Caroline County.

.....Look out for the equinoctial storm.

.....Now is the time to fill up the coal bin.

.....The rail bird will soon be on the table.

.....Republicans turn out to the primaries on Saturday next.

.....A little more "dancing" will be found in another column.

.....Get your shells all loaded by the 21st, and we'll all go railing.

.....Benjamin Trice, near Federalsburg, died on Friday last, aged 35 years.

.....Go to Flowers' in Mansonic hall building and get one of those Key West cigars; 5 cts.

.....Business of almost every kind is on the advance, and the "drummer" begins to drum.

.....We are sorry to report the death of Issaac J. Melvin, late collector of the first district of this county.

.....Public schools for this county began on Monday last. We wish a prosperous year for teachers as well as the scholars.

.....Bishop Lay, of the P. E. diocese of Easton, continues in a critical condition. Hopes of his recovery are not very flattering.

.....Geo. W. Raughley, of Tuckahoe Neck, has just realized $1,300 from four acres of peaches. They were the Crawford's variety.

.....Twenty-two applicants for teachers' certificates presented themselves for examination on Sept. 1st; out of which seventeen were successful.

.....Mrs. T. F. Corkran, of Concord, died of consumption, on Tuesday last, aged about 60 years. She was interred in Denton Cemetery yesterday.

.....The Federalsburg Nanticokes have suffered another glorious (?) defeat. Come now, brace up a little, the "Possum Holler" boys want to give you a brush.

.....Robert Whitby, insane, broke jail Sunday afternoon. He was however, soon captured, but not without his declaring his determination to wage war with brick bats.

.....When in Baltimore don't fail to stop at the Maltby House. Everything first-class; under the management of Col. Geo. P. Mott. This house has attained an enviable reputation.

.....Let every Republican in the county turn out on Saturday at the primary election, and show the choice of the people as to who shall represent them in the nominating convention on Tuesday next.

.....Register Kerr of the third district, entered upon the registration list the names of thirty-nine white and seven colored voters; and the names of forty-seven white and five colored voters were stricken off.

.....Hon. James H. Douglass who was recently nominated to fill the vacancy in the democratic ticket, caused by the resignation of Col. Downes, has declined to serve. Who will now belittle himself by being third choice?

.....Mr. Levi T. Dukes, of Tuckahoe Neck, on Thursday last made a misstep and fell from his wagon, whereby he was rendered senseless for about one hour. He has been confined to the house for several days, but is now recovered sufficiently to be out again.

.....See Chaffinch's "ad" in another column. He has just returned from New York and other cities with the largest stock of goods ever brought to Easton. His fall and winter goods are on hand; also ready-made clothing, carpets, &c. Give him a call and you will be amazed at his low prices.

.....Mr. C. C. Seymour has just returned from the city and has the latest styles and samples. Our tailor should be patronized by not only our citizens, but by those of the county generally. Give him a call; he will fix you up all O. K., and make you Seymour for your money than you ever saw before.

.....Messrs. Satterfield & Moore, for many years large and successful dealers in merchandise at Greensborough, have sold out and are succeeded by A. A. Christian & Co. Mr. Christian, one of the firm, has stood at the helm of the Free Press for about six years and now retires from active work, leaving a very creditable reputation.

.....Mr. Wm. P. Flowers, who some time ago leased the large store room in the Masonic building, has, in addition to a large stock of choice tobacco and cigars, placed in the rear of the room a handsome and costly pool table. This is the latest novelty in Denton. He proposes to make further additions in the way of furnishing the room and keeping nothing but first-class goods, to make his place of business attractive to his customers. Denton needs a few more enterprising men and would then compete with the larger neighboring towns.

Wanted!

A man, of democratic religion, to sacrifice his self-respect and become third choice for the nomination for legislature. He must be liberal-minded, white, blessed with filthy lucre, and of gorman-dizing proclivities. If such a man can be found it would be advisable for him to notify at once the chairman of the Democratic local and State Central Committee.

An Enterprising Merchant.

Mr. O. E. Rochester has just completed the finishing touches to a very apparent and decided improvement in his store-room. A space has been cut out of the upper floor 18x7½ feet; giving spacious room above, both on the sides and at the ends of the opening. A convenient stairway extends above from the centre of the store below. In the upper department of his store, there is a handsome display of queensware, boots and shoes, hats, ready-made clothing &c., &c. All he now needs is to advertise more fully, and abundant success is his.

Reward!

A suitable reward will be given to any one who will give information that will lead to the securing of a democratic candidate for the legislature. One who is neither afraid of being slaughtered by his party, nor of sacrificing his "business interests." His idea of a legislature must coincide with that of the Ring-leaders and Bosses. Any one who will impart such knowledge will no doubt be handsomely rewarded by the chairman of the democratic local and state central committee.

Peninsular Items.

—It is reported that a "fusion" or "independent" ticket will soon be placed in the field in Talbot.

—Col. E. L. Martin, of Seaford, has shipped over 8,000 baskets of peaches this season, and says that he has 6,000 more.

—F. P. Corkran has been appointed postmaster at Williamsburg, vice James H. Williams, removed. Turn the rascals out.

—Jacob Friedel, near Felton, Del., has ten acres in which are planted 1,000 peach trees which cleared him this season $800.

—Notice the prospectus elsewhere of the Delaware State Fair, from which it appears that this exhibition will be the most attractive of all.

—Hon. S. M. Cullom, United States Senator from Illinois, and daughter, spent last Sunday with ex-Senator Groome, at his residence in Elkton.

—The Delaware State Fair to be held at Dover is not far aff. This will be the best exhibition the society has ever offered. Don't fail to attend. See "ad." in another column.

—Tight-lacing may be injurious, but say no more against the corset. A girl's life was saved at Red Bank the other day by a corset steel stopping a bullet fired at her.—Transcript.

—Chas. B. Donovan left his farm near Milford, Del., about three weeks ago, and has not been heard from since; neither has his wife's sister, Elizabeth. "Good-bye Liza Jane."

—Mrs. Catharine Fields, of near Salisbury, Md., has quite a curiosity in the shape of a hen that has four legs. It is in a healthy condition, and seems to use its four limbs with perfect ease when walking. She lays every day.

—A call is announced in Talbot, directed to all voters "who are opposed to Boss Rule and in favor of the best men for office" to meet in Easton on October 3d, next. It is proposed to put up a ticket known as the People's Independent Ticket.

—Randolph Peters, one of the oldest and most successful nurserymen of the State of Delaware, died last Sunday evening at his farm near Wilmington. Mr. Peters stood in the front rank of the nurserymen of the country; he was a valuable and influential citizen.

—One of our young gentlemen in town believes in the "Josh Billing" persuasion, that every young man should go West and he makes a start every evening and gets as near West as he wishes, and then returns to his lonely couch musing how he shall get West.—Enterprise.

—Another prisoner escaped from Georgetown jail last week. If our suggestion of enclosing the jail yard with a wire fence were adopted, prisoners could not get away without leaving a scrap of their pantaloons on the barbs to the Sheriff as a memento of their visit.—Milford News.

—Winder Hastings of M., died on Wednesday near Salisbury, Md., aged 80 years. Mr. Hastings' troubles with his young second wife a year or two ago will be remembered. He kept considerable money about his premises, hidden and sometimes buried. He once buried several thousand dollars in an iron pot which was sunk in a mill pond. It is said that he had money buried in places which had long since been forgotten. He has in the last few years given considerable money to his children by his first wife; at his death had only $10,000 to $12,000 left. On one occasion he bought a farm from a gentleman of Salisbury, and when he came to pay for it, brought the money in a peck basket. It consisted of silver quarters, halves and dollars.—Sun.

—Willie, the 9-year old son of Wm. H. Tarr, living near the depot, about three months ago swallowed a quantity of concentrated lye, and has suffered terribly ever since. He commenced last week to grow rapidly worse, and died Saturday evening in great agony.—Eaton Independent.

—Dr. Henry Ridgely sold a load of peaches at Wyoming, on Wednesday, at $1.31 per basket, that were grown on trees thirty years old, they being planted in 1855. We think this unprecedented in the history of any other grower, both as to price and age of trees.—Dover Sentinel.

—An exchange says newspapers are a necessity now-a-days, and a man might as well subscribe promptly as to put it off on some excuse or other, and be kicked by his own conscience, jawed by the old woman, pestered by the children and laughed at by the neighbors as a man who borrows but never subscribes.

—A very destructive fire occurred on the farm of Zebulon Hopkins, near Farmington, Del., on Saturday morning last about 10 o'clock. Large barn, stable and outbuildings were destroyed, together with 700 bushels of wheat, 500 bushels of corn, two valuable horses, 10 tons of hay, and all his farming implements. Loss $5,000; insured.

—The signs of the times all point unmistakably to the success of the Republican ticket this fall. There is no enthusiasm whatever over the democratic nominations, and prominent members of that party openly declare the ticket to be weak as water, and that it can easily be beaten. Let us strive to improve the opportunity now presented, and go to work in earnest with a determination to present a ticket acceptable to all classes, as far as possible. People are more interested now-a-days in getting good men in office than they are in observing strict party lines, and those who persist in holding on to party above every other consideration will find themselves in a hopeless minority.—Dorchester Era.

Dancing.

MR. EDITOR:—Your report of the Rev. Mr. Ayres sermon on dancing makes him ask the question: "What eminent divine or statesman approves or indulges in the dance?" Does his Reverence mean—to wait until a man becomes eminent before he is an authority—or worthy to be unstated? Well then, no eminent divine dances; for men do not become eminent in divinity and statecraft until after they have passed the dancing age; yet, I remember reading that nearly all the great statesmen of the present day were at the inauguration ball last spring; and further back, of reading that the "Catholic Charity Ball" of Philadelphia was "patronized by the clergy" and the grand march was lead by the Most Rev. —— Bishop of Harrisburgh; I remember several times of seeing that the Rev. H. W. Beecher had attended balls given on State occasions, and I believe that every President from Washington to Cleveland, probably Hayes excepted, gave and attended balls during their administration. I distinctly remember of reading how Gen. Washington on a certain occasion lead the cotillion. Now, possibly Catholic bishops are not eminent divines, or Democratic senators, cabinet officers, foreign ministers and the like, and a whole line of presidents are not eminent statesmen in the Rev. Mr. Ayres opinion. But could not the question be put with more propriety in this shape: "What eminent statesman, scholar, soldier, lawyer, physician or mechanic disapproves of dancing, and did not dance before he reached an age when the indulgence ceased to be a pleasure?" We have never heard of a "great man" disapproving of dancing. As to the class of society that patronize the dance, the gentleman is clearly mistaken; but that no doubt is because of the want of opportunity; a man of unlimited experience could have had but few chances of seeing society except in its uncultivated state.

We don't know just what an intellectual or social "half-cast" is, but there are dances given, even in the country every year that people of dubious social standing are left out, and the people that attend represent the honor, wealth, and intelligence of the community.

A DANCER.

A sluggard from Amsterdam came to the Ant, doing business at that time in the hill country, in order to consider her ways and be wise. He stated his errand. "So you wish to consider my ways?" said the Ant, and then added briskly: "Well, this is one of them." And before the Sluggard could say "scat" the Ant ran up his trousers' leg, and for the ensuing ten minutes he was the most active man outside of the Book of Proverbs. As he ceased from his violent and unwonted exercise, he said he didn't care to consider any more of 'em, as he had just about time to catch the train. And he went home, sold out his Sluggard stock to a telegraph messenger, and entered upon the active duties of private night watchman at a Sunday-school. Thus may we all learn that the weight of the iceman is hard, and whoso is deceived thereby is not wise.

School Books.

MR. EDITOR:—The opening of the public schools has again imposed upon the parents of the pupils the annual book tax. How is it that in other counties they have free schools in fact and not merely in name? Books as well as tuition are free, while here in Caroline, the parent is compelled to put his hand in his pocket and pay a book-tax?

The people pay the taxes by which the books are purchased and then they are taxed again to pay for the books which are paid for out of the school fund. The tax-payer pays twice for the same article. Is this fair, honest and right?

AN INQUIRER.

—Republican primaries on Saturday next; and don't you forget it!

The Tree Pedler.

How doth the busy nurseryman
Improve each shining hour,
And peddle scions, sprouts and seeds
From every shrub and flower.

How busily he wags his chin,
How neat he spreads his store;
And sells us things that never grew,
And won't grow any more.

Who showed the little man the way
To sell the women seed?
Who taught him how to blow and lie,
To coax, to beg and plead.

He taught himself, the nurseryman,
And when his day is done—
We'll plant him where lank rank weeds
Lie wilting in the sun.

But, oh! although we plant him deep
Beneath the buttercup;
He's so much like the seed he sold
He never will come up.

Fashionable Kissing.

Eli Perkins says: I have been investigating a fashionable woman's kiss lately and find it to be an empty delusion. It is a flimsy fraud. I find women do not kiss at all. When our party left Saratoga to come to the Sagamore, I watched 15 fashionable young ladies as they "kissed their lady friends good-bye," but there was not one genuine kiss in the entire crowd. The young ladies walked up to each other, held noses on ears, and cheeks on cheeks for two seconds, then gently separated like two billiard balls. There was no osculation and no smack. They were all cold, billiard-ball kisses. Such kisses may suit women, but they are not the kisses to suit man. A man would not be a party to any such deception. Think of a young man going 10 miles to see his sweetheart, and, when he kissed her good-bye, was foolish enough to simply touch her cheek and hold his for two seconds against her ear.

Business Locals.

Acute rheumatism is an inflammation of the joints, marked by pain, heat, and redness. With these symptoms apply Salvation Oil, the great pain-cure at once. Price 25 cents a bottle.

Nothing tries the patience of a man more than to listen to a hacking cough, which he knows could easily be cured with Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

"When we two parted, I felt that I had taken cold," said Thomas Takeintime, "and next morning I was hoarse indeed. But a 25 cent bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup fixed me up."

Contentious women are slaves to headache; but twenty-five cents spent for a bottle of Salvation Oil will restore harmony in the household.
