.....The Centreville Record says that Benjamin T. Biggs will market over $50,000 of peaches this season.

.....James Tucker's store and dwelling at Wright's Corner, Md., was burned August 31st. The loss on goods alone is $1,400.

.....A Smyrna manufacturer is said to be paying a rent of $275 a year for property that a few years ago cost the owner only $205.

.....Rev. John France, of Smyrna, circuit has been appointed presiding elder of Easton district, vice J. H. Caldwell, D. D., resigned.

.....A lawyer and his wife constitute a law firm in Dubuque, Iowa, and the wife is the senior member. Dover, Del., has a like legal firm.

.....Andrew Johnson, of Ingleside, Md., is said to have picked sixteen baskets of the Moore's variety of marketable peaches from one tree.

.....Mr. W. E. Flemming, a gentleman of high esteem and good business qualifications, has been confined to his bed for nearly five weeks without much hope of his recovery.

.....Queen Anne's Station is a great centre of attraction for many northern and western speculators in fruit. On the average from 3,000 to 4,000 baskets have been shipped from there daily.

.....A young lady fruit shipper from Goldsboro', made a shipment of peaches to New York this week, which netted her $1.53 per basket. The fruit was sold at the commission house of L. Shanley Davis, Esq.

.....The Preacher's Association of Dover District met at Harrington yesterday. Quite an interesting programme has been prepared, in which a number of talented ministers take part. A report of the proceedings will be given next week.

.....Zebulon Layton, a young farmer residing near Burrsville, met with quite a serious accident a few days ago. He was plowing with a young horse, which, becoming frightened, snatched him forward suddenly, causing him to suffer with hemorrhages ever since.

.....A number of privileges at the Cecil county fair were put up at auction last week, and in the aggregate brought eleven hundred dollars. There are other privileges yet to be sold, and the managers expect to realize from this source seventeen hundred dollars or more.

.....H. S. Anthony received on Saturday morning $14 for a forty-eight quart crate of peaches. They were the Reeve's variety, twelve gallon baskets in the crate and fourteen peaches in each basket, or 168 peaches in the crate. This is 8⅓ cts. for each peach. They were sold in New York market and grown near Smyrna.

.....Mrs. Eliza Beaston, widow of the late Mr. Thos. Beaston, died at her residence in Easton last Saturday night. She was 82 years old, and had been an exemplary member of the M. E. Church for over 60 years. She retained her mental faculties up to a short time before her death, and died apparently of old age. She was a very amiable old lady, and highly esteemed by all who knew her. —Easton Star.

.....Mr. Elwood Patchett, editor of the Easton Independent, was married last week in Philadelphia to Miss Susie Stack of Easton. Like a great many men, having played the part of a bachelor, he has done more or less sewing; but having taken a wise course he will now patch it no longer. Our best wishes.

.....A game base ball was played between the Nanticoke's of Federalsburg and the Ricard's club of Greenwood, Del., which resulted in an easy victory for the Greenwood club. The F. boys have made a poor showing this season. Don't suppose they could beat the "Possum Holler" team.

.....Sam" Wilson, the colored dude of Easton, recently raised a row on board an excursion steamer going to Baltimore. Armed with an axe, the ruffian made an attack on "Ned" Raisin; but Raisin was armed with a revolver and soon disarmed his adversary by shooting him in both of his wings. A third bullet struck Wilson's forehead, but glanced off and went through a two inch oak board.

.....Judge Charles F. Holland of the First Judicial district of Maryland was nominated by the Democrats on Tuesday of last week at Cambridge by a unanimous vote. The convention had met at Ocean City August 14 and after 134 ineffectual ballots adjourned to meet as stated above. The delegates present at the last meeting seemed to favor the re-election of Senator Gorman and Governor Lloyd, but no resolution saying so was passed.

A Timely Suggestion.

One of our prominent physicians remarked the other day that he "should let his beard grow until after the election;" whereupon a Republican bystander suggested that "he would need it, for it would be a cold time for democracy." To this another gentleman of Democratic religion dissented remarking "that he could see no such need." But the doctor sees wisdom in it, and is letting his beard still grow.

Suicide of S. J. Tarbutton.

Mr. Samuel J. Tarbutton, formerly of Henderson, this county, but for some time past has been keeping a small store near Easton depot, committed suicide early on Morning last. The Easton Star says, "the circumstances show that he cut his throat while standing in front of a looking glass; afterwards went into an adjoining room, and was found prostrated on the floor with knife in hand. An empty laudanum bottle was found in the room where the deed was perpetrated. A purse was found in his trunk containing $32.00."

Democrats in Convention.

Pursuant to a call of the chairman, Dr. Thos. Holt, the delegates elected at the democratic primaries, with the exception of a few, assembled in the court house on Tuesday last, at 2:30 P. M.

The meeting was called to order by Dr. Holt, who briefly stated that the object of the convention was to nominate a candidate for the House of Delegates to fill the position made vacant by the resignation of Col. Downes. His resignation was read and accepted. After calling of the roll, Mr. Jas. C. Horsey put in nomination Mr. E. C. Fields, but his name was withdrawn. Mr. Jas. H. Douglass was nominated by R. Y. Collins, and his nomination made unanimous.

The Hop on Tuesday Evening.

The most pleasant and decidedly the most fashionable hop of the season took place in Masonic hall on Tuesday evening last. Notwithstanding the novel sermon on Sabbath evening last by Rev. T. O. Ayres in which he denounces the hop and slurs the participants therein, a large portion of the beauty, intelligence and high standing citizens of our own town and vicinity, and others from adjoining towns, Greensborough, Ridgely and East New Market, presented themselves in a most admirable display. Everything passed off pleasantly with nothing to mar the happiness of any. The music was not to be surpassed and hardly to be equalled, After lunch and refreshments at 12 o'clock, the dancing was continued until about 3 o'clock Wednesday morning, when the happy participants went on their way rejoicing.

"Money vs. Merit."

MR. EDITOR:—Under the above caption, there appeared in the last issue of the Journal what purported to be a conversation or colloquy between a staunch democrat and an enthusiastic republican, who are intimate personal friends. Their talk appeared to be confidential in its character, according to its showing of the above named paper.

Now if any such colloquy occurred at the time and place named, the Journal convicts its representative of being an ill-mannered boor, sneaking around and leaning against hitching posts and shade trees, with one ear cocked forward to catch the confidential utterances of gentlemen for publication. If no such conversation took place, then the Journal man l——, well, printed something that was not exactly true. Which way will the Journal have it? INDEPENDENT.

Dollars Against Brains.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION DISCUSSED, CUSSED AND RE-CUSSED.

At this stage of county politics, it is not an unusual scene to behold little squads of three or four politicians standing in the middle of the road in order to consult, insult, &c., in regard to the position of the two great political factors. A squad was on duty the other day which was composed of one Republican, one anti-bribery man, and one Democrat, at which time the following conversation took place which may be of some interest to some, and for which the anti-bribery man is responsible:

Mr. R.—"Well, Mr. D., I see that Mr. Downes has thrown up the sponge and come down. What does all this mean?"

Mr. D.—"I think his reasons are fully set forth in his letter to Dr. Holt. His business relations and engagements compel him to decline."

Mr. R.—"Now, coming down to facts, is the reason of his refusal to serve because he thinks Gorman hasn't the influence to secure him the position he was seeking, or is it because he is afraid he'll lose that $1200 he pledged?"

Mr. D.—"True, it is, that it does appear as though Gorman's influence at the re-count up North had lost all its virtue. For one thing is certain, he counted a great deal better, and with more effect at New York, than he has so far done at Washington. There he has only counted in Higgins, and they came near counting him out. I reckon Downes sees the drift of things."

Mr. R.—"Then you think Mr. Downes has obeyed the scriptural injunction: 'A prudent man forseeth the evil, and hideth himself; but the foolish pass on and are punished?'"

Mr. D.—"Well, I guess he'll not lose anything by it, but the ticket has lost its back-bone, and $1200 for election purposes besides. This is all confidential, for if Downes knew it he'd cuss me like the d——l."

Mr. R.—"Why, certainly."

Mr. Anti-Bribery—"Well, Mr. D., what do you mean when you say the democrat ticket ticket has lost $1200?"

Mr. D.—"I mean, sir, that the party will have $1200 less to use for the purpose of buying votes."

Mr. Anti-Bribery—"Then, sir, notwithstanding the wish and feelings of the great majority of the people, including many of intelligence and of religious inclinations, who are opposed to bribery, you propose to follow the disgraceful practice with renewed energy. Considering the height of intelligence to which our citizens have attained and the enviable reputation of Caroline county, it is high time that the unutterable practice should taint us no longer. The result of the coming election is of too much importance for this county to be sold for a mess of pottage. Youth, manhood and old age should no longer be bought, thereby robbing them of their strength, liberty and inner manhood."

Mr. D.—"Well now Mr. Anti-bribery, that sounds pretty well; you fellows want office too cheap; if you get an office these days, you have to put up the cash and run the risk."

Mr. R.—"Mr. Democrat, how much money do you folks propose to put up this fall? and of course this is all just between us."

Mr. D.—"I don't know exactly. Gorman is looking after our legislative ticket and he will send us over some; Gadd can raise more now than he could before. He will put in $2,500; J. Y. Graham has pledged $500, and others in proportion. We have gone right square into the fight to win and for no other purpose; and, as 'money makes the mare go,' we expect to elect every man on the ticket, including little Eli. It is likely that Jim Douglass will take Downes' place, and it is said he will put in $1,000."

Mr. Anti-bribery—"The time is fast approaching when ——"

Mr. R.—"Hold on, now Mr. Anti-bribery, I have got the floor. The plan and purpose of the democratic party as enunciated by Mr. D. demand the suppression and bitter enmity of all true citizens of this county. Nature demands, intelligence and morality cry out for it. The Republicans propose to run this campaign on business principles and win the election on the merit and virtue of the pure and great principles of that party which saved the Union of these United States, and which secured the emancipation of nearly four millions of slaves; placed them on a human foundation, and gave them the right of electoral franchise. The partial ticket, as suggested by the Journal last week, is composed of good men and true, but on the 22d next, a ticket will be nominated that will take the wind out of the democratic sails. Now, Mr. Democrat, there is not money enough in Caroline county to elect some of the men on your ticket. Can you for one moment imagine that the people of Caroline, regardless of political inclinations, have no more discretion than to submit the management and control of our county finances to the hands of the the majority of the nominees for County Commissioners on your ticket? Men who have made shipwrecks of their own lives financially; are not freeholders, and who say to their creditors, "make your money if you can." Now, Mr. Democrat, will our citizens support for the office of sheriff a man who is pursued by our sheriff for the satisfaction of execution after execution. Let me advise you to instruct your friend not to waste time in making predictions as to the probable candidate on our side of the house, but recommend the withdrawal of all your nominees, nominate another ticket or none at all; then all will be right."

Mr D.—"Well now, Mr. Republican, I believe thou almost persuadest me to be a Republican. Good-bye."

Mr. R.—"Good-bye, sir"

Mr. J. B. Rich, of South Jersey News Haddonfield, N. J., paid us a visit this week.

Dancing.

At the M. E. Church, on Sunday evening, Rev. T. O. Eyers, preached to a large congregation on dancing; text, Ecc. 3 chap. 4 verse. Among other things he said that the word dancing, with its various endings, occurred in the Bible about twenty-five times; that its association determined its character whether religious or wicked; that the religious dance is extinct, having passed away with the rites and ceremonies of Judeaism. All religions, save the Christain, are either absolute or spirious. As the wicked dance is not quoted in justification, all who rest dancing on Bible authority must go back to Judeaism, or over to Heathenism; for the New Testiment contains but three references to the subject: First, "We have piped unto you and you have not danced," Math. 11-17; second, "the dance of Herodeas," Math. 14-6; and third, "the return of the Prodigal son," Luke 15-25. All these cases were either Jewish or Heathen, having occurred before the death of Christ, and the formation of the Christian church.

All Christian churches of to-day are silent on the subject or condemn it The religious dance of the Old Testiment signified "to leap for joy." The Methodist revival, when the people shouted for joy, came nearest to the religious dance of the Old Testiment of anything in modern times. The dance was purely religious. The modern, never so. In the religious, the sexs never dance together; in the modern, they never dance apart. Seperate the sexs and the modern dance ends.

He refered to the case of Herodias' daughter when she danced before Herod, as an instance in which dancing and drunkenness resulted in the murder of John the Baptist, and that it is not the only instance in which drunkenness and dancing have been a like terminator. He read extracts from Dr. Nast and Clack, Crane's Essays, Chambers, Mc Coy and Olliver's Cyclopedia of Free Masonery, which condemns in severe terms the modern dance. He stated that he had made great effort for authorities on the subject, but had only had found one, which was written by a young lady, and even in this, the fair authoress exhausts her vocabulary of adjectives in condemning the "Boston Dip" and all kindred dances. He then refered to stage dances as being highly demarlizing, etc.

He inquired: What eminent devine or Statesmen, approved of or indulged in the modern dance. Dancing is distructive to godliness. "I have never known a person, devoted to dancing, noted for piety." The speaker also said while many reputable people dance, it is nevertheless a fact that the modern dance is largely under the patronage of the spiritual and intellectual half caste, on the one hand, and the vicious and abandoned on the other, and that the men of today, who are prominent in literary and scientific circles, and in the learned professions, are not patrons of ball room and the dance. The sermon contained many original ideas and reflects credit upon the pastor.

Mr. Simeon West, of Baltimore Custom House, is again home on a visit to his friends in Caroline. Notwithstanding civil service reform and the current affairs, he is in as good humor as ever. He has a leave of absence for twenty-eight days, but the probabilities are that by that time Grover will extend it sine die.

Selmar Myer, of Philadelphia, who some mouths ago made himself popular with some of our citizens by the rendering of his original and laughable "cat-song" and other entertaining music, will be in Dover during the coming State fair with a choice selection of the Kranick & Bach pianos. If you want a piano, go see him; if you don't want a piano, go hear the "cat song."

Republican Nominees in Talbot.

The Republican Nominating Convention of Talbot Co., met in Easton, on Tuesday last. It is regarded as the strongest ticket nominated for many years. The nominees are all influential men and of records unimpeactable. Among others on the ticket, we notice the name of Leonidas Dodson; he is well known as a cometent, reliable and most excellent officer, and if elected will fill the clerks office with dignity and credit to the citizens of Talbot Co.

OBITUARY.

LINES ON THE DEATH OF TWO SISTERS, EVA AND EMMA MOWBRAY, WHO DEPARTED THIS LIFE JULY 10TH AND 17TH, 1885.

Just bloomed to womanhood
And promised long to live,
The white-winged angel waiting stood,
The summons them to give.

But all was right with them,
Their hearts to Christ was given;
Their bodies though the grave did claim
Their souls prepared for Heaven.

Twin sisters they were born,
And always lived the same;
Their spirits richly were adorned,
Sweet music each could claim.

So rich and sweet and clear,
With organ fully joined—
In church, or school, was always there
To duty still inclined.

Oh! how we miss them now,
In church and school—elsewhere;
But to God's will we meekly bow,
And wipe the falling tear.

Through grace we'll meet again
On that eternal shore;
And with our Christ forever reign,
Where parting is no more.

Denton Court House.

MR. EDITOR:—Our Court House is getting in a state of dilapidation, and is in need of repair and remodel. At the time it was built it was a model of strength and beauty. The plan is about the same as that of the old state-house in Philadelphia, which is a masterpiece display. Indeed the plan is one in which fine taste was displayed. It would be hard to put up a building in which so little room would be so well disposed of. The front view is that of a large and commodious building. Fine in its day it doubtless was, but it is far behind the needs of the present. The front view is still good, and now that we are going back to the old time architecture, it would be well to retain the front plan of the building. Let it be restored. Then add rooms back of the present building. The two stories might be put into one, thus elevating the ceilings, and making a handsome court-room by extending the present room fifty feet back, with jury rooms and clerk rooms at the sides.

"But we can't do it!" is the cry. Well, why not? Let us just think for a moment of the fact that the county in its poverty of most a hundred years ago could build the present court house and pay for it too; and yet we are told that Caroline county of to-day is too poor to repair the court house.

We have no idea that our plan will be adopted, but we give it all the same. 'Tis as follows: Sell the county offices to the lowest bidders, under bond; put the money into the treasury of the county, and use it to build or improve the county's property. Is it objected that such a plan would not be democratic, and is it at war with our republican institutions? We answer, that it would be in our opinion, much better to do so than to use the profits of the office to buy votes and thus corrupt the manhood of the voters. Is it not an admitted fact that a large share of the profits of the offices goes to buy votes and thus elect the officers? It is said that the clerk's office is worth about three thousand dollars a year. Now a good and competent man could be put under bond for much less than that sum, and the margin be used to rebuild the court house; and the principal cause of bribery at elections be removed.

Sell the offices and use the money to defray the county's expense. This plan would improve the morals of the people and pay the tax-payers. Q.
