American Union

E. W. EMERSON, Editor.

DENTON, MARYLAND.

THURSDAY MORNING, AUG. 27, 1885.

A Change in the Union.

With this issue the present management of the UNION ceases. It passes into the control of other hands, and it will be the aim of the new editor to put more vigor and life into it. In a political view, the UNION will remain the same as in the past; that is, devoted to the interests of the Republican party. With pluck, energy and intelligent management on the part of the incoming editor, the UNION will maintain its former elevated position in journalism.

THE Baltimore Morning Herald is now occupying its new building at the southeast corner of Charles and Baltimore Sts.

ALL wealth has its first origin in the ground, and the cheering prospects for the crops lends encouragement to all circles in business. There is a demand abroad for American stocks, which shows that the confidence in the improved outlook is not confined to this country.

THREE hundred thousand sets of the Grant Memoirs, it is said, have already been ordered. Mrs. Grant is to receive seventy-five per cent. of the profit from sales in this country and eighty-five per cent. of the gain on sales abroad. Evidently the General's last work for his family is to be well compensated.

IN an editorial upon the camp meeting the New York Sun remarks "the impression that this American institution is losing its grip on popular favor is erroneous.' No such impression could have been entertained for a moment by anyone acquainted with the facts in regard to the campmeeting in this part of the land. Never was the interest greater, the attendance larger, or the results, according to the reports, more satisfactory in Maryland than during this season.

THE Hartford Courant has found a new usefulness in summer vacations and ascribe the benefits derived from them to a theory not very general in its acceptance, if, indeed, it is considered at all. It says: People often survive the summer campaign. There is a theory that we should all live longer and healthier if had more hardships, rougher living, and less comfort. The summer trip in its effects goes far to confirm this cruel notion. Exertion is called for, endurance is stimulated, easy-going people are aroused and knocked about, and in that way they get very often a real benefit. But the very things that benefit them are the things that they spend their time grumbling about. They take their benefit as they take their meals—because they have to, but realizing that they would scorn it at home.

THE Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune makes quite a formidable showing of absent marks against the heads of departments at Washington, who go off on junketting expeditions, that make an excuse of making an investigation to cover up their tracks. The present plain Democrat and his cabinet are no more averse to the use of "special cars" and are not above traveling without returning any cash, remunerative to railroad companies than any of their predecessors. What a howl was raised in all the Democratic papers if a Republican President engaged in a pleasure trip, but these same papers have nothing to say of the prolific development of the same vice under Democratic rule. Bayard and Endicott can dead-head it through the West in spcial cars without extorting a single protest from those virtuous Democratic sheets that saw so much sin in the same action under a Republican administration. It makes a greit difference which leg the boot is on after all.

IT IS pretty generally conceded now that although there will be some decrease in the wheat crop—how great may be the injury is very differently estimated—the falling off will be more than made up by the increase in the corn crop. It is a magnificent one, and will in all probability exceed last year's enormous yield by 100,000,000 bushels. There has been an increase in acreage of 6 per cent. as compared with last year, and of over 8 per cent. as compared with 1883, and the condition of the crop is excellent, the average, by a recent report, being 94 per cent. for the whole United States, as against 96 per cent. in 1884 and 88 in 1883. How great is the interest now taken in corn is shown by the figures of the acreage, the total in 1883 having been 68,302,000 acres, while this year no less than 73,864,000 acres were devoted to this crop. The South reaps this year a great deal of benefit from this crop, its share of the increase being estimated at fifty millions of bushels over the yield last year, while its increased yield of cotton is put down at from one to one and a-half million bales, end its crops of tobacco, fruits and vegetables were never surpassed. The rice crop, too, is a splendid one, and the sugar more productive than last year, as prices are better and the cost of production has been less.

SECRETARY WHITNEY has finally settled down to a business-like consideration of the complications with John Roach, and a compromise has been effected whereby the government will nominally take possession of the three cruisers and be responsible for their completion; but practically the assigners are to do the work, employing plant and workmen and acting as the agents of the navy department. The cruisers are to be finished on the precise terms of the contracts which have been declared forfeited, and since the government has taken charge of the work, there can be no question in regard to their acceptance. If the work remaining to be done costs more than the balance to which Mr. Roach would have been entitled under his contracts, the bondsmen are to be held responsible for the deficiency. But careful estimates made by experts on both sides prove that this will not be the case. The vessels can be finished for $274,000, and the assignees are entitled to receive $378,000, exclusive of the amounts still outstanding for work already done. This arrangement, be it remembered, is reached under the contract between Mr. Roach and the government, which, in effect, the attorney-general said did not exist. Perhaps the whole matter has been creditable to the administration, but we opine that a vast majority of the American people will think differently.

Business will Improve.

Every evidence of returning good times will be heartily greeted by everybody, and every rift in the dark cloud that overhangs the business sky will be looked upon as a precursor of better times to follow. So far to our eye there is scarcely a ray of the long wished for change, but our exchanges occasionally speak of the signs of a business revival that we devoutly hope will come soon.

The cotton crop is said to be the largest ever grown. The grain reports are much improved, especially in the Northwest. Corn promises to be the largest crop ever grown. Oats promise to exceed the crop of last year, when the crop was the largest ever known. The yield of wheat this year will be about 375,000,000 bushels, which with the large balance remaining of last year's crop, will considerably exceed the probable demand.

The Philadelphia Record says there is much less hesitation to do business from the fear of a further depression in values or the unexpected development of conditions unfavorable to the healthful progress of the trade. The New Orleans Picayune says a growing conviction of better times near at hand has caused increased buying in all lines, and preparations for a brisk trade are noticeable on all sides. The Baltimore American says there is every prospect of a healthy fall trade, and business merchants generally feel much encouraged over the outlook. A more confident feeling pervades the market than at any time within the last three years, and a marked improvement is noticeable. The Memphis Appeal says there is a rift in the cloud and the fall trade is likely to open encouragingly. "Here in the South all signs are that way, and the feeling in all trade centres is one of confidence."

The Philadelphia Evening Call, in noting the rapid extension of a spirit of confidence and the preparations that are being made for a revival of trade activity, says it is quite remarkable that all these signs of improvement should occur in midsummer and amid intense heat, but admits that such has been the fact. A large number of business men talk in the same strain, and at least lead us to hope that what they predict will be a reality. Should these predictions come true, none would greet them with a heartier welcome than the thousands of unemployed laborers in all sections of the country. Let the rift in the dark cloud grow wider.

Three Thieves Whipped.

AN INDIANA FARMER AND HIS PLUCKY WIFE PUNISH A TRIO OF TRAMPS.

A farmer named Noah Lockabill, residing near Brown's Valley, Ind., his residence was entered on Sunday night, and he being awakened by three tramps, sprang from his bed and closed with the one in the room. The burglar was reinforced by two others. Mr. Lockabill is a powerful man, and flung the captured burglar against the two others in such a manner as to bring the three to the floor. Then he went at them with a club. His wife brought the clothes line, and together they bound the tramps, sat down, and waited for them to recover. When the tramps regained consciousness, Mr. Lockabill asked them which they preferred—to be taken to Crawfordville and be placed in jail, where they stood the chance of several years in the penitentiary, or to be led out, one at a time, and receive such a whipping as he would administer. They chose the latter, and the farmer took them out severally, tied them to the gate post, and administered one hundred lashes to each tramp with a large new rawhide wagon whip. Each stroke of the whip raised a huge welt on the back of the tramp, and, when the operation was completed, a pool of blood could be seen where they stood. The piteous cries for mercy called in the neighbors, until quite a little audience had assembled to witness the castigation of tramp number three. As all sympathized with the irate farmer; the performance went on till he had completed the hundred lashes.

The Silver Question.

The expediency of the discontinuance of the coinage of silver is being discussed in various quarters. It is folly to go on coining money and then pile it up in the vaults of the treasury, as it thus becomes so much dead capital, producing no interest and promoting no enterprise. The coinage should be regulated so as to merely meet the demands of the people for that kind of currency. The application of a little business sense to the matter would soon settle it properly. There should be a reasonable amount of silver coined to supply the demand for change by the government. A law, making such provision, should be enacted without difficulty. The attempt to demonetize silver should meet with general execration. No greater folly could be committed. No deadlier blow could be aimed at the interests of the people. As well might a merchant bury half of his wealth in the earth as for Congress to enact that gold coin alone should constitute a legal tender in the payment of debts. Such an act would bankrupt one-half the business men of our country. It would render labor cheap and money dear—thus making the poor poorer and the rich richer. The persons who cannot understand this are blind indeed.

Beer Against Whiskey.

For some years a decided inclination has been apparent all over the country to give up the use of whiskey and other strong alcohols, using as a substitute beer and other compounds. This is evidently founded on the idea that beer is not harmful, and contains a large amount of nutriment; also that bitters may have some medical quality which will neutralize the alcohol which it conceals, &c. These theories are without confirmation in the observation of physicians.

The use of beer is found to produce a species of degeneration of all the organs; profound and deceptive fatty deposits, diminished circulation, conditions of congestion and perversion of functual activities, local inflammations of both the liver and kidneys, are constantly present. Intellectually, a stupor amounting almost to paralysis arrest the reason, changing all the higher faculties into a mere animalism, sensual, selfish, sluggish, varied only with paroxysms of anger that are senseless and brutal. In appearance the beer drinker may be the picture of health, but in reality he is most incapable of resisting disease. A slight injury, a severe cold, or a shock to the body or mind, will commonly provoke acute disease ending fatally.

Compared with inebriates who use different kinds of alcohol, he is more incurable and more generally diseased. The constant use of beer every day gives the system no recuperation, but steadily lowers the vital forces. It is our observation that beer drinking in this country produces the very lowest kind of inebriety, closely allied to criminal insanity. The most dangerous class of ruffians in our large cities are beer drinkers.

Recourse to beer as a substitute for other forms of alcohol merely increases the danger and fatality.—Scientific American.

Geraniums as Winter Flowers.

Now is the time for making geranium cuttings for winter flowering. Young shoots are the best for propagation. Cut the pieces just below a leaf; put them in boxes or flower-pots, placing a bit of potsherd just under each slip. Set the pots and boxes in a shady place and keep the earth moist. Large slips will root just as well as small ones. Care must be taken, however, when large slips are cut to choose well-formed pieces, else the plants will be awkward-looking. Any good earth is suitable for the slips, but be sure to have a little charcoal or bits of potsherds in the bottom of the pots or boxes for drainage. Cut the slips in the morning before the sun has touched them or in the cool of the evening. Use a sharp knife and make a clean cut. If there be uncertainty as to how many leaves ought to be removed, a safe plan is to take a pair of scissors and cut off half of each leaf, following its contour, and for small slips let two entire leaves at the top remain. From a scarlet geranium with two shoots, each about eight inches long, set in the ground in spring, I took 20 cuttings, all of which were thrifty bloomers. In two seasons there were in all 60 pots of plants obtained from the single stock. I never throw away a piece of geranium, but plant it, no matter how small or stumpy it is. In this way any one may have as many plants as are needed for bedding, besides being able to give many away to friends who have neither the time nor inclination for proagating them. Large geraniums may be put away in the cellar, planted in boxes. They must be taken to the light in the early spring so that they may be in fit condition for setting out of doors after frost is over. If there is room in the house the tall plants will be a pleasant adjunct, with their trusses of red, pink or white flowers. But geraniums must have sun at least half the day, so a northwest window will not be suitable for their well-being.

BIGGEST RAINFALL SINCE NOAH DIED.—The consul of the United States at Canton reports to the Department of State extraordinary rainfalls and consequent floods along the tributaries and valleys of the Canton river, causing inundations of large tracts of country above and about canton. Rice fields are so flooded as to give the appearance of lakes fifteen miles in width, and the rice crop is greatly damaged. Measures for the relief of the poor have been adopted by the wealthy, but great suffering exists. The rainfall in twenty-four hours was 10.22 inches.

J. Wagner, Esq., Springfield, Va., says in the year 1883 he used Powell's Prepared Chemicals for wheat, and harvested double the quantity where he used it to where he used none, and would advise all who use fertilizers to try it. Powell's Prepared Chemicals, cost only $6.00 per bbl., a sufficient quantity to make one-half ton of complete fertilizer. Brown Chemical Co., manuf's, Baltimore, Md.

WARREN LELAND,

whom everybody knows as the successful manager of the Largest Hotel Enterprises

of America, says that while a passenger from New York on board a ship going around Cape Horn, in the early days of emigration to California, he learned that one of the officers of the vessel had cured himself, during the voyage, of an obstinate disease by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Since then Mr. LELAND has recommended AYER'S SARSAPARILLA in many similar cases, and he has never yet heard of its failure to effect a radical cure.

Some years ago one of Mr. LELAND'S farm laborers bruised his leg. Owing to the bad state of his blood, an ugly scrofulous swelling or lump appeared on the injured limb. Horrible itching of the skin, with burning and darting pains through the lump, made life almost intolerable. The leg became enormously enlarged, and running ulcers formed, discharging great quantities of extremely offensive matter. No treatment was of any avail until the man, by Mr. LELAND'S direction, was supplied with AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, which allayed the pain and irritation, healed the sores, removed the swelling, and completely restored the limb to use.

Mr. LELAND has personally used for Rheumatism, with entire success; and, after careful observation, declares that, in his belief, there is no medicine in the world equal to it for the cure of Liver Disorders, Gout, the effects of high living, Salt Rheum, Sores, Eruptions, and all the various forms of blood diseases.

We have Mr. LELAND'S permission to invite all who may desire further evidence in regard to the extraordinary curative powers of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to see him personally either at his mammoth Ocean Hotel, Long Branch, or at the popular Leland Hotel, Broadway, 27th and 28th Streets, New York.

Mr. LELAND'S extensive knowledge of the good done by this unequalled eradicator of blood poisons enables him to give inquirers much valuable information.
