be drowned. You would then, in your heart say "If I had not said anything to her, I might have gone." Young man, if you have not done by your mother as you should have done, when she is gone never to return, you will regret that you did not treat her just as you should have done; all your ill treatment of her will return upon you and make you miserable indeed.

Young men take care of your mothers; they have cared for you from babyhood to youth; now it is your duty to care for them. The real lady who would select a man for a protector and companion in life, will not select one who does not try to take care of his mother. The Bible says: "Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

Conventions Fashionable.

It is noticeable that year after year annual conventions of men and women engaged in the various departments of life come more and more into fashion. And it is a good sign. The apparent purpose of these conventions is the reading and discussing the papers upon topics of importance bearing upon the department in which the members of the convention have a common interest. But the chief good of these meetings does not lie in this, for the papers might be printed—and they generally are—thus giving the members a better opportunity to be instructed than the mere reading can afford. The great benefit is derived from the contact of the specialist with many men of many ideas upon the same general subject. In friendly, social chat he discusses with all of his confreres the particular subject which has been engrossing his attention, and receives from each some additional suggestion, so that he goes away with richer and broader information than when he came. Besides, it stimulates his energy, and makes him feel more contented. For, at home, he is in constant contact with people who take but a general interest in the results of his work, and have no interest or information about its details. Here in convention he meets men who have an interest equal to his in all that he has done and proposes to do, and it spurs him on to brilliant achievement. The annual convention is certainly an important factor in nineteenth century progress.

Children grow up fat when fed on bread and biscuits made with Drew's Yeast Powder. may21-4w

To some children the bare suggestion of a dose of castor oil is nauseating. Why not, then, when physic is necessary for the little ones, use Ayer's Cathartic Pills? They combine every essential and valuable principle of a cathartic medicine, and being sugar-coated are easily taken.

Almost every person has some form of scrofulous poison latent in his veins. When this develops in scrofulous sores, ulcers, or eruptions, or takes the form of rheumatism, or organic diseases, the suffering that ensues is terrible beyond description. Hence the gratitude of those who discover, as thousands yearly do, that Ayer's Sarsaparilla will thoroughly eradicate this evil from the system.

AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs; none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.

"In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and am satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved me.
HORACE FAIRBROTHER."
Rockingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.

Croup.—A Mother's Tribute.

"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the CHERRY PECTORAL had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours,
MRS. EMMA GEDNEY."
159 West 128th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to pronounce it the most effectual remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried. A. J. CRANE."
Lake Crystal, Minn., March 13, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. JOSEPH WALDEN."
Byhalia, Miss., April 5, 1882.

"I cannot say enough in praise of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, believing as I do that but for its use I should long since have died from lung troubles. E. BRAGDON."
Palestine, Texas, April 22, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.
